PASTOR AND GIRL DROWNED AFTER SAVING TWO LIVES

When Delegate to Arcadia, Mo., Conference Dies, Total of Fatalities to St. Louisans Goes to Five.

BODY OF NOTED FLY FISHERMAN FOUND

Frederick Simpson, 29, Celebrating Two Anniversaries, Sinks in River as Family Looks on.

Miss Ida Ricketts, 19 years old, of 4580A Wichita avenue, delegate to the Methodist Annual Conference at Arcadia, Mo., drowned this afternoon in Lake Killarney, near Junction, with a Methodist minister who struggled for several minutes to bring her to shore.

The minister was the Rev. C. C. Pfeifer of Doniphan, Mo., also a delegate. He had gone in search of members of the party, who said they were going swimming, when he heard cries for help. A woman and a boy were in difficulties in the lake, in which there is a deep hole, and Miss Ricketts was attempting to save them.

Pfeifer, who was 40 years old, plunged into the water and seized the boy. He got him to shore, at the same time assisting the woman. With both safely ashore, he returned for Miss Ricketts, who was crying for help in the deep water. She stretched out an arm as he approached and the two went down together.

The bodies were recovered a quarter of an hour later.

Boy Drowns in Mississippi While on Swimming Party.

Swimming with several other boys in the Mississippi River at the foot of Quincy street, Elmo Sanders, 10 years old, was seized with cramps and drowned at 3:45 p. m. today. The body did not rise to the surface. He was the son of Charles E. and Helen Sanders of 2324A South Broadway. Police dragged for the body but did not recover it.

George Ashton Drowned In the Meramec River.

The body of George Ashton, regarded as one of the best fly fishermen in the St. Louis district, who drowned yesterday in the Meramec River near St. Clair, Franklin County, was recovered at 8:25 a. m. today, 24 hours after the drowning.

Accompanied by a friend, C. C. Cherbonnier of St. Louis, and a Mr. Houston Lewis of St. Clair, Ashton left a camp at Shady Beach, five miles south of St. Clair, for a day's fishing. At a point where the current was swift, the guide jumped out of the rowboat to pull it over a shoal. He slipped, and the boat overturned with Ashton and Cherbonnier each clinging to an end.

Ashton caught hold of a floating log and called on Cherbonnier to do likewise. Cherbonnier did so. But Ashton lost his grip and sank, despite the efforts of Cherbonnier and the guide to save him. His body was found a mile away.

Ashton was 65 years old and lived at 4458 Washington boulevard.

Ashton had been in the grocery business 40 years, beginning as a salesman and later operating what was said to be the first chain of retail groceries in St. Louis.

War Veteran Loses Life Celebrating Two Anniversaries.

The Meramec River is being dragged for the body of Frederick Simpson, 29 years old, who drowned yesterday afternoon near Arnold, four miles upstream from Valley Park. It was his twenty-fifth birthday and eighth wedding anniversary yesterday afternoon.

His wife and daughters—Barbara, 5, and Eleanor, 4—were on the bank when he disappeared from view in the middle of the river.

Catholic Student for Priesthood Drowned on Vacation.

The Rev. Ferdinand Keeven, 26 years old, of Florissant, was drowned yesterday in the Wisconsin River near Prairie du Chien, Wis., where he was spending the summer.

He began studying for the priesthood in 1920 when he entered St. Stanislaus at Florissant after being graduated from St. Louis University High School.

Funeral services will be at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the Sacred Heart Church at Florissant with interment in St. Stanislaus Cemetery. He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Keeven of Florissant, a brother, Harry, and two sisters, Mrs. George Moellering and Miss Alice Keeven.

Vatican Assails 'Moral Poison' in American Movies

Editorial in Papal Organ Says 'Watch Out for So-Called Educational Films' Preaching Dollar Supremacy.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 22.—A warning to Europeans to defend themselves against the influence of American educational moving pictures is uttered in an editorial in the Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican.

The editorial says these pictures are spreading ideas constituting a "moral poison" capable of having seriously deleterious effects on European civilization.

"Watch out for these so-called educational films by which America presumes not only to amuse but to instruct us," says the editorial. "America is a very great country whose uncontested dollar superiority has made it think is possesses also spiritual superiority. Certain American tendencies, furnished with exceptional gifts of practicality, which consider force as a philosophy and the aphorisms of Henry Ford as criticisms of pure reason, can be adaptable to certain too modern mentalities. But for our part we find them very defective.

"Americans have built monstrous houses of 50 or more stories which scrape the skies, but when America was yet unknown we built our cathedrals. This old Europe, whose soil is made of the glorious remains of 10 civilizations, cannot easily renounce its past to accept blindly an improvised civilization beyond the sea.

"Thus we consider dangerous for our civilization the ever-spreading influence of the Hollywood movies. Knowingly, or not, they are spreading a moral poison which can cause us serious consequences. Let us take off the yoke which they are trying to place upon us."

After references to "dollar kings" and the "industrialization of intelligence," the newspaper concludes with an admonition to Americans to retain material primacy, but "we for our part want to maintain that of the spirit."

WOMEN MAY SMOKE ON DUTY IN MARINE CORPS OFFICE

Gen. Lane Isn't Encouraging the Habit But Merely Discouraging Puffs in Secret.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The right to smoke cigarettes as they sit at their desks has been extended to the marinettes, as the women employes of the Marine Corps are called, but not one has exercised the new privilege.

For some time it has been an open secret that some of Uncle Sam's women employes occasionally slip away from their desks to enjoy a secret puff. Brigadier-General Rufus H. Lane, Adjutant-Inspector of the Marine Corps, after declaring he would rather have employes smoke in the open rather than in secret, posted the order: "Women in this office may smoke at their desks if they want to."

Gen. Lane said he did not seek to encourage the habit but believed women should have the same rights as men.

OXYGEN FORCED INTO LUNGS KEEPS CHILD ALIVE TWO WEEKS

Chicago Doctor Thinks 2½-Year-Old Boy, Ill With Pneumonia, May Recover.

CHICAGO, July 22.—By the use of oxygen Dr. Sheppard Remington has for two weeks kept alive a two and one-half year old child, ill with pneumonia. Albert Katzen, infant son of a furniture dealer, was stricken three weeks ago. A week later his lungs became so greatly congested as to almost stop breaching. Dr. Remington administered oxygen through a tube forced into the lungs by way of the throat. Five days ago this method failed and general infection seemed to develop. A section of the child's ribs at the back was cut away and oxygen by means of a needle was forced into the collapsed lungs.

Yesterday the baby's lungs appeared to be clearing. Dr. Remington said. He thinks there is a possibility that the child will recover.

MRS. EDITH M'CORMICK TESTIFIES IN SUIT

Denies Backing Chicago Realty Co. Which Is Her Exclusive Agent.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, possibly Chicago's richest woman, kept a 10 o'clock engagement this morning and testified before the real estate board of the State Department of Registration and Education.

She denied she was financially interested in the real estate firm of Krenn & Dato, but said she had authorized it to advertise itself as exclusive agents for her extensive properties.

The matter involved is the effort of A. B. Allen, broker, to force cancellation of the State license issued to Krenn & Dato.

Mrs. McCormick was asked if she knew that representations had been made that she was "back of Krenn & Dato with millions of dollars," and that "relying on it Mrs. Allen invested her last $17,000 in the Devonshire Building (a co-operative apartment building) and lost it."

"I do not," Mrs. McCormick replied.

"Is the commission right in the assumption that you are conversant with the fact Krenn & Dato advertised themselves as sole agents for your property?" asked Henry Carr, a member of the committee.

"That's right; they are," Mrs. McCormick responded.

Mrs. McCormick seemed to enjoy the examination and at the end of it shook hands with a dozen committeemen and lawyers. She then walked out into a corridor where she faced a battery of newspaper cameras.

Edwin Krenn, young Swiss architect, member of the firm of Krenn & Dato, has been seen much in Mrs. McCormick's company since she was divorced from Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the Board of the International Harvester Co., several years ago.

Mrs. McCormick is understood to have brought Krenn to Chicago to draw the plans for an extensive outdoor zoo in which animals would be shown in likenesses of their natural surroundings, and which she intended to give to Chicago.

INTENDED VICTIM KILLS ROBBER

Filling Station Holdup Foiled When Attendant Shoots.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 22.—A robber was killed early today in a filling station by the attendant after two men entered and attempted to hold him up. The second man escaped. O. M. Mullins, the attendant at a station at Seventeenth street and the Paseo, was closing the station at 1 o'clock when the two men drove up in a car and forced him to open the door. "Get inside and give us the money," one said. While the men were searching the safe, Mullins drew his revolver and commanded them to put up their hands.

One of the robbers resisted. Mullins fired. The other man grappled with him and then fled. A letter bearing the name of Joe C. Cavin, Springfield, Mo., was found in the slain robber's pocket.

GOVERNOR VISITS SACCO, VANZETTI AT STATE PRISON

SACCO ABANDONS HOPE, WIFE SAYS

Pair Continue Their Hunger Strike, Begun Last Sunday, but Apparently Are in Good Condition.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 22.—Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, in whose hands, with the consent of the Executive Council, lies the pardoning power, visited the State prison today and interviewed Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, under sentence of death for murder. He also talked with Celestino Madeiros, awaiting electrocution for another murder, who has said that members of a gang with which he was associated and not Sacco and Vanzetti committed the murders of which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted.

In the office of Warden William Hendry, who was present during the interviews, the Governor first talked for 15 minutes with Madeiros and then for the same length of time with Sacco. Then Vanzetti was called in.

Vanzetti as he entered the office had in his hand two or three sheets of paper, apparently covered with notes. It was evident that he had more to say to the Governor than the other two prisoners.

It was the first time that Sacco and Vanzetti, whose case has echoed through several continents, had seen daylight since they were taken to the State prison from the Dedham jail the first of this month.

Hunger Strike Continues.

In spite of their hunger strike, which has continued since Sunday morning, they appeared to be in good physical condition and walked with a firm step. The strike was begun as a protest against what the men considered excessive secrecy surrounding the Governor's personal investigation into their case, the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee has announced.

As the men were taken from their cells, one by one, each was accompanied by a Deputy Warden and a prison guard. They were not handcuffed.

Circulars signed by the Defense Committee, saying that the committee has chosen Sunday, July 31, as the date for "an international protest" against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, were distributed in Massachusetts today. They called on friends of the two men to assemble on that day. The committee has applied for a permit to hold a parade in Boston on July 31.

Sacco Had Given Up Hope.

Twenty-four hours before the visit of the Governor, Sacco had told his wife he had given up hope. Mrs. Sacco visited the prison yesterday.

"If the Governor's hearings were public that might give him courage, but he feels the secrecy is a bad sign," she said.

The advisory committee named to make an independent investigation and report on the case will hear arguments of counsel representing State and defense Monday. The members are President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, President Samuel Stratton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and former Judge Robert Grant of the probate court.

Costa Rican Paper Urges Governor to Save Both Men.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 22.—A plea for the lives of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, under sentence of death for murder, has been sent to Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts by the newspaper Diario de Costa Rica. The fate of these two men, the paper says, is a "matter of life or death for American relations — commercial and otherwise—with the Latin-American nations and other nations of the world."

"The Nicaraguan situation," it adds, "created a state of mind in Latin-America which is not the least favorable for the United States, but this affair of Sacco and Vanzetti does not only affect Latin-America, but many other countries of the world.

"Taking all this Pan-Americanism, we beg of you to sign the decree that would spare the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti and increase the world's appreciation of the United States."

$300,000,000 TAX CUT PROPOSED BY SENATOR SMOOT

LEVY ON AUTOS WOULD BE HALVED

President Agrees for First Time to Pose for Photographers on One of His Fishing Trips.

By the Associated Press.

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 22.—Reduction of taxes applying on this year's income which would be paid beginning March 15, 1928 appears probable.

This proposal is included in a tax reduction plan outlined yesterday to President Coolidge by Senator Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, chairman of the finance committee.

The administration is prepared to go ahead with the tax cutting at the next session and Senator Smoot expressed the view that at least $300,000,000 of the annual burden of Federal levies could be lopped off by the new measure.

Urges Extra Session.

The desire for early enactment of the proposed tax revision legislation is another reason in the opinion of the Utah Senator for an early special session of Congress, beginning about Nov. 1, a month ahead of the regular meeting of Congress. This is the second time Smoot has suggested an extra session. It would be necessary to have the tax bill made law before March 15, if the tax proposal is to go through. Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee, which will write the first draft of the measure, is preparing to call his committee this fall.

While little additional relief is in sight for the income tax payers, the program of Senator Smoot would cut the taxes of persons with incomes between $15,000 and $60,000. Present normal rates of 1½ per cent on the $4000 income; three per cent on the next $4000 income and five per cent on all over that appear destined to be continued along with the present exemptions of $3500 for married persons and $1500 for single persons.

Relief for Corporations.

Corporations which have received no cut in their normal taxes in recent years seem most likely to get the lion's share of relief. Senator Smoot favors reducing this levy from 13½ per cent to 12 per cent, which he estimates would eat up $150,000,000 of the prospective reduction.

Miscellaneous levies also would be wiped out in the Senator's program, including those on admissions and dues. However, he would continue the automobile tax, cutting it from three per cent to 1½ per cent.

To Pose as Fisherman.

Since July 8, 1926, when Mr. Coolidge first took to fishing at White Pine Camp, New York, he has been deaf to pleas of photographers to permit a fishing picture of him, but it is said authoritatively now that the President has succumbed to their entreaties and will permit a picture or two next Saturday when he goes to the McKelvie camp near Mystic for a day's angling in Rapid Canyon Creek.

An indication that the President is in no hurry to get back to Washington is apparent in the summer White House announcement that John Coolidge, the President's son, is expected Aug. 16, for a three weeks' visit.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—Thomas Cellocuci, 27 years old, died early today as the result of a blow delivered by a friend demonstrating Jack Dempsey's punch that knocked out Jack Sharkey.

Cellocuci and John Derogatis, 20, after listening to radio reports of the bout, disagreed as to the nature of the knockout blow, and began to demonstrate. Cellocuci sent a short right to Derogatis' head and the latter countered with a left to the stomach and a right to the head. Cellocuci fell backward, his head striking the pavement, fracturing his skull.

He caught it in Grace Coolidge Creek on an expedition with Cecil Gideon.

SCHOOLEY UNCOVERS UNDERCOVER AGENT

Negro Prohibition Worker Forced to Take Stand Against Attorney.

A Negro undercover prohibition agent was uncovered by Roy Shcooley, St. Louis County attorney under 10-year sentence for participation in the robbery of the Citizens' Bank of Festus, Mo., Sept. 25, 1926, when Schooley was arraigned today before United States Commissioner Atkins on charges of sale and possession of intoxicating liquor.

In spite of the protests of James Dillon, group chief, that his usefulness as an undercover agent in St. Louis would be destroyed if he were called to testify, V. M. Gamble, a light-skinned, nattily dressed Negro, was forced to repeat his story, that he had bought a half-pint of "white mule" from Schooley at the latter's home, 1246 Sutter avenue, Wellston, June 2.

Gamble, it was disclosed after the hearing, is the husband of Elizabeth Slaughter Gamble, Republican committee woman and operator of a beauty parlor at 3001 Lawton avenue. He has been on the St. Louis force nearly a year. Although numerous search warrants have been based on evidence he gathered, this was his first public appearance.

Gamble said Schooley told him he was not selling liquor, but would get a half pint for him through a bootlegger. On this testimony, Schooley insisted, the Government did not have a case against him, but Commissioner Atkins ordered him bound over to the grand jury under $1000 bond.

On the strength of Gamble's report that he had purchased the liquor, a search warrant was issued. Later in the day, Dillon and several agents went to Schooley's home to serve the warrant.

Dillon testified Mrs. Schooley, who appeared at the hearing with her husband, was standing in the door of their home at Wellston when he and other Federal agents drew up in an automobile to make their raid. But the automobile skidded, Dillon related, and went 20 feet past the door. By the time they had returned, he said, Mrs. Schooley had locked the door.

When they forced it open, Dillon said, they found her turning away from the kitchen sink. Dillon said they found in the sink three jugs, two of which had been emptied. The third, he added, still contained bout six ounces of liquor.

Schooley was in the back yard sawing wood when the agents arrived, according to the testimony.

ADAMS MURDER CASE TO GO TO JURY TOMORROW

Attorney Argues There Never Has Been Hanging in County and Should Not Be Three Now.

NEWMAN'S COUNSEL READS FROM BIBLE

By FREDERICK H. BRENNAN, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., July 22.—Tacit expectancy of a verdict of guilty, a plea for mercy and an attack on the credibility of State's witnesses characterized the closing arguments for Charlie Birger, Ray Hyland and Art Newman by their attorneys in court today.

In the shadow of the gallows, their lips sealed by a decision to offer no testimony, the three gangsters virtually threw themselves on the mercy of the jury which will decide their guilt or innocence in the conspiracy which took the life of Mayor Joe Adams of West City.

Case to the Jury Tomorrow.

The case will go to the jury tomorrow.

During a brief forenoon recess, Birger and Judge Miller, chanced to meet in an ante-room. Birger, naming one of the witnesses for the State, said: "Why, Judge, you know that fellow is nothing but a ——!"

Judge Miller said: "Let's talk about the prize fight, Charlie."

The gangster replied: "Well, Judge, you've been very fair, and if I go down I'll go down smiling without any hard feelings."

"The State's evidence stands unimpeached and undenied," said H. R. Dial, counsel for Hyland, who opened today's arguments. "But does the State want blood? Does the State want three lives in revenge for one? I thought we wanted an end to bloodshed in Southern Illinois.

"The populace is crying for the blood of these defendants," he shouted. "The courtroom crowd wants them hanged. But even if this jury finds the defendants guilty, it is not your duty, gentlemen, to give the death penalty.

"Is it blood you want? Never in the history of this county, so far as I can remember, has a man been hanged for the crime of murder. A hanging verdict would put State's Attorney Martin in line for the Attorney-Generalship, but do you want to further his political ambition with the lives of these defendants?

"Who are the men who told you Ray Hyland is guilty? One is in the penitentiary for life and the other is in jail. The men who have testified against the defendants are convicts and criminals.

"Hyland has admitted all the complicity he had in this case. He was tricked by Harry Thomasson into driving the murderers' car. He did not know there was a murder plot afoot. It may be that Ray Hyland has done things he ought not to have done, but he is not guilty of this crime. If you cannot believe him innocent, then be merciful. Temper justice with mercy."

Karch Addresses the Jury.

Attorney Charles Karch for Birger then addressed the jury. "I want the jury to see the testimony in this case in its true light," he began. "Let's get rid of some of this smoke. The State's Attorney is not a person; he is an institution. The great general public is a mass; it acts in mass. When a crime is committed this mass opinion is an exterior force working upon the State's Attorney. It will move him to prosecute cases on the border line where the evidence is so slight the guilt of the defendants is extremely unlikely.

"There have been loads of testimony for the State," Karch continued. "But you, gentlemen of the jury, have the right to demand quality as well as quantity. The two chief witnesses against Birger have by their testimony shown

ENEMIES SWORN TO 'UNLOAD ON HIM'

Advisers Told Him to Hold His Tongue—Besides, He Is Needed as Witness in Other Cases.

By FREDERICK H. BRENNAN,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., July 22.—Rising above the closing arguments of defense attorneys today and the demand of State's Attorney Martin for a death verdict against Charlie Birger, Ray Hyland and Art Newman for conspiracy in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City is the hidden drama of how the three gangsters are gambling with the hangman.

A swift change of front yesterday which sealed the lips of Birger and his co-defendants after their lawyers had announced each would take the stand in his own defense was brought about by behind-the-scenes maneuvering. The defendants are depending solely upon lawyers' voices to save them from the gallows. Attorneys Dial, Karch, Smith and Dillon are arguing for the defense and Martin will close for the State.

The defense lawyers, without presenting a bit of testimony to back their words, rely upon "the reasonable doubt" argument, a plea for mercy and an attack on the credibility of State's witnesses. This is the defense Birger and Hyland and Newman elected to make with their lives in the balance.

Inside Story of Maneuvering.

Why they chose to remain silent makes the inside story of the Adams murder trial. It was the result of bluff and counterbluff, juggling of legal technicalities and a situation of peculiar legal delicacy, at the center of which was Newman.

Newman, after saying repeatedly during the two weeks of the trial that he would take the stand and tell the truth about the murder conspiracy, backed out at the last minute. Wednesday night he had given a statement to the correspondent outlining the main points of his story. It was a confession that the plot had existed and that Birger was the man who bought and paid for the murder of Adams. Newman did not shield himself entirely, admitting that he knew of the plot and took a passive part in it, but he insisted that he dared not lift a hand to halt the murder because the Birger gang would have killed him.

Such was Newman's story out of court, yet he sits today silent while the State charges him with an active part in the murder, accuses him of ordering the bullets poisoned and split, and of saying the murder was "a clever trick." These are the accusations bellowed at the jury which by tomorrow will hold the fate of Newman, Birger and Hyland.

State Didn't Need Newman.

The most curious element of the situation is that the State, which might be supposed to want Newman to talk, did not want him to take the stand, and the lawyers for Hyland and Birger, just as incongruously, were anxious to have him on the stand.

Former Judge W. F. Dillon of Benton is Newman's lawyer, appointed by the court to defend Newman as a penniless prisoner. Friends saw to it that two more lawyers acted as an unofficial board of strategy for the Newman defense. The problem before those who were advising Newman was to save his life without permitting him to wreck the State's case.

In the first place, the State did not need Newman as a witness. State's Attorney Martin had a well nigh complete line of evidence for the prosecution without him. But if Newman had taken the stand and turned on Birger as he wanted to do, the Birger defense would have gained an almost certain cause of reversal in the Supreme Court. Newman would have been an "antagonistic co-defendant" and prejudicial to a fair trial for Birger.

Needed for Other Trials.

Another reason why the State did not want Newman on the stand is that several county prosecutors in Southern Illinois expect to use him as a witness in clearing up other murders and robberies laid to the Birger gang. Newman has demonstrated uncanny convincingness as a witness on the stand. But in the cold reasoning of law enforcement officials Newman with a rope around his neck or facing a life term will be of more value than if he had pulled himself out of this trial with a short penitentiary sentence. There was a feeling among Newman's advisers that silence now will make him more talkative later on. Friends have told him that no matter what happens to him before this jury he will have a chance for clemency later on.

Feared He'd Talk Too Much.

There was a fear on the part of Newman's legal advisers that should he take the stand in mutual recriminations with Birger he might so blacken his own record that it could not be looked upon with favor by those from whom clemency will be sought after the trial.

Moreover, Newman might have proved an unmanageable witness and branched into matters which State authorities are not ready to take up at this time.

The word that was carried to Newman yesterday before he made his decision not to testify went about like this: "Do not take the stand, and if you get the death penalty you will have friends; take the stand and damage the State's case and you will have no friends. Probably you will not be able to talk yourself out of a death penalty anyway, and if you stand to lose either way it is better to have friends than none."

A defense strategist on the Birger-Hyland staff was heard to remark yesterday to newspapermen in the courtroom, "We wanted Newman to take the stand." Strategy, however, was to pretend great fear of Newman's story, to make motions for a severance and a new trial based upon the threat of it and to try to lure the prosecution into saying the word which would have sent the little gangster to the witness chair.

The defense might have gained two points had Newman taken the stand. It would have had ground for a reversal and an opportunity to present testimony in rebuttal designed to throw full blame for the murder on Newman.

The show-down came yesterday when the defense for Birger argued a motion to continue the trial and withdraw a juror—actually to gain a new trial—on the ground that Newman's intention to take the stand against Birger was a surprise.

"You say you are surprised," Judge Miller commented. "I am surprised. Motion overruled."

Previous to this he had in a lengthy discussion of the motion pointed out that Birger's counsel was pleading surprise over an attitude on Newman's part which the defense had known and described at the start of the trial when moving for a severance.

Defense Outbluffs Newman.

Then, to throw a bluff into Newman and get his dander up and to tease the prosecution into passing the word which would have made Newman a witness in his own defense, Birger and his lawyers marched into an ante room with Newman and isued an ultimatum. "Take the stand," they said, "and in rebuttal we will put Birger on the stand. He will say he was not at 'Shady Rest' when the killing was planned. He has five witnesses ready to swear that he wasn't there but that you and Connie Ritter were. We'll unload on you."

The little gangster was all for springing up and going out to wage a war of words with Birger before the jury, but Dillon calmed him down and pleaded with him not to take the stand.

Last night at the jail Newman sat in a cell with his wife. She had been weeping. She had wanted her husband to make a break for the witness stand. During the day while Assistant State's Attorney Glenn was demanding the death penalty and reciting testimony damaging to Newman she had writhed and shed many tears. Why had he sat silent under it? Why had he not told the jury it wasn't so?

Newman himself was bewildered. He had received no promises of clemency. He had received no word from the prosecution. The State was bearing down hard upon him.

Has Faith in His Lawyer.

But in his cell, on the eve of a possible death verdict against him, with his story untold, he had recourse to this speech:

"My lawyer, Mr. Dillon, told me not to talk. I've got all kinds of faith in that man. He's honest and he wouldn't steer me wrong. He thinks it is best. Shucks! If I had my way I'd get up there and tell that jury just how it was, but Dillon made me promise. He said, 'Art, don't take the stand,' and I'm trusting that man with my life."

Gang Defense Lawyers Who Are Arguing for Clients' Lives

Lawyers Ask for Mercy For Birger and His Pals

At this point Karch read to the jury the law concerning the testimony of accomplices and prescribing that jurors should take into account whether such witnesses have been offered some gain for testifying.

"The law says," Karch shouted, "that you should look upon such tainted testimony with the utmost caution."

Birger followed his lawyer closely and smiled satisfaction at Karch's forceful gesturing over some point. Hyland was subdued today and seemed to be realizing for the first time the seriousness of the situation. Newman was saturnine and thoughtful.

"No chain is stronger than its weakest link," said Karch, "and no murder case is stronger than its weakest point.

"If Charlie Birger did not do anything before the Thomasson boys left 'Shady Rest' for Joe Adams' house, he is not guilty of this crime. He is an accessory before the fact, or he is innocent. Now, what have you on that subject? All you know is what was said and done Saturday night in the west room of 'Shady Rest' by Connie Ritter, Art Newman, Charlie Birger and the Thomasson boys, and Ray Hyland. Rone didn't know. You haven't heard a word from anyone except Harry Thomasson.

"Now if Charlie Birger was not there that night, or if, being there, the words quoted by Harry Thomasson were not said, Charlie is not guilty. Even if he took the Thomasson boys with him after the shooting and hid them in his house and stood at bay with machine guns and defied the law to take them, he would not be guilty of Joe Adams' murder."

Lawyer Mixed Up on Names.

Karch then launched a bitter attack on Harry Thomasson.

"Why that Ray Hyland knows more devilry than Charlie Birger, if he lived to be 100," Karch thundered.

"Thomasson's life is one of criminality and depravity. He is so low that he took a girl of his own age and lived with her."

"You cannot, gentlemen of the jury, take one day of these defendants' liberty, much less talk about taking their bodies on the testimony of Harry Thomasson."

Dial had talked for an hour from 8:30 until 9:30. Karch began at 9:30 and spoke until 10:25, when court recessed briefly.

Karch Again After Recess.

Resuming after the recess, Karch said:

"The State contends it is not possible for Thomasson to have made up the story out of whole cloth. I got Harry Thomasson to say from the witness stand that he actually believes Charlie Birger blew up 'Shady Rest' cabin and killed his brother, Elmo. Now that would seem to be enough to cause anyone to color his testimony."

"Where does the hanging part of this case come in?" Karch shouted.

"There has never been a hanging in Franklin County. The State's Attorney is asking you 12 men to go down in history as having voted for the first and last hanging in Franklin County."

"If Birger wanted to kill Joe Adams he would have done the job himself. Birger, as pointed by the State, would not be any long-range and by-proxy killer. He wouldn't trust any silly boys. Joe Adams was a feudist but he has been pictured otherwise by Gus Adams. Well, Gus ought to do that much for his brother.

"Charlie Birger can't be all bad. The cold hard law may hold that account should be taken of his wife and children. But, gentlemen, the curtain will soon swing down. The spectators will go home and forget about this case. I will go home and remember it dimly. But, gentlemen, when you go home you will carry a memory that will stay with you forever. I want to guard you against that plea coming from the State's Attorney. You must steel yourselves against it."

In conclusion Karch painted a word picture of the remorse which he said the jurors would suffer if they voted to hang Birger. Newman and Hyland.

"That hanging would hound you throughout the remaining days of your life," Karch said. He had talked for an hour and 35 minutes.

Following Karch's argument court recessed two hours for luncheon.

Court Warns Spectators.

Upon opening the afternoon session Judge Miller warned spectators against laughter or any display of emotion.

Speaking in defense of Art Newman, former Judge W. F. Dillon, his attorney, declared:

"These men have erred, but they are human. They are not wild beasts. They are men. When I was appointed by the Court to defend Mr. Newman I was referred to as the 72-year-old lawyer defending Newman. I do not think my age is a detriment to my client.

"It is not a pleasant thing for a lawyer to be called into cases like this, but I have known Mr. Newman for three weeks now. I have sat with him in his cell. He has been to my office. I say, knowing him, that I am pleased to be associated with him."

Dillon then opened a Bible and read from it the passage of the Mosaic law prescribing death for those guilty of adultery. He next read to the jury the passage in the New Testament where Christ tells the woman taken in adultery to go and sin no more.

"The State of Illinois provides by law that those guilty of murder may be put to death," Dillon said, "but who is without sin among you?"

The burden of his speech was a plea for leniency. He asked the jury to search their hearts and admit their own faults and be merciful.

"This poor innocent young boy, Harry Thomasson," mocked Dillon, "who was living with a woman not his wife and skulking in the bushes to hide from the Sheriff, was the State's star witness. He disguised his name and lived within a few blocks of Joe Adams. He was the only man who really wanted to kill Joe Adams.

Says Birger was Only Bluffing.

"Charlie Birger was bluffing to kill Joe Adams when he drove up in front of Joe Adams' house and pointed a machine gun at Joe," Dillon conitnued. "If Charlie had wanted to kill Adams he would have killed right there. Charlie and Joe bluffed about killing each other, but lots of men do that."

The attorney pointed out that the State had presented no evidence to show Elmo Thomasson had a pistol or fired any of the shots which struck Joe Adams.

"I'd like to know whether Harry or Elmo killed him," Dillon went on, "and Harry Thomasson said he didn't know whether he hit Adams or not. I'd like to see the gun Elmo was supposed to have used. You heard talk of poisoned bullets, but there has been no evidence to show those bullets were fired into Joe Adams."

He stressed the point that Newman was not quoted by any State's witness as having voiced any threats against Adams.

Checking over the State's evidence, Dillon said: "The testimony shows that Art Newman and Charlie Birger were with Ray Hyland and the Thomasson boys after the murder. If the jury believes that, then find them guilty of being accessories after the fact and send them to the penitentiary.

"I am saying nothing about the State's Attorney of this county, but someone trained the State's witnesses. Why, Harry Thomasson had learned his story by heart. It was waterproof. He said in one breath that he believed Birger had killed his brother, Elmo, and in the next that he had no ill feeling."

"Do you believe that, gentlemen of the jury? Why if some one killed my brother I would want him to hang. Without the testimony of Harry Thomasson this case falls to the ground. Harry Thomasson is a mean skulker in the bushes, a criminal. Are you going to hang these three men on his testimony?

"Three men's lives are hanging in the balance on the story Thomasson told you with his hands stained with blood of that dastardly deed. Do you believe him? He fixed up his story to get out of Pontiac. He came here to get them hanged. Maybe he will get out of the penitentiary.

Conclusion of Dillon.

"If you don't look out," Dillon warned in conclusion, "this State's Attorney will dope you men until you sign the death verdict. He will get you to hang these men by their necks until their tongues stick out and they are dead, dead, dead. He is an able prosecutor and will dope you if he can."

Dillon then illustrated to the jury by using a chair in the courtroom how men are put in the electric chair and executed. He then reminded the jury that the present Illinois law provides electrocution in capital cases, but that the penalty for Birger, Newman and Hyland would be exercised under the old law in effect at the time of Joe Adams' murder, namely, hanging. He said hanging was cruel.

Robert Smith, chief of Birger counsel, closed for the defense. He took up the general tone of the other speeches, but in considerably louder voice. Smith began speaking at 3:30 p. m. and with the day thus filled, it now appears that the jury cannot get the case before the middle of tomorrow afternoon.

Defense's Closing Argument.

"Sheriff Pritchard told you about the hards roads," Smith said. "Does that make Charlie Birger guilty? Sheriff Coleman of Williamson County told you Birger made and sold liquor at 'Shady Rest.' Does that make Birger guilty?

"Mrs. Joe Adams said she saw some boys run from her house after shooting her husband. Martin wants you to hang Charlie Birger because Mrs. Adams saw two boys run fro mAdams' house. Marguerite Rhodes told you she saw Ray Hyland in her yard the morning of Dec. 12. Does that make Charlie Birger guilty of murder? Put all this evidence on the side of the people. Does that mean Birger should be hanged?

"I'm defending Birger without apologizing for it. They want you to hang Birger on the testimony of Harry Thomasson. He kept his woman at the home of the unsuspecting Mrs. Rhodes. I think they should hang Harry Thomasson for his damnable conduct.

State Demands the Death Penalty; Two of Defense Counsel Heard.

At yesterday afternoon's session three arguments were made, the first by Assistant State's Attorney Nealy Glenn, and the others by Scerial Thompson and Forrest Goodfellow, of Birger's counsel.

Glenn cited the Illinois law which provides that the jury must fix the punishment, if the defendants are found guilty.

"The law governing conspiracy," said Glenn, "holds that men who instigate a murder are equally guilty with the one who pulls the trigger. This case, gentlemen of the jury, warrants the extreme penalty for these descendants.

"The people are demanding a death penalty in this case," Glenn roared at the jury. "We have a law in Franklin County. We may not be able to keep men from murder, but we can bring them to justice if they kill. We have men here who have the nerve to hang these men by the necks until they are dead."

The man who pulled the trigger, Harry Thomasson, having pleaded guilty and now serving a life sentence, had testified for the State that Birger decreed the murder of Mayor Adams and had ordered him and his brother, Elmo, to kill Adams. Elmo was killed in the explosion last January at "Shady Rest." Birger's fortified roadhouse near Marion, and Harry on the stand asserted Birger had the cabin blown up to kill Elmo.

"What word did Charlie Birger send to Joe Adams?" Glenn shouted. "He said, you tell that big dough-bellied — — we're going to kill him before Saturday night. And that — — little Franklin County law isn't going to stop us."

"Newman was Birger's aid and Hyland his henchman," Glenn reminded the jury.

"Birger is 44 years old, Newman is 38 years old and Hyland is 37. The evidence shows that these men picked Harry Thomasson, 19, and Elmo, 17, to kill Joe Adams. Think of it! These men sent two orphan boys to do a murder."

Frequently as Glenn spoke, he flung in the phrase, "And this is not denied by anyone here," reminding the jury that the gangsters had not taken the stand, or presented contrary evidence.

The State's case came in for a detailed review, step by step, from the preliminary threats to the meeting of the conspirators at "Shady Rest" the night before the murder, then to the killing and the get-away. Glenn marshaled the long list of State's witnesses once again and showed how each story dovetailed to track the murder plotters in every move they made.

As Glenn concluded with an impassioned demand for the extreme penalty, Mrs. Newman wept. Others who gave way to emotion at times during the argument were Mrs. Marshall Jones, elderly mother of Joe Adams, and Mrs. Beulah Adams, his widow. Mrs. Birger sat with relatives in the courtroom. The gangster's two little girls were not present.

Birger Lawyer Thanks Jury.

In a brief address opening arguments for the defense yesterday, Scerial Thompson of Harrisburg thanked the jury for its attention in spite of the continued sultry heat.

"It is fitting," he said, "that I should start the statements for the defense because I am Mr. Birger's personal attorney and come from his home town. I have known him for years and he is still my friend."

Thompson asked why Birger would have urged comparative strangers like David Garrison and Alva Wilson to kill Adams and ridiculed the testimony of these youths, because Garrison said Wilson introduced him to Birger and Wilson said Garrison introduced him.

Clarence Rone, the lawyer continued, did not aver in his testimony that when he accompanied Birger to Dowell after the Adams murder that they went to meet the Thomasson brothers. Harry Thomasson moved to West City a few days before the murder and before the time he claimed complicity for Birger, Thompson said.

"The college-bred Sheriff of Williamson County, Oren Coleman, testified he had been to Shady Rest," Thompson declared, "and saw liquor there, but never took the place. Was he taught in college not to raid a liquor joint?"

"If Birger had wanted to kill Adams," Thompson concluded, "he could have done so easily when he drove by Adams' home and met him last October."

"Reasonable Doubt" Stressed.

Attorney Goodfellow, in behalf of Birger, making the last argument yesterday, devoted himself largely to points of law, dwelled on the presumption of innocence in defendants, and the necessity of acquitting them when there was a reasonable doubt of guilt. It was necessary, he said, to exclude all reasonable hypothesis of a defendant's innocence in order to convict.

Credibility of witnesses, especially where they are accessories to a crime, must be taken into consideration by the jury, Goodfellow, with reference particularly to Harry Thomasson, who pleaded guilty of killing Adams and testified in this trial. Interest or lack of interest of a witness and his possible bias must be considered, the lawyer continued, as his attitude toward defendants and his demeanor on the stand.

If the jury disbelieves part of a witness' testimony it can discard it all, Goodfellow continued. Thomasson, he went on, said he had no ill-feeling toward the defendants, but admitted killing his brother, Elmo, had been hired to death by Birger at "Shady Rest." This was inconsistent, Goodfellow argued, hence the jury should disbelieve everything Thomasson said. Thomasson, starting with a life of confinement as a youth, must have a distorted mind, he added.

"What is Thomasson's interest?" Goodfellow asked. "He saw a chance of becoming a hero in Franklin County by ridding it of gangs and while he may not have been promised anything for testifying he certainly has every hope.

"It doesn't seem possible Birger would have offered to those two young convicts, David Garrison and Alva Wilson, to kill Adams, who he had only seen them a couple of times.

"The physical appearance of the witness Clarence Rone was against him because a very sick man would have a very sick mind." Rone, who is under indictment for the Lee Price murder, told of Birger's alleged killing order to the Thomasons and went from the Courthouse to the hospital.

"Don't let public prejudice sway you," Goodfellow concluded. "The Aaron Burr was tried for treason and there was a clamor against him, Chief Justice John Marshall said, 'I would as soon be influenced by a dog barking at the moon as by the passions and prejudices of an enraged public."

ST. LOUIS AIRCRAFT FIRM BUYS 1150 AIRPLANE MOTORS

2-PASSENGER SHIPS WILL BE BUILT

Head of Company Declares Time Is Right for Expansion of Manufacturing Branch of Aviation.

The Robertson Aircraft Corporation, holder of the St. Louis-Chicago air mail contract, announced today that it will soon erect an airplane factory in St. Louis.

As a step in that direction, the corporation has purchased from the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Corporation of Garden City, N. Y., 1150 OX5 Curtiss motors and a large stock of parts. Major William B. Robertson, president, says this is the largest strictly commercial deal ever made on aircraft motors.

To Build 2-Passenger Plane.

Airplanes to be built at the Robertson factory will use these motors, which have enough horsepower to lift planes with seating capacity of two passengers and a pilot. Later on larger ships of the cabin type may be built, using one and three Wright Whirlwind motors, and designed for mail, express and passenger service.

"We have surveyed the commercial airplane manufacturing situation throughout the country, and we find the time is right for the expansion of this branch of aviation," Robertson said. "Of some 40 factories throughout the country we find it impossible to get delivery of an airplane for three to four months, and some are virtually sold out for the rest of the year."

Increasing interest in aviation is indicated by an enrollment of 94 students at the Robertson flying school at Lambert-St. Louis Field 3 so far this year. In the same period 70 have been graduated from the school. These students come from all over the United States, and after graduation return to their homes to spread the gospel of flying. Many buy planes here, fly home and establish themselves in business.

Two Women Learning Flying.

The students at present include two women, Mrs. Alcee William Stewart of 1316 McCausland avenue and Miss Bernice Townsend of New Orleans.

Like Miss Marian Green of 12 Kingsbury place, who recently became a graduate pilot at the Bridgeton Field, Mrs. Stewart has been active socially. She is 23 years old, and before her marriage in 1925 was Miss Ruth Woerner. She was a maid of honor at the 1923 Veiled Prophet ball and that year made her debut at a ball at the St. Louis Club. She has been in the air two or three times as a passenger, and liked it so well she enrolled for the pilot's course. Beyond learning how to handle a plane, she has no definite plans and doesn't think she will buy a plane for herself.

Miss Townsend, her fellow student, is a school teacher, in the twenties. She has read much about aviation and now is learning the practical side of it. She is living in Wellston, in order to be close to the highway leading to the field. Between lessons she is found in the hangars working beside engine mechanics, learning how to overhaul and maintain airplane motors.

STILL RAIDED, 2 WOMEN HELD

Deputy Sheriffs Also Seize Loaded Truck at Dutch Hollow (Ill.)

Deputy Sheriffs from Belleville yesterday raided a private home in Dutch Hollow, a small mining town near Belleville, seized a 40-gallon still, a Ford truck loaded with 15 gallons of moonshine liquor and two cases of beer, and arrested Mrs. Caroline Williams, 65 years old, and Mrs. Mary Wilson, who had with her her 3-year-old daughter.

The women declined to answer questions and were locked up—Mrs. Williams in the Belleville jail and Mrs. Wilson, with her child, in the County Home—to await a hearing before Justice Hitchings, before whom the search warrant was sworn by Assistant State's Attorney Lindauer. It was said that two men had run from the house as the officers approached, but a search failed to locate them.

24 THEATER TICKET AGENCIES PLEDGED TO 50 CENTS PROFIT

Issue Statement in New York Expressing Willingness to Aid U. S. Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Twenty-four theater ticket agencies today issued a statement pledging themselves hereafter to sell tickets at not more than 50 cents advance over the actual price they paid for them. The agencies professed willingness to co-operate with United States Attorney in his investigation into the Broadway ticket brokerage business.

George White and Florenz Ziegfeld, well-known revue producers, were examined by District Attorney Tuttle at the hearing before United States Commissioner Cotter today. George Morley, White's box-office manager, testified that $51,958 was paid him in gratuities last year from agencies for choice seats. Of this amount, he said, 75 per cent was paid to the corporation of which White is the head.

Ziegfeld declared that the testimony of Arthur Hammerstein, producer, to the effect that Ziegfeld had accepted a premium from ticket agencies, was "a lie." It was an attempt to force him into the central ticket agency plan, adopted at a meeting of theater managers in June, he asserted, characterizing the plan as "a plot" of the Shubert interests, which he said own or control most of the theaters in the city.

He said he had successfully used a system of making agencies handling his tickets give bond to assure that they would not sell the tickets for more than 50 cents in advance of whta they paid for them.

LEARNED AT LIBRARY TO BE COUNTERFEITER

Ex-Waiter, Held in Detroit, Says He Studied Engraving After Hours in St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 22.—In his leisure evening hours after working days as waiter at the Racquet and Noonday clubs of St. Louis, Hugo Hedin studied engraving at the St. Louis Public Library. He poured over textbooks until he had mastered the fundamental principles.

Then he began etching a plate for a $5 bill. He manufactured his own ink and treated high-grade paper to give it the appearance of genuine currency paper.

Today, as an indirect outcome of the knowledge extracted from books during evenings spent at the library and long practice at etching, Hedin is held in jail here in default of $25,000 bail awaiting presentation of his case to the grand jury. He has pleaded guilty of possessing counterfeit money, printing and passing it, and possession of counterfeit plates.

After eight years spent in St. Louis as a waiter, Hedin came to Detroit. Capitalizing his knowledge of engraving, he lived a short life of ease until a merchant detected one of his home-made bank notes and called police.

Hedin was characterized by Bert C. Brown, District Chief of the United States Secret Service, as one of the cleverest counterfeiters he has known.

Hedin, Brown said, admitted he printed and passed more than 500 counterfeit $5 bills on Detroit merchants. Federal agents searching his room found 75 spurious bills drying between blotters on his bed and 1500 other bills ready for distribution. They also reported finding partly completed plates for a counterfeit $10 note.

When Hedin tendered a $5 note on the Exchange National Bank of Pittsburg in payment for a purchase of soap to Charles Katzowitz, a McGraw avenue merchant, Katzowitz, comparing it with the description of the bogus bills broadcast by the Government, asked Hedin to wait while he got the change. Instead he called police.

Hedin confessed after he had been identified by another merchant who had received one of the counterfeit $5 bills. He is 39 years old.

GOVERNOR VETOES BILL TO GIVE WISCONSIN 2.75 PER CENT BEER

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., July 21.—Gov Zimmerman today vetoed the "Duncan beer bill."

The measure is invalid and attempts "by indirection" to nullify a law of the United States, said the Governor, in killing the measure which would have allowed the manufacture and sale in Wisconsin of liquor containing 2.75 per cent alcohol.

The Senate today passed a substitute amendment to a bill to repeal the State enforcement act, and withdraw the appropriation for enforcing it. The vote was 11 to 10. The original bill would have abolished the office of Prohibition Commissioner. The substitute bill would place Wisconsin in the same position as New York, a state without enforcement save that of the Federal Government.

WINDOWS IN 5 DYEING SHOPS SHATTERED BY BULLETS

Five Pierced Last Night, Two on Wednesday in War Over Union Issue.

Bullets appear to have supplanted stench bombs as weapons in the war between union and nonunion dyers and cleaners. Plate glass windows of five nonunion shops were discovered this morning broken by bullets fired during the night. A 6x9 foot window in the store of George Gaubatz at 4387 Laclede avenue, valued at $100, and two 14x8 windows, at the stores of the Peckham Dyeing and Cleaning Co., 4455 Olive street, and the St. Louis Dyeing and Cleaning Co., 4475 Olive street, were the losses reported today.

Bullet holes were found in the windows of the Sidney Dyeing and Cleaning Co., 6116 Delmar boulevard and the Scott Dyeing and Cleaning Co., 6154 Delmar, when the places were opened for business this morning. In each instance, damage was estimated at $50.

SUSPECTED SLAYER DIES OF TYPHOID

Carl Barnes Contracted Disease, It Is Believed While Hiding From Police.

Carl Barnes, named by a Coroner's jury as the slayer of Milton Brawer in a drinking party May 22 last, died this morning of typhoid fever. Apparently he contracted the disease while hiding on a houseboat to avoid the police. He was sent to the hospital July 6 when he was taken back from Kansas City.

Barnes, 23 years old and known as "Red," conducted a cleaning and dyeing establishment at 3103 Easton avenue. Brawer, 24 years old, a roofer, of 2624 North Whittier street, was fatally wounded by Barnes in front of the place following a poker game and drinking party, witnesses told police.

Several days after the shooting police began a search for Barnes. Early in July they got information that he was living in Kansas City under the name Jimmie O'Brien. He had a high fever when he was sent back to St. Louis. Later he told hospital attendants that several persons on the houseboat he had been hiding in had contracted typhoid fever.

License on Machine Reported Stolen Leads to Arrest of Edwin Lipke.

A confession of two automobile thefts was obtained by police last night from Edwin Lipke, an automobile salesman, through identification of the license on the two machines.

Policemen Belrose and Archibald, of the Deer Street Station, while walking their beat, recognized the license on a car parked in a lot next to the Sadlo Faber Motor Co., 4937 Natural Bridge avenue, as belonging to a car reported stolen. They took the serial number of the machine and found that it, too, had been stolen on July 9.

Under the seat of the car they found two license plates listed under Lipke's name, who on inquiry was found to be employed at the Sadlo Faber Motor Co. He was arrested. One of the machines was recovered shortly after it had been stolen. He was released on bond.

LIVED FOR MORE THAN A CENTURY

MRS. ELIZABETH WOLFE.

WOMAN DEAD AT AGE OF 101 WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Wolfe Outlived Husband and Eight Children; One Granddaughter Survives.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Wolfe, who died Wednesday night at the age of 101 years, will be held this afternoon from her home at 6104 Ridge avenue. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Wolfe's husband died 61 years ago and she also survived their eight children. Her only direct descendant is Mrs. Evelyn Good, a granddaughter, of Hillsboro, Ill.

Up to the time of her ninety-ninth birthday Mrs. Wolfe had lived alone for more than 20 years. Then she employed a woman from the old folks' home to stay with her at night.

Her last illness began in November and she was confined to her bed, unable to do her housework which, until that time, she had done without assistance. Her death was due to infirmities of age. When Mrs. Wolfe's health failed an aged Negro servant, Laura Ford, who since she was 10 years old, had been employed by the Wolfe family, went to live with Mrs. Wolfe. The servant, who is more than 70 years old, does not know how old she is.

CAUSE OF FATAL FALL OF HEIRESS A MYSTERY

"Accident," Says County Physician—"Suicide," Detective Says of Miss Jaeger's Death.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 22.—Whether Miss Lilly Belle Jaeger, 25-year-old heiress of New York and Montclair, N. J., leaped or fell to her death from a seventh story window of the President Hotel is a mystery today.

County Physician Lewis R. Souder reported the death as "probably accidental," while Captain of Detectives Farley called it "an open and shut case of suicide."

Daniel C. Jaeger the woman's brother, said his sister had been melancholy more than a month and had come here "to get in better spirits."

Dr. Souder, however, pointed out that the window screen had been burst, the telephone receiver was off its hook, and a chair beside it overturned. A half-emptied, uncorked bottle of whisky also was found.

Dr. Souder said his experience had always been that persons intentionally leaping to their death removed all obstacles, such as screens. He suggested she might have stumbled over the telephone wire.

Miss Jaeger was the daughter of the late Otto J. Jaeger, millionaire head of the Plush Manufacturing firm bearing his name.

Three years ago she was reported engaged to Robert E. Treman, Ithaca, N. Y., hardware manufacturer and divorced husband of Irene Castle McLaughlin, but the report was never confirmed.

FORMER ST. LOUISAN ACQUITTED OF PASSING WORTHLESS CHECKS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., July 22.—John J. Ryan, formerly of St. Louis, known to racetrack followers as "Baldy," was acquitted yesterday of issuing a draft against insufficient funds.

The indictment, returned in 1925, charged that Ryan in buying an automobile issued a draft for $1232 against his brother, the late Edward P. Ryan of St. Louis, and the brother refused to honor it. The defense contended the brother had never received the draft.

The Prosecuting Attorney joined with defense counsel in moving for an instructed verdict of not guilty, but announced Ryan would be tried on another charge of giving a worthless check for $200 to a bandmaster who played at Ryan's resort near here.

AWNINGS AND TREES DAMAGED BY STORM

High Wind and Rain Result in Considerable Property Loss and Some Mishaps.

The high wind, accompanied by heavy rainfall, which swept St. Louis and surrounding territory early last night, did slight damage in some sections of the city, was the indirect cause of injuries suffered by two persons and caused two hours' cessation of light and power service of several communities on the East Side.

Around 6 p. m. the wind reached a velocity of 36 miles an hour, according to records of the Weather Bureau. In the West End of the city, however, and in Forest Park, the wind blew hard enough to tear large branches from trees and rip awnings from windows. The indicator at the east end of the plaza at Grand and Washington boulevards, made in the form of a speedometer, and used by the Safety Council to show the number of motor deaths in the city each day, was torn down and blown into the center of Washington boulevard.

Brings Relief From Heat.

The rainfall from 5:45 p. m. to midnight was .83 of an inch, most of the rain falling during the first two hours of the storm. The high wind and rain brought welcome relief from the heat, the thermometer dropping from 92 shortly before 5 o'clock to 68 at 7 p. m.

Lightning struck the trunk cables outside the plant of the Illinois Light and Power Co. at Venice and caused an interruption of service for two hours in the Tri-Cities.

Mrs. Mary Brown, 64 years old, of 3837 Folsom avenue, was taking pieces of glass from the front door of her home, after the high wind had broken the panel, when a piece fell on her right arm from the top of the door cutting a blood vessel in her wrist. Because of the loss of blood, her condition was said to be serious.

George Gubin, 54 years old, of 5710 Waterman avenue, was driving his automobile in the alley between Waterman and Pershing, in the 5700 block, when it ran into power wires blown from a pole. The machine became charged with electricity. As Gubin stepped to the running board to ascertain what was the matter, he was severely shocked and knocked to the ground. Trouble men cut the wires down, subsequently.

COUNTY WATER CO. VALUATION HEARINGS END AFTER 3 YEARS

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 22.—The final hearing in the case in which the St. Louis County Water Co. is asking for a higher valuation for rate-making purposes and University City is seeking a rate reduction was held late yesterday before the Public Service Commission, where the case has been pending three years.

The company claims a valuation of approximately $6,200,000, on the basis of reproduction new, less depreciation. This is approximately $2,700,000 more than the commission's engineers found to be the investment cost of the property, plus allowances for working capital, construction, overhead, materials and supplies.

Edward E. Wall, former Director of Public Utilities of the City of St. Louis, called as a witness for University City, testified the value of the company's property on the basis of reproduction new, less depreciation, was $4,810,428, including all intangibles. Wall said a fair return for the company would be 6½ to 7 per cent. (The company wants 8 per cent.) Wall said the water furnished by the company did not compare very favorably with that from the St. Louis municipal waterworks.

The St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce yesterday went on record as opposing any increase in the rates of the St. Louis County Water Co. The chamber regards the demand for a higher valuation as an indication of a move later for higher rates.

Man Electrocuted in Home.

SEDALIA, Mo., July 22.—Joel E. Roak, an insurance man, was killed at his home Thursday night during an electrical storm. A fuse burned out in the lighting system and in trying to replace it Roark received a fatal shock. He was recorder for the Knights Templar commandery here.

ROAD VALUED AT $3,549,273

I. C. C. Fixes Tentative Figure for Merchants' Bridge Lines.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—A tentative valuation of $3,549,273 was fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission today upon the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal Railway, a part of the Terminal Railroad Association, as of June, 1919.

VETERAN, 81, REVISITS CAMP AFTER 66 YEARS

Drill of Student Soldiers Watched by Kansan Where He Trained in 1861.

The boys from Arkansas will have their day July 30 in the Citizens' Military Training Camp, with a review under command of Col. R. L. Floyd of Chicago, former Little Rock attorney, before the Arkansas Club, and a day of reunion with Arkansas citizens.

After 66 years, S. H. Hamilton of Washington, Kan., yesterday for the first time revisited the field where he trained for the Civil War as a 15-year-old soldier in 1861. Jefferson Barracks headquarters building stands on the hill where his tent was pitched, overlooking the Father of Waters. Capt. Henry Hescock, under whom he served in three battles, is buried in the National Cemetery.

Hamilton visited the grave of his old commander, and saw the students on review on the field where he had marched. Equipment and tactics had changed, and the veteran was full of questions. The review was before hundreds of members of the Lutheran Walther League, which closed its thirty-fifth international convention here yesterday, and summer students of Washington University.

The rain and windstorm last night blew down the chaplain's tent, where the boys write letters and have entertainments, but did only slight damage to the tents where the boys sleep.

Bathing suits that had been hidden away, because swimming in the enclosed Barracks pool is sans clothing, appeared soon after the rain. A special radio broadcasting set for broadcasting the Dempsay-

Bathing suits that had been hidden away, because swimming in the enclosed Barracks pool is sans clothing, appeared soon after the rain. A special radio broadcasting unit for broadcasting the Dempsey-Sharkey fight was blown down and damaged by the wind and rain, but repaired in time.

Work on the rifle range continues daily with good records being made by men who never before handled a rifle. Company commanders expressed surprise at the low marksmanship records made by students from Williamson County, Ill., which has been famous in months past for its gunmen. They found the younger generation could not handle firearms with any proximity to their reputation. However, equipment is the Army Springfield and not the sub-machine gun found in "Bloody Williamson."

Tomorrow officers of the 344th Infantry will command the student regiment, except two companies on the rifle range. This reserve regiment, which has just started its training, is located in "Egypt," or Southern Illinois. Regimental insignia granted this week are triangles, to represent an Egyptian pyramid, with a sphinx head in the center.

THOUSANDS HEAR KSD RADIO STORY OF FIGHT

Many Hold Open House for Neighbors During Dempsey-Sharkey Match.

Thousands of St. Louisans and additional thousands of persons residing in the St. Louis district, their radio sets tuned in on KSD, received thrill after thrill last night, as a running account of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight was given from the ringside by Graham McNamee and his "radio twin," Phillips Carlin.

The roars of the crowd, the clanging of the timer's gong, the shuffling of the fighters' feet as they sparred near the microphone and McNamee's dramatic recital of the fight's progress, all gave a picture so vivid that in fancy one could almost see the sweating, struggling bodies of the boxers gleaming under the bright lights over the ring.

"Dempsey doesn't look like the same man who slumped into the ring at Philadelphia as if he didn't know what it was all about," McNamee said. "He looks more like Dempsey—he looks 1000 per cent better. He is dancing in the ring with nervous energy. Sharkey is eyeing him every minute but Dempsey doesn't even notice Sharkey."

All in Dempsey's Favor.

Interspersed with his blow by blow account of the first round McNamee said the infighting was all in Dempsey's favor.

"Dempsey is pounding Sharkey's midsections—Sharkey hits him and tries to fight away but Dempsey is going after him pounding his body." McNamee continued. Dempsey's left hook, McNamee said, was "awfully mean."

At the time in the third round when Sharkey's foot slipped from the ring, it was mentioned that Dempsey helped him regain his feet, followed in the sixth round by McNamee's telling of Dempsey's striking Sharkey as the bell sounded ending the round. Sharkey then turned and struck Dempsey twice and the booing of the crowd could be plainly heard.

Within a minute after the beginning of the seventh round there came over the radio sets the din of terrific shouting, with McNamee screaming into the microphone to make himself heard.

Dempsey Addresses the World.

Mingled with the continued yelling, Dempsey's voice could be heard, saying: "Hello everybody—hello everybody—tickled to death to be here—thank you ladies and gentlemen," his voice coming jerkily, as if he had been winded by the strenuous fighting. There was a pause. Dempsey seemingly having concluded, but he broke in again with: "Oh, I forgot — my wife's listening in and I want to say 'hello' to her. Hello, Babe, I'll be home soon."

At this stage McNamee said there were more hats in the ring than he had ever seen in a clothing store.

While atmospheric conditions were not right for ideal reception, those who had good sets heard the returns clearly. In some neighborhoods owners of radio sets held open house for their neighbors.

Five minutes after the result of the fight came over the radio, Manny Marget, portly assistant manager of the Laclede Hotel, was parading through the lobby attired in ear-muffs and a striped bathing suit. He was paying a bet he made against Dempsey. He weighs nearly 200 pounds.

LIQUOR CONSIGNED TO WIFE OF FRANK MONDELL SEIZED

By the Associated Press.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., July 22.—A case of liquor addressed to Mrs. Frank Mondell, wife of the former Congressman from Wyoming, and for years floor leader in the House of Representatives, has been seized by Federal agents at Newcastle, Wyo., it has become known.

Word of a liquor shipment from New York reached Federal headquarters early in the week, and Federal Agent Yohn spent Tuesday waiting for some one to call for the package. When no one showed up, Yohe attempted to gain possession of the package.

The Mondells were called and Frank Mondell Jr., appeared at the Newcastle express office. After talking to Yohe, he refused to accept the package. Yohe shipped the liquor to Lon C. Davis, Federal prohibition director at Cheyenne.

Mondell is now in Newcastle, where the Mondells have their summer home. Members of the Mondell family denied any knowledge of the shipment.

Hibernians Also Declare World Court Inimicable to Our Welfare.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—The Ancient Order of Hibernians at its annual national convention here today adopted resolutions opposing the Ku Klux Klan as a "menace to the peace of the nation," declaring the World Court "inimicable to our welfare," and characterizing all disarmament movements as "thinly disguised plans to weaken our defenses."

The convention also adopted a resolution advocating a public and official inquiry into the conductance of various alleged alien "propagandic organizations," the influences of which, the resolution said, were responsible for the agitation which seeks to seduce America into entangling alliances." Among the organizations named were the Carnegie Foundation, the Sulgrave Institution, the Pilgrims' Society and the English-Speaking Union.

NEW ITALIAN UNDER SECRETARY

Deputy Ludovisi Appointed to Finance Post.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 22.—Deputy Boncompagni Ludovisi, Prince of Piombino, has been named Under Secretary of Finance. The new Under-Secretary is a member of an illustrious family. His father, Prince Ugo Boncompagni Ludovisi, entered the priesthood after the death of his wife, Princess Altieri. He achieved great distinction, it being understood he would have become a Cardinal except for the fact that he was a father.

Deputy Ludovisi is a lawyer. He served in the World War and for several years has been head of the board of directors of the Banco di Roma.

Ex-Klan Chief Sues Church Paper.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 22.—A suit for $100,000 damages has been filed in Fulton County Superior Court against the Christian Index by E. Y. Clarke, former head of the Ku Klux Klan. The suit charges that an editorial appearing recently in the Christian Index was "false, malicious, scandalous, defamatory and libelous. The suit was based upon a paragraph in the editorial which the suit charges said Clarke had "filched the people of enough klan dues to make him a rich man the rest of his life," and upon the accusation which the suit says was made in the editorial that "Clarke launched the movement purely as a money-making scheme, giving it a religious flavor with a political top dressing."

LAST MAN'S CLUB HOLDS FINAL DINNER

Only Three Survivors of Civil War Organization Toast Dead Comrades in Closing Feast.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STILLWATER, Minn., July 22—Three withered Civil War veterans, all in their late eighties, sat at a table before 31 black-draped and vacant chairs yesterday at the last dinner of the Last Man's Club.

The three old men are what remains of Company B of the 1st Minnesota Regiment. These three and the soldiers whose chairs were vacant at the last dinner were baptized as comrades under the fire of the Confederate Army at Bull Run and survived Antietam and Gettysburg. The first dinner of the club was held July 21, 1886.

The last toast of the dinner was drunk with Burgundy wine which has been kept since the day the Last Man's Club was founded.

The Final Toast.

President Peter Hall, 89 years old, of Atwater, Minn., broke the seal of the bottle and filled three goblets, Vice President Charles Lockwood, 86, of Chamberlain, S. D., helped set out the glasses. Secretary John Goff, 85 of St. Paul gave advice. He is virtually helpless physically.

The three glasses filled, the old soldiers arose and stood at attention.

"Men love their country, but our dead comrades loved it most" was the last toast. President Hall spoke it loudly. The three drained their glasses and sank into their chairs. The life of the Last Man's Club had come to an end.

Woman Aid Ends Her Work.

Mrs. Samuel Bloomer, widow of the color sergeant of Company B, has arraigned the dinner at every meeting of the club. She is 82 years old. It was her duty to make a bouquet for the place of each departed member and to drape the chairs. And she had the duty also of keeping the silk flag which the company carried through its battles. The flag was made by the women of Stillwater and presented to the company just before it left for the war. The bottle containing what was left of the Burgundy, is to be sealed and placed in a cherrywood case, as a memento of the club. The silk flag, which Mrs. Bloomer has guarded, will be placed in the Carnegie Public Library here.

SUBMARINE RADIO PATENT RIGHTS VESTED IN 2 YOUTHS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—After eight years of litigation patent rights to the submarine radio, invented during the wartime emergency, have been vested in two youths, former radio research workers at the Bureau of Standards. They were declared by Judge Morris Soper, in Federal District Court at Baltimore, to be the inventors of the underwater antenna that is now standard equipment on all submarines of the United States Navy.

The suit was against James H. Rogers, Hyattsville, Md., inventor of underground wireless, whose delay in filing his patent for submarine radio, the idea for which he averred had come to him early in 1917, was the ground on which both the Patent Office and Judge Soper rendered decisions in favor of John Willoughby and Percival D. Lowell, reversing an early decision of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

Willoughby and Lowell are unlikely to profit greatly. The Government claims a license privilege on all inventions developed in its laboratories or with the use of its facilities and pays no license fees on such patents. There are virtually no commercial agencies which use submarines that would need the device.

WILL OPERATE MINES UNDER MACHINE GUNS

Ohio Owners Determined to Employ Nonunion Men, Protected by Injunction.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., July 22. — A court restraining order and an order for machine guns and ammunition figured in the first step of Ohio operators to carry out their threat to run the mines in the Ohio field with non-union labor since no agreement has been reached with the unions on a wage scale.

The executive committee of the Ohio Operators Association, will meet at Cleveland today, presumably for a general consideration of the situation. From Steubenville came reports of officials of the Rose Valley and Goodyear Rubber Co. mine having admitted ordering machine guns and ammunition preparatory to opening their properties on a non-union basis. The Rose Valley mine is scheduled to open next Monday, while the Goodyear mine is scheduled to open Aug. 5.

Rose Valley officials are preparing quarters for about 500 nonunion miners they intend to import. They announced they do not intend to evict idle union miners from company houses, but will move those in houses near the mine property to another part of the town.

The restraining order, granted temporarily to the Luhrig Collieries Co. of Luhrig, is directed against Lee Hall, district president of the United Mine Workers and 83 officials and members of the organization. Six pickets were allowed under the order. The judge will hear the request for a permanent injunction next Monday.

On a report that a number of non-union men had arrived at the Luhrig mine a large number of union men rushed to the mine, but the rumor proved false.

Other developments in the Hocking Valley included the burning of the power house of the Monday Coal Co. between Logan and Nelsonville and the announcement by O. S. Newton, general manager of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. that two of the company's mines would be opened shortly, and that the company would attempt to employ its own men. He also asserted that if the company could not operate its mines in the Hocking Valley it would move all portable property to the West Virginia non-union fields.

100 PIECES OF BAGGAGE FOR PRINCE OF WALES AND PARTY

King George's Son, Premier Baldwin and Companion Will Sail For Canada Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 22. — "Travel light" is the slogan of the Prince of Wales, his brother Prince George, Premier Baldwin and most of the others of the party of 30 who are to start on a trip to Canada tomorrow.

The total number of pieces of baggage sent today to the steamer Empress of Australia is 100. Wales' baggage includes two uniforms, while George's has one naval outfit. Both have confined the rest of their needs to an absolute minimum.

Premier Baldwin will have many official functions to attend, but he managed to get his things into two trunks, a small grip and a hatbox, stowing away several pipes in odd corners at the last moment. Mrs. Baldwin packed her wardrobe into three trunks.

The Prince of Wales and Prince George will dine with their parents at Buckingham Palace tonight, when private farewells will be said. The King will go to the Waterloo Station Saturday, however, to give his sons an official send-off.

OKLAHOMA CURBS OIL DRILLING TO AVERT PRICE DROP

Petroleum Commission Restrains Producers From Shooting New Wells in Seminole Field.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 22.—With a daily output of nearly half a million barrels of oil—slightly less than one fifth of the national total—threatening an already weakened crude market, operators in the comparatively new greater Seminole field today faced an ultimatum from the State Corporation Commission to cease completions in larger pools.

The commission intervened in the curtailment program, started by leading operators at a meeting in New York last spring in an effort to bolster crude prices, when it issued a temporary restraining order last night prohibiting drilling in or shooting wells in certain sections of the field. The commission is empowered to act in cases involving petroleum conservation. The order was made returnable Aug. 5, when operators will be invited to attend a hearing in an effort to break the deadlock on development of the Seminole field.

Operators Withdraw From Pact.

At the New York meeting May 25, representatives of 20 Seminole producers agreed to limit production until 10 or more of the operators withdrew from the agreement. Ray M. Collins was appointed as umpire to supervise the curtailment project.

Collins recommended completion of the 450 wells then being drilled, but advocated limitation of production on a scale intended to balance the output from the holdings of the various companies.

Continued drilling by numerous operators, including several not included in the curtailment agreement, resulted in increased production, and within a month the daily output approached 400,000 barrels a day. The average price of oil was $1.38 a barrel as compared to about $2.70 a barrel last October, shortly after extensive development started.

Further Price Drop Feared.

Faced with a daily flow from the Seminole area of more than 495,000 barrels from approximately 580 wells, Collins yesterday appealed to the corporation commission to exercise its authority. He declared that unless some action was taken, further reductions of from 25 to 50 cents a barrel would result. Prices yesterday ranged from $1.22 to $1.60 a barrel.

While Collins proposed a detailed plan of curtailment, including limiting the flow of wells on all tracts to 100 barrels a day after the key well had been drilled in, the commission took no action along these lines. It was indicated these details would be discussed Aug. 5.

Unofficial reports show that the Seminole area produced about 55,000,000 barrels of oil in the first half of 1927. As production increased, pipe lines were swamped and more than 7,000,000 barrels was placed in storage, much of it in tanks hastily erected.

The latest report of American Petroleum Institute showed the national daily average crude output at approximately 2,540,000 barrels, with 1,922,250 of this east of California.

While the restraining order was ordered in effect today operators generally withheld comment.

11 TAKEN OFF SINKING LAUNCH

Steamship Rescues Passengers Near Florida Coast.

By the Associated Press.

KEY WEST, Fla., July 22.—Six men and five women were rescued from a sinking launch last night by the P. & O. steamship Cuba. Capt. J. T. Albury, commander of the Cuba, reported on arrival here today that the Cuba took them from the launch off Egmont Key a few minutes before it sank.

The party aboard the pleasure craft included C. P. Schamber, captain; Miss Bessie Palmer, Miss Elsie Palmer, Miss Inez Moore, Miss Allie Moore and Miss Effie Moore, S. F. Wilson, G. A. Register, W. E. Brown, J. A. Ferguson and H. R. Millins, all of whom were returned to Anna Marie Key aboard a United States Coast Guard boat to which they were transferred. The Cuba plies between Havana, Key West and Tampa.

65 TRAFFIC CASES DISMISSED

Because a number of motorists in Police oCurt on charges of failing to have lights on parked automobiles had been awakened late at night by policemen, who summoned them to court, Judge Rosecan dismissed 65 defendants in such cases yesterday. Sixty-five additional motorists, charged with having glaring headlights on their machines, were permitted to pay court costs of $3 each.

In dismissing charges against those in court for failure to have parking lights turned on, Judge Rosecan explained he did not believe citizens should be awakened and thus inconvenienced on so slight a charge.

Five Men Killed by Locomotive.

CANNON FALLS, Minn., July 22.—Five members of a section gang, returning home after the day's work on a gasoline car, were killed near here when their car was struck by a Chicago-Great Western freight engine.

ST. LOUIS GUARDSMEN ON ARTILLERY RANGE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MANHATTAN, Kan., July 21.—The artillery range of Fort Riley today began reverberating to the booming sound of French 75mm. field pieces, fired in target practice by the 128th Field Artillery, Missouri National Guard.

The regiment will remain here through next Wednesday, after which the return home will be made by motor truck, the method of travel by which the entire regiment came to its annual encampment here.

A number of artillery problems have been worked out, to be submitted to officers of the regiment, most of them concerning firing at an imaginary "enemy" concealed behind hills and in the valleys surrounding the range. The batteries of the regiment, among them Battery A of St. Louis, will be rated according to the accuracy of their fire.

Coming into camp, the regiment had a fairly difficult time of it, heavy rainfall during the journey having made the dusty Kansas roads a sea of mud on which the trucks and tractors skidded badly. Several times during the march, enlisted men and officers were forced to leave their places in the trucks and help push trucks out of holes. Battery A is expected to reach St. Louis Sunday afternoon, July 31.

VALUE is a little word, but the most important one in the success of a big business. The word VALUE can mean little or much according to how it is used and by whom.

It is my desire to emphasize the meaning of value at Aronberg's, and in so doing instil confidence in the hearts of our thousands of old customers and our many prospective new ones. At Aronberg's the word value DOES mean MUCH. I honestly believe it means more at this store than at any other store in St. Louis.

Argument For Milk.

Even cursory reading of the daily paper and magazines proves how widespread is the interest in the food value of milk. When we realize that a quart of whole milk furnishes nine per cent of energy needed daily by a man, fifteen per cent of his body building material and eighty per cent of lime for his bones, thirty-two per cent of phosphorus for his body cells and seven per cent of the iron required by his blood, we have a pretty good argument for the drinking of milk.

COOLING DESSERTS THAT ARE DIFFERENT

Warm Weather Appetites Demand Frozen Delicacies and Dainties.

Dietary authorities, unlike the majority of authorities, agree with the populace that ice creams, fruit ices, mousses and other cold and frozen desserts are nutritious besides being palatable and fascinating.

So these cold delicacies may with perfect safety, continue to ornament the family table during the summer season. These recipes are for frozen dainties that are different from those generally served at the family board.

Coffee Mousse.

Coffee mousse is easy to make and is a change from ice cream. Soften one tablespoonful of gelatin in two tablespoonfuls cold water for five minutes. Add one cupful hot, strong coffee and one cupful sugar. Stir until sugar and gelatin are dissolved. Set in a bowl of cold water to thicken. When of the consistency of honey, fold in three cupfuls cream which have been whipped stiff. Pour into a cold, wet mold and pack in salt and ice four hours, using two parts of ice and one of salt.

Banana Macaroon Mousse.

Take four large bananas, one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup powdered sugar, one cup macaroon crumbs, two cups of cream and a pinch of salt.

Put the bananas through a potato ricer, add the salt and lemon juice and macaroons. Beat the cream till stiff, sweeten with the powdered sugar and combine the two mixtures. Freeze this without stirring.

Pineaple Frappe.

One pint of ice cream, three pints sweet milk, one-half cup sugar, one cup shredded pineapple, three-fourths cup whipped cream.

Cook sugar and water to make a syrup, add shredded pineapple and simmer for 10 minutes. Chill, mix with ice cream and very cold milk, beating well; serve in tall glasses. Garnish with whipped cream.

Maple Frango.

Use five eggs, one cup maple syrup and one pint heavy cream.

Separate eggs and beat yolks till light and spongy. Turn on boiling maple syrup, beating constantly. Cook in double boiler till thick. Remove from heat and cool. Fold in stiffly beaten whites and whipped cream. Pack in ice and salt for three hours to freeze.

Tomato Canapes.

Select very small tomatoes of even size, allowing one to each person served. Scoop out the centers and stand upside down to drain. Skin and bone the sardines, mash and moisten with mayonnaise, adding lemon juice to taste. Fill tomato cup with the sardine mixture, top with stiff mayonnaise and insert a tiny spring of parsley in it. Serve on a bit of lettuce as a first course in a luncheon or dinner.

Flavor Creamed Potatoes.

A chopped green onion added to the potatoes when they are creamed and ready to serve gives a delightful taste for those who like onions.

REFRESHING IDEAS FOR SUMMER MENUS

Experts Give Grape Juice an Important Place in the Diet.

Grape juice has a prominent place in the regular summer menu. It is attractive, aside from its food value which is great, for its rare taste, color and fragrance.

While the most popular use for grape juice is as an iced drink, it is also successfully used in combination with other fruits and beverages, and for basic flavoring for ices, ice creams and other frozen desserts as appended recipes will demonstrate.

Grapefruit Special.

Grape Rickey.

Take a pint of grape juice, juice of three limes, three or four teaspoons sugar and one pint sparkling water. Half fill cocktail glasses with grape juice. Add to each glass the juice of one lime, sugar to taste, shaved ice and fill with sparkling water.

Grape Gingeree.

Take a pint of grape juice, one quart dry ginger ale, juice of four lemons and sugar to taste. Dissolve sugar in grape juice and add lemon. Chill thoroughly. When ready to serve add ginger ale.

Grape Juice Ice Cream.

Take one tablespoon gelatine, one cup cold water, juice of two lemons, two cups grape juice, two cups heavy cream and two cups sugar.

Beat cream. Dissolve gelatine in cold water; stir in lemon juice and sugar. eHat grape juice to a boil and pour on the gelatine! stir until dissolved and put into freezer. As soon as it shows signs of freezing, mix with it the whipped cream.

Grape Juice Gelatine.

One pint grape juice, juice of one orange, one cup sugar, pinch of salt, one envelope gelatine, one-fourth cup cold water, one cup boiling water.

Soak gelatine in cold water until soft. Add to boiling water and stir over hot water until thoroughly dissolved. Add salt, stir in sugar, and allow to cool. When chilled, but before it begins to form add fruit juices and set to form in a mold rinsed out with cold water.

Grape Juice Ice.

One pint grape juice, juice of three oranges and of three lemons, two cups sugar, grated peel of one orange and of one lemon and one quart of water.

Boil together water and sugar for five minutes without stirring after boil is reached. Add fruit juices and grated peel, turn into freezer and freeze slowly.

Cook Vegetables Quickly.

The vitamin content of vegetables which are boiled quickly, seasoned and served at once is much higher than that of overcooked vegetables which are allowed to simmer.

GIVE HEED TO THE DESSERT DURING THE HOT SEASON

Give Preference To Such Energy-Giving Foods As Fruits and Ice Cream.

Think of your summer desserts as divided into certain main classes. First, fresh and stewed fruits; second, fruit desserts that is, fruit, in combination with either gelatin or rice or taploca or cornstarch; third, ices such as ice cream and sherbet.

Of course, there are numerous other combinations which I have not mentioned. For example, fresh and stewed fruits may be combined with desserts in the ice cream group and so on. What I am getting at is that the three main types of summer dessert which I have outlined are ideal. They are nourishing and at the same time in a sense of not over-burdening a heat tired digestion.

Nutrition authorities today are calling attention to the fact that even in hot weather the body needs energy. Time was when we thought that less food was required in summer than in winter. It has been established that any extreme of temperature, whether hot or cold calls for a corresponding supply of energy. All of this bears on what I have said about summer desserts. Although these types of desserts are light, they are also energy givers, and will help to repair tissue waste brought about by extreme heat.

Hot Weather Drink.

Rhubarb juice that is canned now will make good hot-weather drinks.

Cereals When Served Cold Are Most Appealing

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
United States Senator From New York.

It is interesting to observe what folks eat. Every nation has its favorite dish. For instance, oatmeal porridge has been eaten by the Scots since the mind of man runneth not to the contrary.

In the House of Commons Restaurant in London, a member from Scotland requested that oatmeal porridge be put on the bill of fare. For months porridge has been on the menu and a newspaper says that at first all the Scottish members ate great bowls of it, sometimes taking a second helping.

But now, it seems, the dish has lost its traditional appeal. The lawmakers from above the Tweed are eating cheese, eggs and roast beef. Strange to say, however, there is greater demand than ever for oatmeal, for the English members have developed a full fledged taste for it. The dispatch says the English have 'outporridged" the Scotsmen in every respect.

Well cooked oatmeal is about as appealing a cereal as can be placed on the table. If it is not too mushy and yet if well prepared, served with cream and sugar, it is delicious. I doubt if it can ever lose its well established popularity.

In the summer season some of the ready-to-eat cereals, served cold, are more appealing. With a fruit they make almost enough for a breakfast meal.

Some of the cereals are made of the whole grain. These are particularly valuable. They carry the minerals and the bran-like exterior of the grain. On this account they supply more of the body needs.

There are so many cereals in the market that there can be a different one every morning of the week. It is a good idea to have this rotation. It avoids monotony and gives something to talk about. It should be used more commonly, not a bad idea at breakfast.

Corn meal is a neglected food. Excellent preparations are to be had and I have observed that it is enjoyed by most persons.

All these cereals dishes are energy producing and even in warm weather, we need plenty of energy.

(Copyright, 1927.)

Under-Nourished Children.

Do not forget that under-nourished children are peculiarly liable to take diseases. The children may be plump and apparently in robust health and yet if they have been fed on foods lacking essential elements they may usually "catch everything under the sun."

DIETS FOR THE SICK

Even when one is ill enough to be confined to bed a supply of energy must be kept up for the body. Simply resting in bed, we are still using up energy although not so fast, of course, as when we are active.

Therefore, when you plan a sick person's diet, attend first to the physician's prescription as to what he may be allowed, and he must have, and study this prescription with the idea in mind of informing yourself as to how much of his food must go simply to repair the waste brought about by normal bodily processes.

When you add to this the realization that the bodily waste brought about by illness must also be made up you will see that the problem of planning sickroom diets is not a simple one. Perhaps you will resolve to study the question before anyone falls ill again so that next time you will be better prepared.

CHEESE FOR MAIN DISH

Cheese is one of the group of body building foods. It contains concentrated nourishment, that is, a great deal of actual food value in a small compass.

The food value in cheese will vary according as to whether it is made with whole milk or skim milk. Even cheese made from skim milk has considerable food value for the reason that skim milk retains the body building elements of the milk as well as the minerals. Whole milk cheese, of course, offers even more because it retains the fat of the milk.

Cheese is a particularly good source of lime which is good for the bones. Cheese is often called a meat substitute for the reason that it performs, in a general way, the same service for the body as

SOME NEW WAYS OF SERVING THE LUSCIOUS LOVE APPLE

Tomatoes Are Considered One of The Most Versatile Vegetables We Have.

The lateness of the season will have a tendency to make us appreciate tomatoes more than we do. Some recipes for new tomato dishes are furnished below.

Artichokes and Tomatoes.

Cut four artichokes in quarters, take out the centers and trim about an inch from the leaves, then put them into a baking dish and cover them with water. Quarter four tomatoes, peeled if fresh, or well drained if the whole canned ones are used; lay them on the artichokes, season with salt and pepper and cook three hours in a moderate oven.

Scalloped Tomatoes.

Butter a baking dish. Lay enough or slices of stale bread or toast in the bottom to cover it. Cover the bread with canned tomatoes and season with a little butter, pepper and salt. Continue making layers like this, having the top one of tomato dotted with bits of butter. Put into a moderately hot oven and bake for not less than half an hour. Long, slow baking makes it delicious. Be sure that there are enough tomatoes in each layer to moisten the bread.

Tomato Fritters.

Peel eight even-sized tomatoes (ripe) and cut each into three even-sized portions. Put them into a pie dish, pour over them two tablespons of salad oil and one tablespoon of vinegar, sprinkle with a little salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Let them stand for an hour.

Prepare a batter made of three ounces of sifted flour, one egg, one tablespoon of sweet oil, bout one-fourth cup of tepid milk or water, salt and a few drops of lemon juice.

Put the flour into a bowl, add a pinch of salt, stir in the oil, the milk or water. Mix well and beat; then add the yolk of an egg and more milk or water if necessary. Let stand for two hours. Just before using it beat up the white of an egg to a stiff froth and add this to the batter with the lemon juice.

Dip each piece of seasoned tomato into the batter and fry in deep fat to a golden color. Drain, season with red pepper, place on a dish and garnish with small sprigs of parsley. Serve hot. Serves six.

Salmon Green Peppers.

Two cups flaked salmon, two cups seasoned thick white sauce, six green peppers, one cup soft bread crumbs, cooking oil or butter. Cut off stem end of peppers and remove seeds. Stuff with salmon creamed with the white sauce. Mix bread crumbs with oil or melted butter, wash off salt and sprinkle on top of each pepper. Bake 20 to 30 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Dainty Luncheon Dish.

One can salmon, two eggs slightly beaten, two tablespoonfuls thick, sweet cream, one-half teaspoonful salt, pinch pepper, two eggs, four tablespoons cold water, sifted bread crumbs, one-half cup finely cut celery.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Cater to the Mid-Summer Appetite and Serve Attractive Food.

The food problem during these mid-summer weeks is perhaps more difficult than at any other time of the year. The first delicious freshness of the new spring foods is something of a pleasant memory. The stimulation and "tang" of the crisp fall air is still to come. Meantime, the housewife must plod on, during the monotonously hot days and keep some rather jaded appetites functioning.

With this in mind I have tried to make use of especially appetizing breakfast fruits. Oranges may be had the year round now, thanks to our marvelous transportation system, and there is nothing more appetite stimulating than oranges, formerly only a cool weather luxury. Cantaloupe, when it is good, is a breakfast beginner par excellence and so is grape juice.

Another fruit essentially midsummer is that of the small berry, and blackberries cheer still another breakfast.

With the mid-summer appetite still in mind, I have planned an occasional variation in the first course of both luncheon and dinner. Sardine canapes take the place of soup on Sunday. Creamed scallops provide both an appetizing beginning and a nourishing main dish for another day. Clam broth adds zest to any meal and this is the first course for Saturday lunch.

The main dishes of both luncheon and dinner have been somewhat multiplied. For instance, even if there has been a more or less hearty luncheon, I have still made the dinner menu rather more extended than usual when luncheon has been elaborate. Now that certain foods are to be had inexpensively, it is possible ever for a moderate food allowance to provide variety so that varying appetites may choose various dishes.

Creamed soups appear at many meals and this is with a purpose. During the hot weather I have, as will be observed, cut down the meat even more than usual and this means that body building food must be provided in other ways. There is no more nourishing or appetizing way of doing just this thing than by the frequent use of cream of vegetable soups. They are easy to digest, are appetizing and contain body regulating mineral salts and vitamins besides the body building material.

Three of a Kind.

Three lemons (juice), three eggs (whites), three bananas (grated), three oranges (juice), three cups sugar, three cups water. Mix altogether and freeze.

Spiced Cup Cakes.

Use one-half cup of shortening, one and one-half cups sugar, two eggs, one cup cold water, three cups pastry flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoon cloves and one teaspoon vanilla. Cream shortening; add sugar gradually and cream well. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add water and fold in flour sifted with baking powder, salt and spices. Add flavoring and bake as cup cake in hot oven twenty minutes.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Clever Housewives Serve Simplified Dishes During the Summer.

Line small buttered custard cups with boiled macaroni. Fill the centers with creamed chicken or creamed vegetables or any other desired creamed combination. Set the molds in a pan half filled with hot water. Cover with buttered paper and bake for one-half an hour in a moderate oven. Serve with lobster and Hollandaise sauce.

Sardine Canapes.

Prepare circular slices of toast. Have ready a paste made from picked up sardines which have separated from all bones. This paste should be moistened with softened butter and seasoned with Worcester sauce and cayenne. In the center of each round of toast place a stuffed olive. Arrange a layer of sardine paste around the stuffed olives and surround each canape with a border of finely chopped egg whites. In preparing canapes one should be very careful not to have them too large. They should literally be small enough to be held daintily with the fingers, making a knife and fork unnecessary. Their purpose is to serve merely as an appetizer and, therefore, each canape is not expected to provide more than two or three mouthfuls.

Hot Water Sponge Cake.

Two egg yolks, one cup flour, three-eighths cup hot water, one-quarter teaspoon salt, two egg whites, one cup sugar, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract.

Beat the eggs until very thick. Add half the sugar very slowly and continue the beating. Add the hot water, the rest of the sugar, the flavoring, the egg whites and the flour which has been mixed and sifted with the salt and baking powder. Bake twenty-five minutes in a buttered pan in a moderate oven.

Nut Loaf.

Four slices toasted bread crumbs, two cups peanut butter, two medium-sized onions, four eggs, two teaspoons salt, two cups mashed potatoes, one cup milk.

See that the bread crumbs are well dried out. Have ready the peanut butter which has been mixed with the milk and add this mixture a little at a time to the crumbs. Have ready the eggs which have been beaten and add to the mixture. Stir in the bread crumbs, the chopped onion, the hot mashed potato and then the seasonings. Turn into an oiled bread tin and bake one hour. Remove from the pan by turning out upside down on a platter. Serve with any desired vegetable or with a garnish of parsley.

Cocoa Roll.

Five eggs, three tablespoons cocoa, one cup whipped cream, one cup powdered sugar, one tablespoon flour.

Beat the egg whites stiff. Have ready the egg yolks, which have been beaten and mix with the cocoa, sugar and pinch of salt. Add this mixture to the flour and combine with the egg whites. Spread on a buttered pan which has been sprinkled with flour. Bake five minutes and turn out on a paper

CANNING FRUIT JUICES

Up-to-Date Housewives Will Utilize Fruit Juices This Way.

The fruit juice may be pressed out of fruit by means of a cider press, special fruit press, or other improvised presses; then heated in an acid-proof kettle up to 110 degrees F. The fruit juice may then be poured into ordinary hot jars, hot bottles, or tin cans, and handled by the same directions as those for canning of fruit itself. If poured into miscellaneous bottles, it is suggested that the fruit juice be sterilized as follows:

Make a cotton stopper and press into the neck of the bottle and leave during the sterilization period. Set bottles in boiling hot water up to the neck of the bottle, sterilize the fruit juice for 40 minutes at a temperature of 165 degrees F. Remove the product, press cork in top over cotton stopper immediately. If the cork fits well, no paraffin need be used. If a poor cork, it may be necessary to dip the cork in a melted solution of wax or paraffin. Fruit juices and apple cider when handled in this way will not "flatten in taste" and will keep fresh for future use.

Sweet Sandwiches.

Cut day-old bread into thin slices, then remove the crust. Spread each slice with marshmallow, whip and sprinkle lightly with cocoa; press the two slices together; cut into three-corneerd or finger shapes.

To Remove Egg Stains.

The Woman of It

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

To One Blind.

O TELL us, then, what do you see
In your eternal night,
To give your face its radiance
Its shining inner light?

What is it that we cannot see
New suns, and singing stars?
Apollo flinging up the dawn,
The olive crown for Mars?

And do you see the rainbow gold
That all have sought in vain?
Or is it that you look into
The soul of joy and pain?

To compensate for darkness
Did they give you greater ken
Of planet songs and starry throngs
Than comes to other men?

O if one had the inner light
To vision humankind
In upward flight, it were a thing
Of beauty to be blind.

Home-Made Philosophy.

ONE of the things which most irritate women about many a book on cooking or home economics is that it is written either by a childless wife or by a spinster whose housekeeping has never been complicated even by a husband! "What," thinks the harassed mother, not unreasonably, "does SHE know about running a home with a family in it?" Such a woman, it seems to us, will find inspiration, instead of irritation, in Lillian M. Gilbreth's "The Homemaker and Her Job," a new book written out of the lifetime experience of a business woman, a wife and the mother of 11 children! Mrs. Gilbreth has always run her own home, near New York; most of the time, we understand, without servants in the house. The system and sense which she has found practical in a family of 11 youngsters surely will be of use to the mother of two or three.

The half dozen points made by Mrs. Gilbreth which most appeal to us may be summarized as follows:

The housekeeper must not monopolize home.

She must not take quarrels too much to heart.

She must share the privilege of unselfishness.

She must work out an efficient routine.

She must cut down work as much as possible.

The family must rise up and call her blessed, not once but many times.

MRS. GILBRETH has no use for "pison neat" housekeeping, which makes everyone except the housekeeper uncomfortable. "Wives," she gently reminds us, "sometimes come to feel that the home belongs primarily to them; that to allow a man a workshop in it is a concession; that the amount of company he wishes to entertain should be determined by the housewife's convenience; that tolerating the small boy's collection of birds' eggs, postage stamps and rocks is another problem for her." Such a woman wonders why the family leaves home, early and often—why not, when home doesn't really belong to them?

"Quarreling is frequently a relief and rest to the children. It is not only a means of using up their excess energy, but a source of fun; for they enjoy disagreeing and making up afterward."

Instead of the maternal martyr—a too familiar figure—Mrs. Gilbreth's ideal is the mother who gives the children the pleasure of doing some things for her. She writes: "It is really selfish to be too unselfish in the matter of giving up to others."

Housewives who snort at efficiency systems as applied to their work are gently reminded of "the benefits of getting the necessary routine out of the way most efficiently, with the resulting free time for other things."

If you get a real thrill, says Mrs. Gilbreth, out of doing all work in the home, go to it, but if you're wearing yourself out in the process, first investigate the products of modern laundries, bakeries and preserving plants, before being so sure your personal products are best. And keep equipment in handy places—even if they seem unconventional.

The last bit of advice is for the family, not the wife and mother, and should be engraved on the family tablets of memory. It is simply this:

"The homemaker needs praise more than anyone. Real appreciation is her 'wage' and expressed appreciation her 'bonus.'"

ROUNDEL TO E.

Your phone call, Maid, was welcome, quite,
A ray of sunshine through the shade,
A fleeting moment of delight—
Your phone call made.

Although I'd rather have you write,
There is so much may not be said,
And ink endures when voices fade.

And best of all, I'd like a sight
Of you, which has been long delayed—
So keep our date! Until tonight
Your phone call's made!

BEN WARREN.

Sex novels, according to Alfred I. Knopf, are as staple a crop as potatoes. And most sex novels, in the opinion of this woman reader, are about as exciting as potatoes—cold boiled ones.

ABE MARTIN On Great People

A Chairman Causin' Untold Sufferin'.

THER'S no way t' distinguish a great man by jest lookin' at him, fer real greatness is averse t th' airs an' manner an' dress that are designed t' attract attention, 'n' excite comment. A really great man a' rinks from ceremony, keeps away from newspaper men, hides from brass bands, an' suffers while bein' introduced by a chairman. Th' hardest thing a really great man has t' guard agin is fallin' int' th' hands o' his admirers an' bein' used fer exhibition purposes. While really great men occasionally show up at public functions, it's generally a case o' not bein' able t' git out of it, an' charged up t' overhead or cost o' bein' above th' ordinary. A great man is not proud. He loves his fellowmen, but like all of us, he likes t' choose his associates. He's not stuck up. Men of greatness, that is, men who really cut some ice, don't care fer cheerin' multitudes, an' band music, an' handshakin', any more than th' circus zebra that's broken t' harness an' paraded in th' streets. Th' greater a feller is th' more he wants t' be left t' his own manner o' livin' and his own circle o' congenial spirits. He wants be free t' come an' go without buntin' an' music. Picturesque apparel, 101 Ranch hats, long, oily air, flarin' necktie n' a fierce expression, make up th' stock in trade o' th' would-be-great. A genuinely great man kin wear an ordinary soft pearl gray hat an' still be great. He can even hold his place among th' immortals an' wear a blue serge suit, even a ready-t'-snap-on butterfly tie. Th' only time clothes bother a great man is when he has t' doll up fer display. Even then he's liable t' use wooden laundry buttons in his dress shirt. Jest because a feller is a great author, or a great scientist, or great statesman, or flew t' Paris first, is no reason why he, any moren a phenomenal farmer, or a crack tennis player, should array himself in a lot o' peculiar toggery an' effect a lot o' eccentricities so that he may stand apart from all th' rest o' human kind. Th' plug hat, th' wide eyeglass braid, th' cane, spats an' frock coat, have all been worked t' death t' boost th' name o' th' mediocre. All are legitimate accouterments of a gentleman's wardrobe, but they've been employed so long t' deceive th' unwary that they've lost ther value as marks o' distinction. Men or women of unusual greatness wear no labels, an' they don't need either music, or special scenery.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Little Miss Curiosity Is Discovered

Why do some folk find it joy
—Bowser the Hound.

He saw Mother Brown come out and drive the hens into the henyard

WHEN Old Man Coyote had made his second raid on the hens in Farmer Brown's dooryard, he had, you will remember, given the hens a great fright and they had squawked as only hens can squawk when they are frightened. Mother Brown had heard the racket and had rushed out to see what it was all about. She was just too late to see Old Man Coyote who had dodged around the corner of the barn. She suspected Reddy Fox. At once she started to drive all the hens into the henyard and shut them up. All this time she had forgotten that when she went out so hurriedly she had left the door open.

Mother Brown had counted the hens and had discovered that two were missing. This occupied her thoughts to such an extent that she never once thought of Little Miss Curiosity—the young woodchuck who had become a household pet and lived in the kitchen. In fact, it was not until Farmer Brown's Boy came in a long time afterward and she had told him all about what had happened to the hens that she remembered Little Miss Curiosity. She looked for her behind the stove, but she wasn't there. She looked for her in the pail, but she wasn't there. She looked for her everywhere she could think of and Farmer Brown's Boy helped in the search. But there was no Little Miss Curiosity to be found. Then it came to Mother Brown that she had left the door open in her haste to save the hens.

"It must be," said she, "that that little Chuck ran out then. I am afraid she is gone for good this time."

Now Mother Brown was quite right in thinking that Little Miss Curiosity had run out when the door was left open. That is exactly what she had done. She had been looking for just such a chance. Once outside, she suddenly realized what a big place the world was. She wanted to get out of sight to think things over a bit. She ran across the dooryard. There, right in front of her, was a little house. It was dark inside. It was just the kind of a place she wanted. Cautiously she put her head in the doorway. There was no one there. She slipped inside. It was a very nice, comfortable place with a very nice, comfortable bed. She investigated that house from one end to the other. "I think I'll stay here a while," said she, talking to herself.

Now it just hapened that Sammy Jay had returned from the dear old Briar-patch and reached Farmer Brown's dooryard just in time to see Old Man Coyote catch the second plump hen. This was exciting! Sammy Jay, perched in the top of a maple tree, had screamed "Thief, thief, thief!" at the top of his lungs and was quite as excited as were the frightened hens. He saw Mother Brown come out and drive the hens into the henyard. And he saw something more. You know, those bright eyes of Sammy's miss very little. He saw a small person in fur scurry across the dooryard and disappear in a little house on the other side. Sammy stopped screaming and gasped. "As I live!" he cried. "I believe that is the missing young Chuck who belongs to Johnny Chuck and Polly Chuck. Old Man Coyote didn't get her after all. No, sir, Old Man Coyote didn't get her. But how under the sun did she get up there? My, but this will be news to tell. I think I'll stick around a while. That little house is the house of Bowser the Hound. I wonder what will happen when he comes home. Yes, sir, I think I'll stick around a while. This promises to be good. It promises to be exciting."

So Sammy Jay settled himself to watch.

Teach Banking to the Children

By LUCY LOWELL.

HAVE you a little thrift habit in your home?

Do you make a practice of putting something away—a few dollars, even a few cents—each week for the rainy day which misses very few lives, indeed?

Do you teach your children to do this?

No better foundation for a child's character can be established than the feeling of responsibility that comes with a bank account, however small. It brings a sense of independence and teaches the true value of money and respect for property.

It demonstrates the fact that there is no such thing as "easy money." And when the youngster who has acquired the saving habit grows up and enters the working world he has developed in him the understanding of fair exchange, the fact that he must give value for what he gets.

Recognizing the value to future generations of the thrift habit, New York schools have established school banks to teach pupils the value of saving their money and encourage responsibility among them.

There now are 43 banks in New York City high schools and 390 banks among elementary schools, with nearly 400,000 active accounts in these banks.

That the pupils themselves see the value of saving is indicated in the records, which show an increase of 23 per cent in the accounts last year.

The man or woman who lives with the knowledge of something laid by is happier, more contented, self-reliant and peaceful of mind than the one who spends right up to his or her income.

This last sort of person even at best always must be a bit apprehensive of disaster and at worst continually haunted by worry.

I must mention again the ever-popular Vionnet blouse, which seems to be here to stay. This practical model is now seen, not only as a regulation long-sleeved overblouse, but also can be bought with short sleeves, sleeveless entirely, and as a vestee, the designers rightly considering it the most becoming of necklines.

Howard's Buttermilk Cream Best For Freckles, Sunburn and Tan

Old Time Recipe of Buttermilk Cream in a New Way—A Gentle Massage With Fingers Before Retiring Is All That Is Necessary.

Big Demand Amazes Druggist

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness is grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to insure a beautiful complexion and snow-white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream, which you can buy in small quantities ready to use, at any first-class drug store by simply asking for "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream.

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just a common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

To get the best effect, be sure to follow the simple directions. All good druggists guarantee a noticeable improvement after the first application or they will refund the money.

IMPORTANT—Even the finest face creams fail if the soap you use is harsh. Howard's Buttermilk Cream Soap keeps skin smooth, soft and pliable.

ROAMING AROUND

BY FAY PROFILET.

ONCE upon a time there was a little boy whose mother told him if he would be very good she would take him on the great big boat and let him ride all day on the big, deep river. So he promised to be very, very good and immediately smacked his little sister and ran into the street to play, where he was almost run down by an automobile. He hid when his mother called him to go on errands for her and spent the entire day being as naughty as possible. But she took him on the boat just the same, for it meant a day's respite from household cares, long hours of complete relaxation filled with homey gossip and an altogether pleasant day for herself and her children.

"Well, here we are at last. I thought I'd pass out trying to get the lunch ready and three children dressed."

"Madge was the one that wanted to go on the boat so bad, then at the last minute she fails to show up. Can you beat it?"

"Come on, let's get seats up here. The motion of the boat always puts the baby to sleep and we can put her in this big chair."

"Believe me, no permanents for me. I bobbed my hair for comfort an' not for style."

"Yes, Junior's getting to be a big boy now. He belongs to the Boy Scouts. Don't you, Junior?"

"Mamma, I done my good deed today. I eat the baby's candy so he wouldn't make his self sick."

"Funny that Madge didn't come. Here we waited until we was almost late."

"Dance? Well I should say not. I came on here to rest, or else I would 'ave stayed at the office all day."

"What's trumps? I can't keep my mind on the cards and the scenery at the same time."

"They're the funniest kids I ever seen in my life. Now they won't take that one and play with it. It's just them two and no more."

"Junior, you come from that railing.

"Aw, mamma, I wa to see a fish."

"She said she was the club on the boat, they all brought lunches."

LAUGHING AROUND THE WORLD with IRVIN S. COBB

The Gratitude of the American People.

AN Englishman was explaining to one of his countrymen how generously the people of the United States bestowed immortality upon their leading citizens.

"Why, it is perfectly amazing," said he, "to observe the homage of the great mass toward the nation's idols. My word, they even name the great thoroughfares after leading citizens. Take, for example, the Lincoln highway. Really it stretches across the continent and Lincoln's name is posted on a million sign boards. Really; a fact. You see it constantly. And there is another great patriot named Dixie. The Dixie highway commemorates his existence. Think of it; a beautiful route through the entire South. My word! And Roosevelt highway. Nothing was ever known that approached such homage. But there is a chap by the name of Detour. Gol bless my soul, old chap; what he ever did, I don't know. But he certainly did something, otherwise why the manifestation of interest? It is the more bewildering when one stops to think that Mr. Detour is made permanent by reason of the fact that all the rottenest roads and highways in America bear his wholly detestable name!"

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

OH, spirit doubtful and afraid,
Unmindful of the greater good,
Must you still wander on dismayed by every transient, shadowed mood?
For long upon your path has lain a brightness like dawn's waxing glow, life's song has brought no sad refrain to mar the tranquil joys you know.
Like some vast ocean's close embrace unmeasured good, from hour to hour, wells up from out the deeps of space, unmeasured tides of peace and power. And yet, weak soul, you are afraid, forgetful of the sunlit years you pass by hosts of doubt betrayed, down paths of bitterness and tears. Drink deep of courage once again, with gladness greet the glow of dawn and know, till time itself shall wane, the springs of good shall still flow on.

ROAMING AROUND ST. LOUIS

BY FAY PROFILET.

ONCE upon a time there was a little boy whose mother told him if he would be very good she would take him on the great big boat and let him ride all day out on the big, deep river. So he promised to be very, very good and immediately smacked his little sister and ran into the street to play, where he was almost run down by an automobile. He hid when his mother called him to go on errands for her and spent the entire day being as naughty as possible. But she took him on the boat just the same, for it meant a day's respite from household cares, long hours of complete relaxation filled with homey gossip and an altogether pleasant day for herself and her children.

"Well, here we are at last. I thought I'd pass out trying to get the lunch ready and three children dressed."

"Madge was the one that wanted to go on the boat so bad, then at the last minute she fails to show up. Can you beat it?"

"Come on, let's get seats up here. The motion of the boat always puts the baby to sleep and we can put her in this big chair."

"Believe me, no permanents for me. I bobbed my hair for comfort an' not for style."

"Yes, Junior's getting to be a big boy now. He belongs to the Boy Scouts. Don't you, Junior?"

"Mamma, I done my good deed today. I eat the baby's candy so he wouldn't make his self sick."

"Funny that Madge didn't come. Here we waited until we was almost late."

"Dance? Well I should say not. I came on here to rest, or else I would 'ave stayed at the office all day."

"What's trumps? I can't keep my mind on the cards and the scenery at the same time."

"They're the funniest kids I ever seen in my life. Now they won't take that one and play with it. It's just them two and no more."

"Aw, mamma, I was just tryin to see a fish."

"She said she was entertaining the club on the boat, but I notice they all brought their own lunches."

"Maybe Janet told Madge what we said about her new boy friend. Maybe that's the reason she didn't come."

"I always bring the chips too. Your turn, Lil. Aincher got 25 chips?"

"Mamma, kin we play Bingo? Mamma, it's loads of fun. You play it with grains of corn."

"She really never reads the book but she always brings it along to make everybody think she's a high brow."

"They can diet if they want to. But I should worry, my fortune's made."

"Mamma, we was all over the boat. They's a dining room downstairs, mamma, an' we went up on top an' watched the captain run the boat."

"Madge hasn't been the same since she joined that new bridge club. She had a right to let us know she wasn't coming."

"Now we'll have our lunch on this big table. Wait, Junior, mother'll give you the drum stick. Honestly, Mrs. Brown, you'd think these children were starved and at home I have to make them eat."

"Mamma, kin I save the scraps to take home to Spot?"

"Well, anyway, this is one kind of a picnic where the ants and bugs don't get in on the lunch."

"If I do say it myself, Mrs. Brown, the teacher said Mary was the smartest one in the room and her not going to be 7 until October."

"Mamma, when I get to be a big man I gona buy me a boat an' let you be the only one to ride on it."

"The minute I get home I'll ring Madge up and I'll say"—

Proper Care of the Hands

By Josephine Huddleston

SPRING house cleaning spells ruin to the hands of the woman who has not learned how to work while wearing gloves, for dust and grime worked themselves into the skin so deeply that only vigorous brushing with soapy water will thoroughly cleanse them. And too much soap and water are as bad for the hands as too little!

There are rubber gloves to be worn when doing any kind of work that makes it necessary to have the hands in strong, soapy water. Even clear water, if it is hot, will make the hands red, unless rubber gloves are worn.

Heavy canvas gloves or an old pair of cloth gloves are splendid to protect the hands from callouses and strain when sweeping and moving furniture about. And there is nothing like an old pair of silk gloves for keeping furniture polish from penetrating into the pores when dusting.

The use of gloves while cleaning is often awkward at first, but within a short time this goes away and once having become accustomed to wearing them you'll never go into messy jobs without gloves.

It is best to have the gloves at least one size too large, as this permits free use of the fingers and precludes the possibility of hampering circulation.

With the exception of rubber gloves, none of them need any attention, but if the rubber gloves are not washed, rinsed, dried and then sprinkled with talcum powder they will become sticky and their lasting quality is greatly impaired, as well as their comfort next to the skin.

With any kind of gloves worn while working it is possible to massage a bleaching cream, or hand lotion into the skin before putting on the gloves and by doing this your hands will be lovely and white at the end of your cleaning rather than grimy, red and swollen.

And speaking of hand lotions reminds me of a treatment that I always think of when the question of hand beauty comes up. While it has nothing to do with the wearing of gloves while working, it might come in handy for some of you who don't feel like trying out my suggestions about the gloves.

After doing any work that gets the hands grimy, instead of washing them with soap and water, pour a liberal amount of hand lotion (preferably one that is mainly composed of honey and almond oil) over the hands and rub the hands together as though you were washing them with soap and water. When the lotion begins to get dirty looking, wipe it off and pour another portion of the lotion over the hands, working it into the skin as before. Several applications of lotion used in this manner will make the hands as soft as velvet.

Day of the Interior Decorator

By Wanda Barton

THIS is the day of interior decorators. The need for their services is realized by all large department stores who furnish small apartments, little kitchens and budget homes. In all of the furnished places a decorator is in attendance, or on call, who will explain the whys of furnishing to all interested shoppers—even shop with them, if desired.

Modern furnishings are not only correct as to period, but they aim at efficient comfort which speaks well for the hominess idea. The appearance of many types of the little "end" table strikes a pleasing note in furnishing. There is the low tea table, round, rectangular, oval, or, on occasion, square. The tables are plain polished wood, inlaid, marble inset Chinese fashion or glass with metal frames and ornamental trim. Some of the tables are of the charming red Chinese lacquer, some are painted in the cracked effect with solid colored borders with ornamental motifs.

In the scheme of furnishings, old-fashioned mirrors play their part. Mirrors long and narrow with black frames picked out with gold scroll work have a ten-inch deep painted panel at the top done with baskets of old fashioned posies and sometimes a rural scene, a landscape or old-fashioned children at play. Then there are the mirrors that have the solid gilt frames in the old laurel leaf design, or the acorn and leaf design, and others once popular. Again, the mirrors may be in three sections, the center one being the widest, for though narrow, the mirrors are hung lengthways in this type, while the end sections are square.

Buffets, where used, are long and narrow with doors and drawers in which necessities may be stowed. The long runner on top holds the fruit bowl and candlesticks only. If one owns silver pieces they must not be in evidence except when in actual use. The drop-leaf table, or the refectory table, is most popular. For the former, two end chairs are always left in place and for the latter two side benches are used instead of chairs and pushed under the table when not in use while the two end chairs remain in position.

Dance With Flash Lights.

During a dance she distributed flashlights to all her guests. The electric lighting system was turned off, and the ballroom then became a spectacle of tiny rays bobbing hither and thither.

Abie's Irish Rose

by ANNE NICHOLS

AS THE STORY GOES.

All the hint that Solomon Levy, Bronx department store owner, has of the trouble in store for him is a telephone message from his young son, Abie, telling the father that he is bringing a girl home for supper. Solomon naturally assumes that she is a "nize Jewish goil." Instead she is the former Miss Rose-Mary Murphy, daughter of Patrick Murphy, California contractor, who has given up the effort to overcome her father's racial prejudices, and has been married to Abie by a Methodist minister, as a culmination of a romance begun during the war when Rose-Mary was an entertainer and Abie a doughboy.

CHAPTER XXIX.

ABIE and Rose-Mary were hurrying towards the Levy home in a taxicab as Solomon Levy, rubbing his hands and pacing back and forth across the living room floor, exclaimed to the rabbi:

"Maybe the good rabbi will soon officiate at a wedding, eh? Ach, Dr. Samuels, lieber Freund, we will all be happy."

Isaac Cohen grew instantly serious.

This was the cue for Mrs. Cohen, who arose quickly from her chair and glared at her husband. He shrank beneath her gaze.

"You mean he vouldn't be happy if he vus marr-ied?" she asked him slowly, tingeing each word with a meaning too well understood by Isaac Cohen.

"Mama, can't I talk at all?" asked Isaac, timidly.

The rabbi came to the rescue.

"Oh, Isaac doesn't mean he isn't happy," he said reassuringly. "You are happy, aren't you, Isaac?"

"Polfectly!" answered Isaac Cohen, brushing off his coat lapel but not daring to look at his wife. She continued to gaze at him a moment, somewhat skeptically, and then returned to her seat. Her feathers were still ruffled.

Solomon Levy was only half listening to the argument.

"It isn't dot I vant Abie married," he said now in a musing tone. "But I vant his grandchildren. Oi, how I vant some little Levys!"

"Oh, you don't vant Abie marryud?" he asked with mock surprise. "But you vant him to have children. Ah-ha, Mama, listen to dot."

"Isaac—be still!" thundered Mrs. Cohen. "You are a dunce. You don't understand a ting."

"I do!"

"You don't understand a ting—"

Solomon Levy chimed in here.

"Yes, Isaac," he said, "I vant grandchildren—lots of them."

"Ah, see right away he talks wholesale," said Isaac, shrugging his shoulders.

Solomon was dreaming—a habit he had. He was thinking suddenly of how, before Abie was born, his wife and he had discussed their son's future. Somehow, they had known he would be a son. To Solomon he couldn't have been anything else. As old Sarah sometimes put it, if Abie had turned out a girl, his father would have wanted to dress her as a boy.

"I vanted Abie to be a politician," Solomon mused now aloud. "But Rebecca, she said no. She said he must always be close to his fadder."

"And he certainly has been dot," put in Isaac Cohen.

"Yis—he has," agreed Solomon, softly awakening as from a dream.

"I don't know what your business would have done without him," said Rabbi Samuels.

"Neither do I," said Solomon, and nodded slowly.

Then he raised his hand and added in a practical voice, "But don't you tell him I said so!"

The rabbi laughed.

"Vhy don' you take him into the firm?" asked Mrs. Cohen.

"Dot's just vhat I intend to do," said Solomon. "Solomon Levy & Son. Dot vould sound nize. But—" he paused in his walk. "Not now—not until he is married."

"Why do you wait until he's married?" queried the rabbi.

"Vell, did you ever see any of Abie's goils?"

"No."

"Not vun Jewish goil among them!" And Solomon ruefully shook his head. "My Abie iss not goin' to marry anyone but a Jewish goil if I can help it!"

"Maybe you can nod help it?" suggested Isaac Cohen.

"Who said I couldn't help it! Let him try, and den see who can help it!"

Solomon beamed.

"Didn't he say to me 'Vait 'til I see her?' " He turned toward the door as though that were sufficient argument, adding quickly, "I must tell Sarah to haf dinner for three."

Mrs. Cohen arose and adjusted her wrap.

"Vell, ve must be going," she said.

"But plise, you come beck later and take a look at her?" urged Solomon, betraying by his manner that he did not wish her to consider this an invitation to supper.

"If ve can, ve vill," smiled Mrs. Cohen.

"Vhy can't ve, Mama?" asked Isaac Cohen.

She turned on him.

"Because I'm tired frum doin' cook's voik, and I tink we should go to bed early," she announced in a tone of finality.

Isaac Cohen gritted his teeth.

"She's tired, und I haf to go to bed early!" he repeated with the sigh of a martyr.

The rabbi had already donned his coat and hat.

"I'll see you later, Solomon," he said, as he waved a good-by.

Solomon followed them to the door, Isaac Cohen, crestfallen, trailing out behind the ample figure of his wife.

The door closed after them, and Solomon stood a moment in the hall murmuring to himself.

He took out a cigarette paper, a package of tobacco, and—he retained his old habits of economy—rolled a cigarette, humming Masseltof in an off key.

Tomorrow—Solomon's Heir.

The Greatest Story in the World—By Kor

The Bible in Pictures

And the Lord said, unto Moses, I have surely seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmasters; for I know their sorrows; And I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites. Now therefore, behold, the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them. Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt. And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?

Empresses Raises Silk Worms

TOKYO.—One of the hobbies of the empress of Japan is the raising of silk worms. These she attends personally.

She has gathered sufficient cocoons for the weaving of a silk dress for her baby daughter, the Princess Teru-no-Miya. The higher Sericulture School of Takinogawa, a suburb of Tokyo, has been ordered to spin the silk from the cocoons. When the silk is spun the empress intends to make the dress for the little Princess.

Alpaca for Women.

NEW YORK—Men never have it all their own way long, even in fashions. The alpaca suits which those males in hot climates are wont to affect have been snatched from them and adapted to women's summer tailored suits.

Hidden Perfume.

An odd little gift that will cause much pleasure consists of a gift box with a rose, a carnation and a bunch of violets inside. Hidden in the center of each is a small bottle of French perfume.

The A.C. radio tube developed and made by Kellogg—experienced lamp makers for many years. This tube is used in Kellogg A.C. sets and sold generally to the trade.

KELLOGG

Developments that have revolutionized RADIO

Thirty years of building quality telephone equipment taught Kellogg many things that a radio manufacturer should know. Kellogg ignored the "hobbies"; the trifles; and the fads. We thought only of fundamental improvements—and we made them. Inductive tuning is one of them. It has been for three years—and still is, exclusively Kellogg.

Full shielding is another Kellogg contribution. The long air-column reproducer, of non-vibrating material is still another.

But the latest, GREATEST of Kellogg developments is the A.C. tube which makes it possible to discard ALL radio batteries. With this tube a radio set may be operated by direct connection with your alternating current electric light line, giving a constant, inexhaustible flow of power that keeps the set always at its maximum peak of efficiency.

The 1st Rule

in skin care if "That School-girl Complexion" is your aim

By NORMA SHEARER

THE following rule is credited with more beautiful complexions than any other method known. Yet it's the simplest and most economical in skin care of all.

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Then rinse with warm water, and follow with a dash of cold.

Do this regularly, and especially at night, for one week. Note how much better your skin. Use powder and make-up all you wish. But never leave them on over night.

That marks the modern beauty culture — the proved for keeping "that schoolgirl complexion."

But be sure you get the Palmolive. A soap made the purpose; to guard your years of soap study stand Its results are proved by schoolgirl complexions

IT'S FUN TO BE HEALTHY

Eat this new kind of food for health

Ready for anything—after your breakfast of Heinz Rice Flakes! Crispy, crunchy, golden-brown flakes with a flavor like freshly popped popcorn. And their crispness isn't discouraged by milk or cream! Why do they retain their crispness? Where does this popcorn flavor come from? By virtue of a special process.

A process developed, owned and used exclusively by Heinz . . . And there is still another happy result of this new process for flaking rice. It enables Heinz to use the natural roughage element of the rice itself. This imparts a moisture-absorbing quality which is one of Nature's best eliminative aids. Now, for the first time, Heinz has developed this corrective feature in a cereal food for you . . . Heinz Rice Flakes are good for children and grown-ups.

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Fondant (Butter)

TAKE 2 pounds sugar, ½ pound of butter, 6 teaspoonfuls of cream, and any flavoring desired. Work the sugar and butter to a cream, adding a little of the cream from time to time until all is used. Then add the flavoring. Let set for an hour, then mold into shapes and sizes desired. Candied cherries, pineapple, chopped nuts or chocolate can be worked into some of the fondant, making, in this way, several kinds of creams. Set by to harden, then dip in melted chocolate and place on buttered plates.

Fish Salads and Cold Dishes

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON.

SALADS and cold dishes of fish have a strong warm weather appeal. These, while hearty enough for all purposes, never seem as heating as the meat salads. Carefully made, of the best materials, the dressing added to the salad only at the last moment, and prettily garnished, the dishes may be made as varied and attractive as desired.

Shad Roe Salad.

Take a good large roe, or two small ones; put on to parboil in cold water with a teaspoonful of salt in it. Bring to boiling point slowly, then boil gently for 12 to 15 minutes, drain, brush over with a little butter and broil delicately turning once. Do not brown very much. When cold, slice in quarter-inch slices and marinate in a good French dressing, a sliced onion, half a bay-leaf, a sliced bud of garlic, a red pepper sliced, six cloves, a thinly sliced lemon and a teaspoonful of sugar. Allow the roe to stand in the marinade for one hour, turning it several times with a spoon, or broad fork, so as not to break it. Lay the slices, after draining, on lettuce leaves and put a spoonful of mayonnaise on each slice. Garnish with the sliced peppers from the marinade. Strain the marinade and use it for salad dressing.

Salmon and Potato Salad.

Open and drain a can of salmon, then remove skin, bones and flake it. Boil eight potatoes until done, but not soft, and when cold, cut into small pieces. Pare and quarter a cucumber, remove the seeds, then slice thinly. Pare and mince fine two large onions, and squeese the juice from one large onion and set aside. Wipe the salad bowl with a cut bud of garlic, then line it with lettuce leaves carefully washed and dried. Shred six large leaves of lettuce fine, mince a small piece of red pepper and a few celery tops. Now mix the ingredients, dust with pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of sugar and add the fish.

Have ready a boiled dressing that has been chilled. Make the dressing in this way. Take a half cupful of water, a quarter cupful of sugar, salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, a tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, a heaping teaspoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a little water and a saltspoonful of dry mustard. Mix all ingredients and bring slowly to boiling point, add a heaping tablespoonful of butter and boil gently until all is blended and slightly thickened. Then pour onto the beaten yolks of two small eggs, or one large one, and stir until thickened. Chill. When ready to serve, mix the dressing lightly with the salad. Let stand ten minutes to strike through, then serve. Garnish the salad with hard-boiled eggs, cut in fancy shapes and stuffed olives.

TWO MEN TO FILL BALDWIN'S SHOES IN HIS ABSENCE

LORD BALFOUR TO BE ARBITER

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Fulltzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, July 22.—An amusing struggle among the leaders of the Tory party for the deputy premiership during the absence of Premier Baldwin in Canada has been settled by a wholly unprecedented compromise. Strenuous efforts are being made to prevent the dissemination of the fact that Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, and Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, were rivals for the temporary job.

The patch work of the solution is of a character so vague that it may not last. Politicians are hoping or fear, according to their political allegiance—that some fireworks will go off while the Premier is abroad.

A Novel Compromise.

The premature announcement was made yesterday that the Earl of Balfour was to be deputy premier. This roughly represents the fact but the leakage angered followers of Churchill. By all past custom the Chancellor of the Exchequer takes the helm when the Premier is absent. Churchill, however, is a recent convert to the party, is disliked by a large section of Conservatives, and is regarded generally as brilliant and unsafe. It also is known he aspires to seize the leadership.

Sir Austen also aspires to succeed Baldwin in the premiership. For Churchill or Sir Austen to be titular chief during the Premier's absence might create a precedent which would give the victor a preemptive right to lead the Tory party in the future.

Now it is announced that Baldwin has hit on the following solution: Sir Austen will be Deputy Premier, but Churchill will lead the Tory party in the House of Commons. Thus each of the rivals receives a sop and the balance is held between them. The solution is original, as only David Lloyd George during the exceptional pressure of the war when he was Premier, allowed anyone else than the Premier to lead the party in Parliament.

Balfour to Be Arbiter.

This much has been given out, but the role of Lord Balfour is carefully concealed. With Sir Austen and Churchill in their temporary offices, the possibilities of trouble are considerable, so Lord Balfour, who cares nothing for public acclaim, has consented to act as arbiter if necessary. He will have the final word in any dissension.

This situation may be of importance in determining the British policy toward the naval arms conference at Geneva. Churchill, on the whole, is a big navy man. Sir Austen, on the whole, is inclined toward overruling the navy chieftains and making a gesture which might defeat the big navy party in the United States and prevent a building race between that country and Great Britain.

If dissension arises in the Cabinet during the next few days between Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty and chief of the British delegation in Geneva, and the civilian Ministers, Lord Balfour may be expected to arbitrate. His position is not certainly known but is thought to be far removed from the purely technical standpoint assumed by the British delegation at Geneva.

It is predicted in political circles that a struggle is inevitable and that the Admiralty, hitherto invariably victorious in all its struggles with political chiefs of the State, may be compelled to yield more to Lord Balfour than Baldwin could exact.

It also is suggested that Baldwin, although he planned his Canadian trip before the present situation arose, is censurable for leaving before a final decision is made on so momentous an issue as the naval policy.

URGES SOUTHERN EDITORS TO PRINT THE WHOLE TRUTH

Julian Harris of Columbus (Ga.) Sun Says Illiteracy and Intolerance Still Flourish.

By the Associated Press.

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., July 22.—Declaring the South is no longer poverty stricken nor unhealthy, Julian Harris, editor of the Columbus, Ga., Enquirer-Sun, told North Carolina newspaper men at a meeting here last night that illiteracy "still thrives and prejudice and intolerance, often masked and hooded, usurps the law and administers justice with the lash."

"The need for editors to print the truth whether the facts are creditable or discreditable to their community or State has never been greater than it is today," he said, "and never greater has been the responsibility resting on each and every editor to do his full share toward ridding his section of the forces and ideas which are menacing its intellectual progress and spiritual growth, and making a jest of justice and a lie of liberty."

Stressing the possession of "something which is more precious than all the wealth of plutocracy," and yet which he felt many editors looked upon lightly or failed to understand, Harris said "this magnificent possession is the right of the press to express its opinion untrammelled. Therefore, never yield a hair's breadth in your defense of the freedom of speech."

CUBA MODIFIES IMMIGRATION ORDER FOR AMERICAN WOMEN

President Changes Restriction Requiring Proper Papers From Husbands to Permit Landing.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 22.—Regulations preventing women from visiting Cuba without permission of their husbands have been modified by President Machado, so far as Americans are concerned. A stir was created when Dr. Santiago Canizares, Commissioner of Immigration, recently announced that under the terms of the original decree, women who did not have proper papers from their husbands would not be permitted to enter the country.

The decree, as originally framed, was aimed at undesirable foreign women who were finding Cuba a profitable field. It had never been used against an American until last week, when it was invoked against Mrs. Anna Joy. She was sent to a detention camp.

Transport agents and a tourist commission succeeded in drawing orders from the Secretary of the Treasury that discretion be used in invoking the decree, and memorandum was issued by President Machado guaranteeing American citizens every facility within reason for landing here.

COURT REVERSES TREASURY ON CANADIAN TARIFF

Customs Tribunal Rules Returning Americans May Bring in $100 In Merchandise Free of Duty.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A Treasury Department ruling designed to protect American merchants from Canadian competition was reversed today by the United States Customs Court, which decided that Americans remaining in Canada less than four or five days may return with $100 worth of merchandise duty free. The decision applies to citizens returning from Canada the same exemption as applies to those returning from "abroad."

The case decided was brought by H. Ely Goldsmith, consultant on immigration matters, who protested against paying duty on a table cloth purchased in Canada recently. He was upheld by Justices Young, of North Dakota, and Adamson, of Georgia, while Justice Waite, of Michigan, dissented.

"The decision will remove irritation along the Canadian border as to Americans who are buying Irish linens, English and Scotch woolens and English china and porcelain in Canada for souvenir and household use cheaper than in the United States," Goldsmith said.

COMMUNISTS IN JAIL BY TRICK

BRATISLAVA, Czecho-Slovakia, July 22. — Twenty-three Communists unintentionally jailed themselves here today after conducting a demonstration of sympathy for the workmen of Vienna in connection with last week's riots.

After holding a meeting, the Communists rushed to the jail and demanded immediate release of some of their comrades among the prisoners. When their demands increased in violence the prison gates suddenly opened. The manifestants rushed inside, carrying sticks and other weapons. The gates closed behind them and they were thrown in cells.

LABOR DEMANDS MARINES' RECALL FROM NICARAGUA

EXPRESSES REGRET FOR RECENT EVENTS

Urge That People of Country Be Given Opportunity to Solve Own Problems Without Aid.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The Pan-American Federation of Labor by a rising vote has unanimously approved a resolution urging immediate withdrawal of American forces in Nicaragua so that the people of that country "may fully and freely work out their own problems." Action came upon joint motion of Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor, United States delegate, and N. Flores Cabrea of Venezuela.

Preceding its adoption the Congress was diverted from routine procedure when a controversy was precipitated by a move to strike from the record an expression of good will to the meeting from President Machado of Cuba. Ricardo A. Martinez of Venezuela, sponsored the move "in view of the oppression, murder, and crimes made a part of Machado's administration."

Machado Greetings Accepted.

Martinez contended that there were strong probabilities, if the telegram should be accepted, that the Cuban president "would take advantage of it and pose as a protector of the working classes." President Green of the American Federation of Labor, presiding, however, ruled the greetings would be included in the proceedings.

The resolution urging withdrawal of American forces from Nicaragua expressed "regrets" to the Washington Government over recent events in the Central American country and requested that Nicaraguans be given an opportunity to work out their own problems "both for the present as well as in the coming election for a president of Nicaragua, and without any interference on the part of any foreign nation."

It also called upon the executive committee of the Pan-American Federation of Labor to co-operate with the Nicaraguan Federation of Labor. Discussion of the resolution first came before the Congress immediately after the battle between American Marines and Nicaraguan forces commanded by Gen. Sandino.

The Congress also adopted a resolution appealing to Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts, "to exercise his power of clemency and authority of pardoning" in the cases of Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, which he now is reviewing. Four other resolutions pertaining to the Sacco-Vanzetti case were submitted. One, presented by Richardo A. Martinez of Venezuela, asked for the liberty of the two men.

The resolution urging withdrawal of the Marines from Nicaragua was prefaced by five declarations, the first of which stated that the Nicaraguan Federation of Labor was "solely an economic and not a political organization" but was "concerned entirely with the advancement and well-being of the wage earners of Nicaragua and had the independence of Nicaragua" as its aim.

Text of Resolution.

"Nicaragua and its people have been caused great suffering," the resolution said, "in both loss of life, property and sovereignty by reason of foreign authority, not due to any activities on the part of the workers of Nicaragua, but to capitalistic efforts both native and foreign. . . .

"Whereas, improvement of the conditions and life of the workers can only be guaranteed by such freedom embracing equal social and political as well as economic rights which must not be denied, under whatever pretext may be deemed to be used; and

"Whereas, the people of Nicaragua have been the unfortunate victims of a foreign intervention which has caused not only internal suffering but internal difficulties, and to that extent the workers have been denied in their opportunities of working out their conditions of life and of work, and in their most elemental rights as citizens; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the American Government be given a respectful but emphatic petition requesting immediate withdrawal of United States forces on land, sea and air."

The resolution deplored the "tragic events as related in the daily press to the loss of lives said to have occurred on account of the intervention decreeded against that free country."

Accuses Wall Street Powers.

Another attack on American policy in Nicaragua marked today's sessions of the congress. Salomon de la Selva of Nicaragua charged that Wall street interests and not protection of American lives and property caused the American forces to be sent to Central America.

He made his charges in supporting a resolution opposing the agreement entered into between the Diaz Government and New York bankers March 21, 1927. The resolution which said the bankers obtained undue control over the finances of the Nicaraguan Government and the economic and political rights of the Nicaraguan people, was adopted unanimously by the congress.

De Salva said that as a result of every upsetting of political law in Nicaragua since 1909, there had crystallized a contract whereby American bankers had obtained the profits of Nicaraguan workers. He explained the intention of the resolution was to aid opposition to the move in the forthcoming extra session of the National Congress of Nicaragua "to consider obtaining a loan from the United States Government and to transfer to said United States Government the privileges and rights" which the bankers obtained by virtue of the March agreement.

MEXICAN OUTLAWS KIDNAP AMERICAN; RANCH SEIZED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Kidnaping of one American citizen by Mexican outlaws and the occupation of the 75,000-acre ranch of another was reported to the State Department today coincident with the receipt of a note from the Mexican Foreign Office expressing regret at the attack on William E. Chapman, American Consul at Puerto, Mexico. The advices said civil authorities were searching for those responsible.

The kidnaping of Russel Johnson, superintendent of the American Smelting and Refining Co., near Parral, was reported by Consul McEnelly at Chihuahua. Federal troops were searching for the bandits, the message said, and Charge Schoenfeld at Mexico City has made representations to the Foreign Office in regard to the case.

The ranch occupied is near Tamazula, Mexico, and is owned by Dolores Newton. It was used by a band of 2400 revolutionists, the consulate at Guadalajara reported. The commander of the Federal forces said that a battalion had been sent in pursuit of the revolutionists.

Houses Adjacent to Holy Place in Jerusalem Made Unsafe by Earth Tremors.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, July 22.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—For the first time in many centuries the prayers of pious Jews at the western wall of the temple, commonly known as the Wailing Wall, have been interrupted. The recent earthquake that shook Palestine, and Trans-Jordania, is responsible, the authorities forbidding pilgrimages of the Jews to the wall, because they say the houses in the narrow streets adjacent to it have been rendered unsafe by the quake.

Emir Abdullah, ruler of Trans-Jordania, has decreed a fast of three days as an aftermath of the earthquake. Any Arab subjects of the Emir found eating during these three days will be liable to six months' imprisonment.

STRESSES MILITARY VALUE OF FLIGHT TO HAWAII

Most Vital Achievement of Sort Since Building of Panama Canal, Gen. Summerall Says at Dinner to Aviators.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—"From a military point of view, considering the necessities of the defense of the Pacific, the successful flight to Hawaii from California by Lieuts. Maitland and Hegenberger is the most vital accomplishment since the construction of the Panama Canal," said Major-General Charles P. Summerall, chief of the Army General Staff, in an address last night at a dinner given by the National Aeronautical Association in honor of the army aviators.

Summerall declared that it had long been recognized that the nation holding the Hawaiian Islands had the military key to the Pacific, controlling both the eastern part of that ocean as well as the western coast of the United States. The flight, he said, had simplified the matter of the defense of the islands as well as of the other Pacific possessions of the United States.

Military Vision of Future.

"We can imagine clouds of airplanes taking off from California and in a few hours landing at the Hawaiian Islands, augmenting the island force and furnishing a great air defense," he said. "Military experts realize that much work remains after the pioneering flight, but are convinced that it will be entirely successful. While only a limited number of planes can be maintained on the islands, bombs and ammunition in unlimited quantities for their use can be stored there and with the outbreak of hostilities it would be possible to send out great fleets of large bombers from the Pacific Coast."

"While here in the States the commercial airplane is competing with fast railroad trains, between California and Hawaii it would be competing with only comparatively slow boats," Hegenberger said. "I believe from talks I had with enthusiastic men interested in aviation in the islands that our flight will result in the establishment of commercial air routes from the States."

Moreover, he said he believed the flight would lead to hops to the farthest distant of the country's Pacific possessions, the Philippines. He said he expected such a flight to be made in the near future with stops on the way at Midway Islands and Guam.

Porter Adams, president, announced that the Aeronautical Association had created a new gold medal to honor outstanding achievements and had awarded the first ones struck to Maitland and Hegenberger.

High Officers Greet Flyers.

Maitland and Hegenberger flew here from Dayton, O., yesterday and were cheered by thousands as they descended on the flying field. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, presented to each a citation for the Distinguished Flying Cross, praising this "masterly exploit" as "worthy of the greatest praise" and one "bestowing much credit on the United States Army."

Then on behalf of President Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg greeted the army aviators as did Secretary Wilbur, Gen. John J. Pershing, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Warner, Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics; Anthony Fokker, inventor of the plane in which the trans-Pacific flight was made, and Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright Aeronautic Corporation, which built the Whirlwind engines of the plane.

"On behalf of the President, I compliment and congratulate you on the great nonstop flight to Hawaii," Secretary Kellogg said. "It was a wonderful achievement and formed a new chapter in the history of aviation."

"I am very glad to be here to extend my own congratulations," Gen. Pershing said. "If I may presume to do so, and speak for the army, I wish to say how proud we all are of your splendid achievement. It will mean very much for the advancement of aviation. I hope you may both live to see the results of your fine example of efficient aviation."

COOLIDGE URGES GOVERNMENT TO SUPPLY HARVEST WORKERS

President Forecasts Large Crops in Letter to Secretary of Labor.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Coolidge has written Secretary Davis of the Labor Department asking that an increased effort be made to supply the seasonal demand for harvest labor in the West.

While Acting Secretary Husband declined to make public the executive communication, it was said Mr. Coolidge foresaw the possibility of exceptionally large crops and felt the Labor Department should take every precaution of preventing a possible shortage of harvest labor.

In Kansas, where the employment service ordinarily figures it necessary to provide 25,000 workers from outside the State, the increased use of harvesting machinery has reduced the anticipated number of outside workers required to about 18,000.

U. S.-MEXICAN CLAIMS BOARD EXTENDED FOR TWO YEARS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Extension for two years of the life of the Mexican-American Claims Commission, scheduled to lapse Aug. 30, has been agreed upon in preliminary negotiations between the two Governments and negotiations between the State Department and the Mexican Embassy are in progress to clear up details.

The 1923 agreement creating the commission called for complete disposal of all claims presented by the end of August, 1927. A total of 3257 claims, 2463 by the United States, have been filed up to the present, but as only 51 claims involving upward of $2,000,000 have been awarded, extension of the life of the commission was regarded as imperative.

A resolution authorizing President Coolidge to enter into negotiations with Mexico to this end was approved at the last session of Congress. The new convention is understood to be along lines similar to the one in existence.

ROYAL ESTATE ABOUT $1,500,000

Carol, in Exile, to Receive $400,000 in Cash and Stocks, Balance Apportioned to Other Children.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, July 22.—Under the will of King Ferdinand, former Crown Prince Carol is cut off from inheriting any real estate, but falls heir to about $400,000 in cash and stocks. The rest of the King's estate including palaces, city dwellings and country houses, is apportioned equally among the other children. Queen Marie receives the use of the palaces and a part of the revenue from the King's property holdings, which are not extensive. The total value of the estate is about $1,500,000.

The will was executed two years ago and modified after Carol renounced his rights to the throne.

Michael I, Carol's six-year-old son, who was installed as King under a regency on the day of Ferdinand's death, begins his reign with an inheritance from his grandfather of about $250,000.

Even if Ferdinand had desired to disinherit Carol altogether, this was impossible, as Rumanian law specifies that children must receive three-fourths of a deceased parent's fortune.

King's Letter Closed Door on Carol.

"As a Christian, I have always been influenced by the thought of the moment when I will find myself before my God. As a Rumanian and King, I have sacrificed my life on this earth, but my love of country does not permit me to consider my duty ends with this life, and I cannot but think of what follows it.

"God willed that the crown with which the fortunes of the country are indissolubly bound up, should pass to the head of the minor Mihai (Michael), I pray heaven will accord him its benediction; that under his reign Rumania may be strengthened and enlarged — Rumania which has been built up by so many sacrifices.

"I appeal to all good and wise citizens to aid him to the utmost of their power in promoting orderly progress of the State."

After mentioning Prince Nicholas, his son, as regent, and referring to Carol's renunciation, the King added:

"My son Carol must seek to impose respect for the present regime on all desirous to injure or destroy it. The situation created by his renunciation of the three was brought about in such a way as to make it his most imperative duty as a Rumanian, as a son and as a parent to respect the undertaking entered into of his own free will without being influenced by anyone."

Changed Will Against Carol.

King Ferdinand's sorrow over Carol's renunciation of his throne rights is shown by this statement which he added to his will in January, 1926:

"It was the Lord's will to impose this trial upon the country and myself and cause great sorrow to the Queen by the Crown Prince's renunciation of the throne. Never until the end of my days will I forget the grief which overwhelmed me when I saw myself forced to take cognizance of that decision, while realizing that unfortunately the measure was necessary in the interests of the State and the Crown interests, which have always guided me in all circumstances. The change thus brought about in the succession to the throne obliges me to make the following modifications and add the following codicils to my testament."

Then followed the cancellation of the bequest of his castles and domains to Carol in favor of the new King, and the codicils were concluded with the words:

"I pray to God to help my darling son Carol in the new life he has chosen against our will, and to make the consequences of his choice the easiest possible."

The body of King Ferdinand lay in state today in the golden hall of Cotrocenl palace here. Thousands of his people filed past the bier. The body, dressed in the uniform of a general, lies in a simple gold-

REICHSBANK GETS CREDIT IN AMERICA OF $25,000,000

Transaction Is Result of Recent Visit of Dr. Schacht to America, Says New York Newspaper.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The New York Times says a credit of at least $25,000,000 for the German Reichsbank has been arranged by a New York banking group, headed by the International Acceptance Bank, Inc.

The credit comes as a result of the recent visit here of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, who, the Times says, conferred with commercial bankers while in this country and attended discussions of the executives of the Bank of England, the Bank of France and Federal Reserve banks.

Officials of the International Acceptance Bank are extremely incommunicative regarding the credit, the Times says, but from other banks participating in the transaction it is learned that the credit will run for a year and the total may go as high as $30,000,000.

The money will be placed at the disposal of the Reichsbank, the Times says, for its use when wanted. It is a strictly private banking transaction, such as has been arranged in the past by New York bankers for central banks in various parts of the world.

Canoe Technique.

IF a canoe is tipped over by rough water or the wake of a passing boat it is good practice for the occupants to turn it completely upside down and jettison its cargo, if any. This leaves considerable air under the bottom of the canoe and the erstwhile paddlers can float for an indefinite period of time by merely holding lightly to the gunwales on either side. Even a moderate swimmer can, by holding on to a capsized canoe with one or both hands, kick or tow it a long way toward shore in an hour, and rest as often as need be.

The writer has made many experiments with the floating capacity of various models of canoes and always, if the canoe is either upside down or right side up and half full of water, it has sufficient buoyancy to float any live load which might have comprised its crew. Not so long ago a 30-foot war canoe, capable of hosting 16 paddlers, was capsized while crossing a rough lake. Eight of the 16 paddlers tried to swim ashore and were drowned. The remaining eight hung on to the canoe and, towing and drifting, eventually made the shore. After this accident I made an experiment with a similar canoe and 16 Boy Scouts. We found that the war canoe, after being tipped over and righted held about two-thirds of its capacity in water. It would then easily hold up the 16 boys, who were, by the way, nearly all full-grown men in stature.

"Mr. Pinchot On Valuation."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR editorial, 'Mr. Pinchot on Valuation," is very timely. If you could only impress on the mind of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri that it is not the servant of the public service corporations but guardian of the people's interests, then possibly there would not be so much complaint of its findings as to rates and so much hardship placed on the pocketbooks of the ones that are compelled to pay these rates.

Why don't you advocate the election of the Public Service Commission by the people and not as it is, by appointment? If its members were elected by the people, then we could have them account to the voters for their actions.

An Antidote for Bolshevik Poison.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ACCORDING to a recent correspondent of yours, bolshevik poison is the real cause of all the recent serious trouble in England, Germany, Chile, Yap and Kerry Patch. That disposes of practically every ill that flesh is heir to, except the standing of the Browns, bathing beauties and people who eat spinach.

If soviet propaganda is so subtly persuasive that people swallow it without looking at the label on the bottle, couldn't we try using the same means to attain our objective?

You can print reams upon reams of the stuff for the price of one bomb. And even an ignoram is knows the truth when he sees it. They cannot read? Then how in the name of logic do they read the red propaganda? In place of trying to persuade us that the country is prosperous, that a third term is not a third term and that Providence can care for the Mississippi Valley, I think the administration might tell Central America that our bombs are benevolent bombs and dropped only in case of extreme necessity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE traffic cops of St. Louis are the most narrow-minded bullies toward tourists of any city in the United States. Saturday evening, a Mr. Troutman and family of Los Angeles made a left hand turn at Washington and Kingshighway, and the language one cop used in the presence of his wife and little children and my wife couldn't be put on paper and sent through the mail. Mr. Troutman thought well of St. Louis till then, but now he goes back to California hating St. Louis and I can't blame him.

Bring on the Goose-Grease.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM heartily in favor of the re-election of President Coolidge, third term "bogey" notwithstanding. Why should the powers that be, to wit, Wall street, be put to the trouble and expense of electing a new man? Cal is eminently satisfactory. Wall street will never get a better President, and consider how much more satisfactory it would be to re-elect the same man (who has been tried and proved) than to pick a new man who might slip the bridle at the first opportunity.

Let us all pull together, then—bring on the goose-grease and the vaseline.

P. B. P.

AFTER THREE MONTHS.

Mr. Hoover has finally reached Rapid City and made his report as to the pressing needs of the flood victims, and, according to the Associated Press, "the President was prepared today to give consideration to the question of whether an early session of Congress was advisable to consider the problem."

The date of the "today" in the dispatch quoted is July 21. It is almost three months since Mr. Hoover, at the President's direction, arrived at Memphis to take charge of the flood situation, organize and direct the relief forces, survey the devastation and, presumably, prepare his recommendations. The exact date of Mr. Hoover's arrival at Memphis was April 25.

Meantime Mr. Hoover has seen the President and has, of course, discussed with him this national calamity. The public, however, has no knowledge of what transpired at those conferences. There are ample publicity facilities at Washington continuously and instantly at the President's service, but Mr. Coolidge has not availed himself of those facilities to whisper so much as a syllable of Mr. Hoover's findings or judgment as to what should be done.

The American people have been regaled often enough during those three months with the visits of fawning politicians to the White House, all of whom left the presence with flattering statements as to Mr. Coolidge's popularity and roseate assertions as to the all but unanimous sentiment back home for "another term." And since the journey to the far country of the Black Hills, columns of newspaper space have been consumed with the President's prowess, as an angler, with his masquerade in cowboy regalia, with the spell his extraordinary magnetism and charm have cast over the sturdy yeomanry of the wide open spaces. But throughout those 90 days the Government's paramount obligation to the victims of the flood has been a forbidden subject. Beyond the early refusal to call Congress in extra session to provide relief for the impoverished refugees Mr. Coolidge has broken silence but once, when he reprimanded Senator Smoot of Utah for venturing the prediction that Congress would be convoked probably in October.

Now, after three months of indefensible inaction, Mr. Coolidge has admittedly had a talk with Mr. Hoover and is ready to consider the advisability of an extra session to deal with this emergency. What about the flood victims in the meanwhile? Except for private charity they must have perished. How well has private charity met this tremendous obligation which the Government, by Mr. Coolidge's indecision, has shirked? We do not know. But we can draw logical conclusions from Mr. Hoover's statement as reported from Rapid City. This statement estimates the minimum flood damage at $250,000,000 and the number of homeless persons at 750,000. The Red Cross, financed by popular subscription, has "cared for 608,000 persons." Just what that means is not clear. When, however, it is remembered that the Red Cross subscription totaled about $16,000,000 we can see that the per capita relief for its 608,000 wards was $26, and we can calculate the measure of relief possible with such means.

In addition, certain plans for rehabilitation and reconstruction have been formulated and announced with a bit of flourish, but such assistance was to be provided by way of loans. How the flood victims, stripped of everything they possessed can ever repay those loans, or can even muster sufficient credit to procure the loans, has never been explained. This phase of the reconstruction problem has baffled and distressed thoughtful citizens generally, but apparently it has not disturbed the President of the United States.

But Mr. Coolidge has at last heard there was a flood in the Mississippi Valley this spring, and, late in July, he is preparing to consider an obligation which should have commanded the best of his head and heart three desolate, accusing months ago.

WILL SENATOR REED APOLOGIZE?

Now the prize fight is over and betting upon that gladiatorial combat has subsided, what would you bet that Senator Reed is going to apologize to Aaron Sapiro?

Sapiro says Mr. Ford is fully forgiven, but he intimates that the Senator is a long ways from forgiveness. If that is so, he is in our humble opinion as near it as he will ever get. We claim no knowledge of the Senator that everyone does not possess, but unless we misjudge him he is not the forgiving sort. He has had some excellent opportunities in his own State to suggest that bygones be bygones, but even when his political fortunes were in extremis he never made any such suggestion so far as we know. All we ever heard him say, and usually in very loud and angry tones, was what Macbeth said, that is:

"Lay on, Macduff, and damned be him that first cries 'Hold, enough!'"

This is, we imagine, the best for which Sapiro can hope. Unlike Mr. Ford, the Senator has no reverse gear.

A PALPABLE HIT.

Eugene Wengert, District Attorney of Milwaukee, struck a palpable blow at religious bigotry when he told the Walther League in convention here that the church should stay out of politics. He inveighed against attempts to impose through legislation a church's viewpoint of morals upon a people. He pointed to religion which, by the reasonableness of its doctrine and its appeal to conscience, should guide the individual. He concluded that if the churches would inspire men to follow an enlightened conscience, morality would not be the kind that fears a policeman's club. It would be the beautiful flower of an individual's own highest desires.

Sensible men of all creeds should feel like applauding this viewpoint. The trend of many religious organizations in the last few decades has been to try to legislate goodness into people. And that, obviously, cannot be done. Religious leaders can point the way to life's noblest living. If they are wise they know the noblest characters are not built without freedom to do wrong. Temptation would seem to be necessary. How could there be any virtue without vice, pleasure without pain, pity and compassion without suffering, love without hate?

The great teachers of the race, aware of this and of the diversity of tastes among people, do not attempt to prescribe by law the sumptuary habits of men or compel all to hold the same religious views regarding the Sabbath and how its leisure shall be spent. That would be almost as stupid as trying to put the same size and style of coat and shoes on us all. Human beings are no more alike in spiritual makeup than they are in the matter of being fitted with clothing. Nor are they, in their noblest form, like sheep or monkeys, following and imitating, although some religious lobbyists would make everyone follow the mode of living they think exemplary.

It is as John Stuart Mill wrote: "He who lets the world, or his own portion of it, choose his plan of life for him, has no need of any other faculty than the apelike one of imitation."

FRANCHISES AND PERMITS.

It is immensely pertinent to the street railways discussion that no such franchise as that now sought by the reorganizers of the United Railways has been granted by the city of St. Louis in 20 years.

In those 20 years much has happened. As the Massachusetts public utility commission has pointed out, and the Interstate Commerce Commission has intimated, court decisions have in this period reversed the relation of the corporate community to the public utility. That is, where the community formerly granted to the utility a franchise through which it regulated fare and service, the laws have subsequently vested these regulatory powers in commissions and courts and thus made the communities the prey of the utilities. What happened here in the matter of the gas utility perfectly illustrates this point. The utility went to the State commission for the valuation upon which rates are based. The financial manipulation of the property, by which Munroe and his associates made more than $6,000,000, was entirely over the city's head. The utility was, as the Massachusetts commission puts it, preying upon the city. It enjoyed an advantage.

This is what the reorganizers of the street railways seek to do. They want an advantage. Fortunately, they are suffering a setback in the opposition of Mayor Miller, who cannot see why his administration should lend itself to the mere enrichment of speculators. Thus the more modern method of dealing with a public utility, that is the permit, moves into the foreground. As the Post-Dispatch revealed yesterday, the United Railways are operating their busses upon permits. They were refused franchises for them in 1923 by Mr. Kiel, who was at that time Mayor, and have been satisfied ever since to operate their busses in this way.

The permit is a more reciprocal contract than a franchise. If the utility attempts to exploit the community the city can terminate its permit to operate. This restores to the community the control of which it was deprived by the processes of law which reversed the prior condition. It is a defense discovered by cities for their own protection. They have found out that by refusing to grant franchises under which they relinquish all regulatory control and expose themselves to the predatory instinct of the utility, they can retain this control and simply issue permits. This is the way Detroit handles its utilities. They are on good behavior. This is a great gain for the science of city government, which has been in the doldrums of late as to this difficult matter. It has, in a word, revived home rule.

It is therefore important that the community should understand what the issue is. The speculators are fighting for the franchise, something that is out of date. The city, upon the other hand, is fighting for recovery of that control which it lost when these matters were taken out of its hands. It is fighting for that to which every progressive city is resorting in self defense.

Only a very backward and immodern city, one unfamiliar with what progressive communities are doing in their own defense, could lose a fight like that.

GREAT MOVIE COMEDIANS.

PROF. DEMPSEY AND THE EXPERTS.

The experts of the press were wrong by the usual overwhelming majority in their diagnosis of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight. They were wrong for the obvious reason that they did not exercise their judgment, but, instead, surrendered to a superstition.

The mythology of sport packs the grim decree that "they never come back." The history of the prize ring, perhaps, pronounces the same ultimatum. But in last night's encounter Dempsey not only disposed of Sharkey but he kayoed mythology and history, too. And he gave the experts a lesson which, as sincere craftsmen, they should ponder and con and absorb.

The lesson is that the individual may not be fitted into any pattern of precedent. It is not written in the stars that a champion pugilist, once dethroned, is as dead, professionally, as Julius Caesar. Wherefore, it should not so be written in the dispatches from the training camps. Nor is it a law of the Medes and Persians that a champion is invincible. Somewhere along the regal trail a Dempsey inevitably meets his Tunney, just as Willard met his Dempsey, Johnson his Willard, Jeffries his Johnson, and so on back to Pithecanthropus.

Our experts ought to get away from their fetiches. In attempting to forecast the result of a major sporting event they should depend upon their specialized knowledge and their powers of observation. They know now, after last night's demonstration, that a man is still pretty close to his physical crest at 32. Prof. Dempsey at that age showed no evidence of decay—no tremor of senility. The wallop and 32 are more than compatible; they are ardent affinities. A truth the experts should remember.

The celebrated peace without victory seems to have been achieved at last in Vienna, where both sides claim to have won, and peace is restored.

THE PRESIDENTIAL HAT.

There is some difference of opinion as to the proper characterization of Mr. Coolidge's new hat, the one that goes with the cowboy chaps, the blue shirt and the red necktie. Literalists maintain that it ought to be called a two-gallon affair; Senator Reed of Missouri gives it a capacity of five gallons; others think that 10 hits it off most neatly. But however the hat may be described—and we, shamelessly, prefer the 10-gallon measure—it will be agreed that it fits perfectly into the presidential ensemble. It gives tone to the chaps, and from the chaps derives an added he-mannish effect. It is part of a perfect symphony. Now if somebody would only caparison the presidential steed, Electron, in trappings to match the rider's!

"ALL RIGHT, RUMANIA, LET'S GO."

OCOTAL

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AMERICANS raised quite a protest when the French butchered the Riffians who were fighting for independence in Morocco: French flyers killed the Riffs in great numbers, and America thought it was not a nice game, for the Riffs had not even a gambler's chance. Now the American aviators are playing the same game against the Nicaraguans, who are fighting quite as hopelessly as were the Riffs for what they deem their right to self-government.

Brigands or guerrillas, the Nicaraguans killed at Ocotal are no pretty or attractive advertisement of American benevolence. The question seems to be whether or not the game is worth the candle. It will be easy to crush all the opposition in Nicaragua, but in the process we shall unquestionably alienate Latin-American sentiment and place ourselves in a lamentably disadvantageous light. Is Adolfo Diaz worth it? Are the American interests whom Adolfo favors so important? Let us ponder deeply before we send our airmen out to kill 300 more unkempt Nicaraguans.

ANOTHER BLOODY CHAPTER.

From the New York World.

IT is another bloody chapter in the story of an unhappy little country that has seen nothing but tragedy and turmoil since the Diaz revolution of last year. No doubt the one-sided character of the casualty lists in this engagement will be pointed to by many of our critics in Latin-America as evidence of the brutality with which the United States is ready to impose its will upon a smaller neighbor. But the case is not so simple. The policy of disarming all factions in Nicaragua was and is a far better policy than the policy we had previously pursued—of taking sides and helping to make war. It has resulted in a tragedy. But the tragedy we did not will. We simply encountered it, against our will, attempting at a late date to extricate ourselves from the consequences of an original blunder.

TO BE REGRETTED.

From the Chicago Daily News.

FOR other reasons than the loss of life the engagement at Ocotal, Nicaragua, between a few United States marines, aided by native constabulary and American airplanes, and a large guerrilla force under the rebel leader, Sandino, is to be regretted. Through being misrepresented by enemies of the United States as part of an imperialistic attempt to force the will of this country on the Latin-American nations, it will tend to prolong the bitterness felt in many parts of Central and South America against everything North American.

THE LOW-DOWN.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG gives the country the low-down—as they express it in our great student bodies—on the Nicaraguan episode in simple language that even childlike minds may grasp. Sandino, erstwhile Liberal General, says he, is a common outlaw and hence the military forces of the United States were entirely justified in letting daylight through the gentleman and his followers with machine-gun bullets, aerial bombs and such other scourges of the wicked as are known to the pure in heart.

It would seem, then, that Sandino's mistake is not so much being a bandit as it is being a bandit in Nicaragua. Had he chosen Illinois as the scene of his operations this terrible thing would not have happened to him. He would have attained to a dignity and respect in the eyes of the authorities that would have guaranteed to him life, liberty and the pursuit of payroll clerks.

MALIGNANT ILL-LUCK.

From the New York Times.

EVENTS this week show that the lot of an international policeman on foreign soil is distinctly not a happy one. When it comes to actual warfare, in which there are casualties in our marines, and a reported great slaughter among the Nicaraguans who attacked them, it seems as if ill luck were malignantly pursuing the whole venture.

The unluckiest thing of all is undoubtedly the bad impression, even if it is distorted away from the facts, which will be created in all Central and South America.

BUTCHERY.

From the Springfield (Mo.) Daily News.

THE inequality of the struggle, the preponderous overbalance of the casualties make the encounter smack more of butchery or massacre than battle. And immediately our hothouse statesmen are astride the neck of Secretary of State Kellogg, "labor" conventions and "leagues" whose members scarcely ever heard of Nicaragua loudly demand that the marines be withdrawn and leather-lung politicians cry that our neighbors be permitted to govern themselves as they wish.

"HEROIC DEFENSE."

From the New York Herald-Tribune.

THE United States intervened at the request of the recognized Nicaraguan Government, and also as a matter of international duty. It went to the assistance of Americans and other foreigners whose lives and property were jeopardized by the insurrection. The heroic defense of the Ocotal garrison is probably one of the last incidents to the restoration of public order.

PSYCHOLOGY: A SIMPLIFICATION. By Loyd Ring Coleman and Saxe Commins. (Boni & Liveright.)

IT MAY be said that the history of psychology is that of a philosophy striving desperately in these latter years to become a science. That it has managed to become scientific in certain particulars has been demonstrated pragmatically; but anyone who has been at all interested in contemporary psychological theorizing must have marveled at the chaotic appearance of this field of thought when regarded as a whole.

When it is considered that we do not know what consciousnes is, it seems not at all strange that the study of the phenomena of consciousness should result in so many conflicting theories. One school has even gone to the length of banishing the concept of consciousness from the field and dealing only with physiological mechanisms. On the other side of the circle of possible conjecture there are psychical researchers who are convinced through experiment that the conscious ego is only temporarily associated with the physiological machine, and that no real progress can be made toward a fundamentally scientific psychology until science is willing to forego its narrow materialistic prejudice and consider the alleged phenomena of spiritism. There are still others who suspect that if we could solve the problems of epistemology, we should find that there is nothing but consciousness; that all so-called sciences are merely crude attempts to relate the details of a vast illusion of the senses, thus making the science of mind the one universal science.

The idealist seems, at least, no farther from establishing his theory than is the hard-boiled materialist who would make psychology a branch of physiology.

In the present volume it is the purpose of Messrs. Coleman and Commins to give a comprehensive view of the present chaos of psychological theory. They call their work "a simplification," which may prove misleading to many. No attempt is made to create a harmony out of so many discords, for the authors have a robust sense of humor. The "simplification" seems to consist in showing that psychology has not yet become a science in the sense that chemistry is one. This will be news chiefly for those whom the news will not reach.

After having made a survey of the whole troubled field, the authors have the following to say:

"The impartial judge who seeks a note of truth within the clamor raised by the embattled psychologists is nourishing a naive illusion. If it were ever possible to call a truce long enough to clear the atmosphere and get a precise statement of aims, then there might be some hope of weaving a comprehensible pattern from the raveled chaos. The genius who can bring about a stice. And if he would be little hope t be able to reconcile conciliable elements logists insist are the man conduct."

Further on we fin ing:

"Psychology has task of measuring th measurable. It has attempts in the fac aging problem. Its h how groping its prog Until now, it has fou cipate itself from it al heritage. It has much from the biol as it could use. By pudiating its biolog may yet return like philosophy, beg forg denial of its parent, tenance from it ag the beginning."

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1927.

MANILA, July 22. — Charles Fuller Baker, dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of the Philippines, died today of tropical dysentery. His life was virtually a sacrifice to his work at the college, where for 15 years he had been developing tropical agricultural research sure to prove of great future value.

Dean Baker's devotion to his work and to his Filipino students was remarkable. He spent a large portion of his own salary in entomological and botanical research, not being supplied with sufficient funds for that purpose. He personally collected specimens which he furnished to scientific friends in America, Europe, India, Japan, Australia, Africa and the East Indies. He built up an excellent faculty of Americans and Filipinos. He was born in Michigan in 1872 and was the brother of Ray Stannard Baker, the writer, and of Hugh Potter Baker.

If it were ever possible to call a truce long enough to clear the atmosphere and get a precise statement of aims, then there might be some hope of weaving a comprehensible pattern from the raveled chaos. The genius does not live who can bring about such an armistice. And if he could, there would be little hope that he would be able to reconcile all the irreconcilable elements that psychologists insist are the basis of human conduct."

Further on we find the following:

"Psychology has set itself the task of measuring the almost immeasurable. It has made brave attempts in the face of a discouraging problem. Its history reveals how groping its progress has been. Until now, it has fought to emancipate itself from its philosophical heritage. It has absorbed as much from the biological sciences as it could use. By no means repudiating its biological loans, it may yet return like a prodigal to philosophy, beg forgiveness for its denial of its parent, and draw sustenance from it again as it did in the beginning."

In view of the fatal ease with which new theories of science are reduced to superficial phrases and popularized, it would be a good thing if this comprehensive survey of a field, in which far too many are "terribly at ease," could be widely circulated.

STATESMANSHIP OR WAR. By John McAuley Palmer. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

Brigadier-General Palmer is regarded in the Army as an expert on the subject here discussed, and is credited with having written practically the whole National Defense Act. His purpose here is to show how preparedness for war, after the manner of the Swiss Republic, not only insures the continuance of democratic institutions but makes war highly improbable.

The book is extremely impressive and is not to be confused with the works of either militarists or pacifists.

The body was taken to the winter palace from the summer palace at Sinaia, where Ferdinand died. It will lie in state until Sunday, when burial will take place in the royal mausoleum at Curtea de Arges. On his tomb will be engraved the words: "I am a Rumanian, first, last and all the time."

Guns boomed as the funeral train came to a stop in the capital. Although rain was falling silent crowds watched as the coffin, surmounted by the sovereign's sword and cap, was borne from the station to a gun carriage and thence through the streets of the city to the palace. Men, women and children wept as the cortege passed.

Awaiting the body at the palace were the regents, cabinet members, the commander-in-chief of the army and civil authorities. When the procession made its way through the portals of the palace, Prince Nicholas, in crepe-banded naval uniform, walked close to his sister, Princess Ileana, who wore deep mourning.

In the afternoon the family gathered for a brief, religious ceremony. While prayers were intoned, clouds of incense filled the great hall. Then, with the bells of a mountain monastery tolling a farewell, the coffin, on the shoulders of senior generals of the army, was borne to the black-draped train for the journey to Bucharest. At many places along the route, wild flowers were strewn on the railroad tracks by peasants who had assembled from distant places to see the funeral train pass.

With the boy king Michael's reign established, the country remains calm, and the Government has made known its determination to crush any attempt by followers of former Crown Prince Carol to regain the throne for him. In this connection, the story is recalled of a conversation which King Ferdinand had last year with Bratiano, who has since become premier.

"I would have him shot," Bratiano is reported to have told the King when talking about a report that Carol was leaving Paris and proceeding to Rumania.

"Take care that he does not have you shot," Ferdinand replied laughingly.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 22.—Richer by his father's bequest of $400,000, former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania now appears to cherish the idea of mounting the throne he renounced, judging by statements to the press, in which he refers to himself as "King Carol of Rumania." His 6-year-old son was formally installed yesterday as King Michael I.

Meanwhile, his application for permission to return to Bucharest to attend the funeral of Ferdinand has not been answered, according to his own announcement, and Rumanian circles here express the belief that this or other communications he may send will receive no answer while Premier Bratiano is in power. These circles say also that the prospects that he will be King Carol II are extremely remote.

"King Carol" Issues Statement.

"King Carol of Rumania, deeply afflicted by the death of his father and moved by feelings of devotion toward the late sovereign, regrets for the moment he is unable to make any communication to the press. He thus finds himself prevented from formulating a declaration which the new situation calls for. Yesterday morning he expressed telegraphically to the members of the Rumanian royal family a desire to attend his father's funeral. Up to the present he has received no answer."

REED ASSAILS TOLL BRIDGES AND ROADS

Senator Says City Would Have Tripled Population Had It Provided Free Span.

United States Senator James A. Reed, looking trim, vigorous and fit, came to St. Louis from Kansas City yesterday to contribute a pointed five-minute speech on the advantages of untrammeled trade to the Southern Approach celebration at Forest Park Highlands.

"You have opened the door of St. Louis a little wider to the commerce of the nation," he said, referring to the passage of bills by the Board of Aldermen providing for the completion of the southern approach to the Municipal Bridge at a cost of $1,500,000.

"There is nothing more absurd than toll bridges and toll roads unless it is the highwayman with a pistol. The toll is that much loss to the entire country. The city that does not provide free highways is bound to suffer in comparison with cities that do.

What Bridge Means to City.

"If St. Louis 40 years ago had provided free bridges, St. Louis would have three times its present population and wealth."

Those who expected to hear the senior Missouri Senator make one of his famous slashing addresses were disappointed. Apparently his audience of about 2000 persons, mostly women and children, was not of a character to move him to his usual forensic efforts. Some of the romping children interrupted their play to cluster around the pergola at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and stare in awe at the erect, white-haired Senator, but part of his brief speech was drowned out in the noise of the play-ground.

Frank K. Harris, general chairman of the southern approach celebration, introduced the Senator and Mayor Miller, who spoke with equal brevity after Reed.

About 3500 at Picnic.

A picnic crowd of about 3500 persons amused itself in the park during the afternoon. A jazz orchestra and a bout between Tom and Jack Danforth, four-year-old twins of Tommy Danforth, former St. Louis pugilist, provided entertainment for the crowd before Senator Reed arrived. One of the boxing twins, who are making their first appearance in St. Louis, is a girl.

Reed's address was scheduled as the principal event of the second day of a celebration that was marked Wednesday by a parade and speaking at the foot of the Municipal Bridge. The Senator, at the opening of his speech, however, remarked the crowd had come to the park for a good time and probably preferred to continue diverting itself without listening to "dry speeches."

"It is no task for me to come to St. Louis," he said. "I always come to St. Louis when I want something and I always take it back with me."

Apparently Reed's allusion was to the 43,000 majority Republican St. Louis gave him in his race for the United States Senatorship in 1922. Many of these votes came from the South Side, the sponsor of the Southern approach celebration.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The stock market wavered today as selling attacks increased in volume and intensity, but strong buying support was forthcoming for most issues and prices made irregular recovery. Final quotations were mixed, with net declines predominating, but a number of issues reached new high ground, and a few recorded rather substantial gains.

Lowering of the call money renewal rate to 3¾ per cent, the lowest of the year, following publication of the weekly Federal reserve statement showing an increase of 4.1 per cent, to 88 per cent. In the local reserve ration, furnished fresh proof of the extreme east of credit conditions, which has been the mail bulwark of the recent advance. A distinctly easier undertone also was apparent in the time money and commercial paper markets.

Much of today's liquidation was believed to represent week-end prof-taking on the part of professional traders and small speculators. "Bear" traders succeeded in forcing another break of nearly 10 points in Houston Oil, 7 of which were later recovered, and in making inroads in some of the railroad, amusement and specialty shares, but the general list offered good resistance to pressure.

Motors Are Prominent.

Motors were again prominent in the advance, with all sorts of merger and dividend rumors in circulation. General Motors attained a new peak at 216½ and then eased a point on realizing. Chrysler was the individual feature, moving up more than 3 points to 51¼, or within a fraction of the year's high. Mack Trucks, Studebaker and Hudson showed only fractional changes.

Oil shares continued to move within rather narrow limits. The decision of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission to curtail production in the Seminole field was offset. Coppers continued firm in reflection of the recent stiffening of commodity prices, Kennecott touching a new high.

Gabriel Snubbers Spurts.

A jump of over 4 points in Gabriel Snubbers, part of which was lost on realizing, was accompanied by unconfirmed reports that Ford interests were seeking manufacturing rights in connection with their new models. Other stocks to reach new high ground were American Chicle, American Tobacco, Erie Steam Shovel preferred, Freeport-Texas, Montana Power, Sears Roebuck, Virginia Carolina Chemical common and 6 per cent preferred and Case Threshing, the last-named soaring 17 points.

Speculative interest in the rails was divided between a further sharp break in Lehigh Valley and a brisk upturn in Lackawanna. Most o. the others showed unimportant changes.

Commodity markets pointed upward. Cotton rallied 28 to 32 points and grain prices advanced from a fraction of 1 cent to 1½ cents a bushel. Coffee rallied 13 to 16 points and sugar showed little change.

• • •

Exchange Is Steady.

Foreign exchanges held steady with demand sterling around $4.85⅛ and French francs just under 3.91⅛ cents.

The recent improvement in the copper and steel industries has been reflected in the strength of those shares. Although a number of specialties continue to attract attention by their violent advances, the bulk of the demand centers in the high grade investment issues. Early gains of one to three points were registered in today's trading by U. S. Steel common, American Smelting, National Biscuit, Allied Chemical, Hudson, Mack Trucks and Corn Products. General Motors crossed 216 and was followed into new high ground by Congress Cigar. Houston Oil was again under pressure, breaking more than five points to 146, or nearly 30 points below last week's high.

NEW YORK, July 22.

Net profit of Amalgamated Leather Co. and subsidiaries for the first half of 1927 declined to $161,395 from $813,981 in the first half of 1926.

General Electric Co., which for years has operated for its own requirements [illegible] large plants for moulding a large variety of forms for mechanical and electrical purposes, has entered the custom moulding business and will market the product under a trade name.

Operating profit of American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. for the first half of 1927 declined to $109,195 from $230,[illegible] in the first half of 1926.

The money value of engineering construction contracts let in the United States the last week totalled $40,742,000 against $46,783,000 in the corresponding week last year. Contracts since the first of the year are valued at $1,681,365,000 compared with $1,609,969,000 for the same time a year ago, engineering news-record reports.

Marland Oil Co. reports net loss of $1,926,808 for the first half of 1927 after reserve of $5,836,080 for intangible drilling costs, compared with profit of $7,851,417 in the first half of 1926 when no reserve was set aside for intangible drilling costs.

Surplus of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. for the half-year was $5,015,645, equal to $4.53 a share, against $4,796,559 or $4.25 a share in the first half of 1926.

Pig Iron production in Great Britain in May amounted to 720,100 tons, the largest figure since September, 1920, the Iron Trust Co. reports. Steel production was 884,600 tons, compared with only 66,700 tons in May last year and 850,100 tons in April this year.

More than 90 per cent of the $63,000,000 new common stock of the Baltimore & Ohio is estimated to have been subscribed for up to the close of business yesterday, time limit for exercising rights. The calculation is still incomplete. An unusually large portion of the subscriptions is understood to have come from original holders of rights.

Rebounding from the characteristic midsummer curtailment or suspension of activity, the lumber industry during the week ended July 16, increased its sales about 30 per cent over the week before says the National Lumber Manufacturers Association. Shipments increased in about the same proportion, and production to an even greater rate. The resumption of activity was shared by both hardwood and softwood operations. Compared with a year ago, the softwood lumber industry again presents the exceptional occurrence of equalling, if not exceeding, last year's figures, but the hardwood industry continues to lag behind. Unfilled orders of 215 southern pine and west coast mills increased to 634,665,000 feet from 547,836,465 the previous week.

BETTER DEMAND FOR GOVERNMENT BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Evidences of week-end profit taking appeared in various sections of the bond list today, but the market as a whole was ruled by firm tendencies. Transactions were well scattered among various classes of securities, with particularly heavy buying in the Federal Government division. Further lowering of prices of undigested new issues, owing to the dissolution of syndicates and other allied causes combined with easy money to exert a steadying influence and hold realizing losses to a minimum.

Treasury issues encountered the best demand in days, especially the 3⅜s and 4s, each of which advanced almost a quarter of a point. Buying of second Liberty 4¼s also was in evidence, but on a more moderate scale.

Several railway issues of the type of Rock Island refunding 4s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, and Lake Shore 4s displayed softening tendencies after early fractional advances. Erie "D" 4s were unloaded in large amounts around their ton figure, and dropped back 1¼ points.

Third avenue adjustment 5s continued to feature the public utility group on reports that as a result of good earnings, directors may soon decided to pay the full interest. The price, however, was around a point under the high established a day or two ago.

Oil bonds showed further activity. Sinclair, Skelly and Shell Union bonds changed hands freely. Kaiser 5½c touched a new high, but later fell back for a fractional net loss. North American Cement 6½s equaled their low for the year.

Bordeaux 6s, which reached a new high in the morning, lost all the gain, and softness cropped out in other French obligations. Austrian 7s, however, were in brisk demand, rising more than a point, and a few Italian securities received good support.

GOOD GAINS SHOWN BY NEW YORK COTTON

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The cotton market opened steady today at unchanged prices to an advance of 4 points on covering and some commission house buying, supposed to be based on continued apprehensions of boll weevil damage promoted by further showers in the Eastern belt.

October sold up to 18.55c, or 9 points net higher, but there was considerable realizing at this figure and the market eased off 4 or 5 points at the end of the first hour.

Liverpool was lower than due, but improved somewhat just before the local opening, private cables indicating that local and continental liquidation had been absorbed with the aid of trade calling.

After easing off to about yesterday's closing quotation under realizing or liquidation, the market steadied up on the outlook for showers in the South. October contracts, which had sold down to 18.44c, rallied to 18.60c and new crop months generally showed net advances of about 7 to 14 points at midday. There was some liquidation of July early, but it was absorbed at a discount of about 47 to 49 points under October and the last sale of July before trading in that delivery ended at midday was at 18.11c or about 5 points net higher.

Futures closed steady, 28 to 32 higher. October 18.78 to 18.80; December 19.01 to 19.04; January 19.08; March 19.28 to 19.30; May 19.43 to 19.45. Spot steady; middling 18.60.

Corn Products Report.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Net income of Corn Products Refining Co., for the half year was $5,552,267, equal after preferred dividends to $1.85 a share on the common against $5,441,181 or $1.80 a share in the first half of 1926.

INDUSTRIALS MOST ACTIVE ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Some new issues came into prominence on the curb market today and attracted enough buying to put them into new high ground. The moves generally were not as wide as in the previous session, although some good sized gains were scored. Stocks which were the most active were the industrials.

Aluminum Company established a new high price at 94, an overnight gain of 6½ points. Union-United Tobacco duplicated its former high price at 91, while Hellman added 1⅜ to 24½. On odd lot transactions Sanitary Grocery advanced 9 points to 231. American Rolling Mills displayed strength.

The chain store stocks and high priced industrials were practically neglected.

In the Public Utility group the price trend was irregular. American Gas opened fractionally higher and then sold off. Southwestern Power also was up.

No particular attention was paid to the oil group. Both the Standard Oil and the stocks of miscellaneous oil companies were quiet. The upset conditions in the oil industry brought about by overproduction accounted in the main, observers said, for the hesitancy on the part of some traders to make commitments in oil stocks. Vacuum Oil gained one point at 132¼. Standard Oil of Kentucky which earlier in the week had been making substantial gains dropped 1¼ points to 119⅝.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today. Buyers showed a little disposition to make fresh commitments and the undertone if anything was a little easier, with some nearby duty free sugars offered at last paid prices of 4.52 for Cuban duty paid. No sales were reported. More liberal offerings in the spot market seemed to discourage aggressive buying in raw sugar futures, and after opening about unchanged prices eased off under a renewal of commission house selling, at midday showing net losses of 2 to 3 points. Trading, however was not very active and seemed to be more of an evening-up character for over the week-end. In refined sugar some new buying was reported but the demand on the whole was not very aggressive. Prices were unchanged to 10 points higher and ranged from $5.80 to $5.90 for fine granulated.

Futures closed steady. Approximate sales 48,000 tons. September 2.68; December, 2.76; January, 2.71; March, 2.66; May, 2.73.

The tabulation is still incomplete. An unusually large portion of the subscriptions is understood to have come from original holders of rights.

Rebounding from the characteristic midsummer curtailment or suspension of activity, the lumber industry during the week ended July 16, increased its sales about 30 per cent over the week before, says the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. Shipments increased in about the same proportion, and production at an even greater rate. The resumption of activity was shared by both hardwood and softwood operations. Compared with a year ago, the softwood lumber industry again presents the exceptional occurrence of equalling, if not exceeding, last year's figures, but the hardwood industry continues to lag behind. Unfilled orders of 215 southern pine and west coast mills increased to 634,665,060 feet from 547,836,465 the previous week.

LIVERPOOL FIRMNESS IS WHEAT MARKET FACTOR

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Renewed uneasiness as to possibility of black rust damage northwest together with unfavorable crop comment from Europe led to enlarged buying and to higher prices today in wheat.

Wheat closed firm ⅝c to 1c net higher; corn 1⅛c to 1⅝c up; oats unchanged to ⅛c advance and provisions 5c to 20c off.

Unexpected firmness of Liverpool quotations had an early bullish effect today here. Besides official advices said it seemed unlikely that Europe this season would produce much more wheat than last year. Opening ⅛c to ⅝c higher, Chicago wheat afterward showed some additional upturn. Corn and oats displayed firmness too, corn starting unchanged to ⅛c advance and subsequently scoring gains all around. Provisions were easy.

Upturns in wheat values today based largely on unfavorable European crop prospects met with active selling in which houses with northwest connections took the lead. This selling was associated with an estimate from a private authority that the Canadian prairie provinces will produce as much as 380,000,000 bushels, assuming just ordinary conditions from now on, but that if conditions are good the yield will be enormous.

With exporters awaiting development in the American Northwest and in Canada, foreign demand today for North American wheat was apparently small. On the other hand, Australian and Argentine shipments together showed an increase of 1,100,000 bushels for the wek. Remaining quantities of Argentine wheat for export however, were said to be generally over-estimated.

Mr. A. H. Landwehr, President of the Company, summarizes his letter to us as follows:

BUSINESS: The Holland Furnace Company is the largest manufacturer of warm air furnaces [illegible]. It was organized in 1906 under the laws of Michigan and has earned and paid dividends every year in its history. The company has one of the most efficient sales organizations in the country, and distributes, installs and services its product in every state in the union through 522 sales branches. Sales have increased every year since inception. The increase has never been less than 10%. Branches have been doubled in the past three years, but until the current year these new branches had not been sufficiently long established to be appreciably reflected in sales increases. Sales per capita in the sections where the company's branches have been longest established are over three times as great as in the 25 states where branches have been recently opened. Over 50% of 1926 sales were made in the four states where the company's product has been longest in service, showing the results of the intensive sales methods employed and the goodwill created through the use of its product. Sales for the first five months of this year show an increase in every section of the country and the increased sales in the newer branches have been particularly gratifying. The management is confident that the new territories offer large possibilities for future growth and that much larger sales gains will be shown in the current and succeeding years.

EARNINGS: The Holland Furnace Company has made a profit every year of its history and has shown an increase in profits every year for the past sixteen years excepting 1918 when nearly one third of its sales organization was in War service and in 1925 when the second large increase in branches was made. The cost of establishing the 252 new branches was absorbed in 1924, 1925 and 1926. Had it not been for these large expenditures which are just now beginning to be reflected in larger sales and profits, profits for the three years would have been materially larger.

Messrs. Ernst and Ernst have certified that the earnings of the company for the years [illegible] after all charges including interest and Federal Income Tax at 13½% have been as follows:

Years Ended Dec. 31	Number of Sales Branches in Operation	Sales	Net Earnings after All Charges as Defined Above	Net for Non Par Value Stock after Preferred Dividends	Per Share on 300,000 Shares of Stock
1921	213	$6,540,168	$ 477,073.03	$ 365,073	[illegible]
1922	235	7,858,413	965,554.16	853,554	[illegible]
1923	250	9,910,641	1,229,337.86	1,117,337	[illegible]
1924	328	12,061,322	1,495,173.71	1,383,173	3.84
1925	409	13,344,721	1,431,520.57	1,319,520	3.66
1926	502	15,191,530	1,505,697.45	1,393,697	3.87

DIVIDENDS: The directors have placed the non par value stock on a yearly dividend basis of $2.50 per share in cash, or at the election of shareholder 8% in non par value stock through declaration of a quarterly dividend at this rate payable on October 1st, 1927.

CURRENT POSITION: Current assets on December 31st, 1926 were six times current liabilities including reserve for 1926 Federal Income Tax.

MANAGEMENT AND DIRECTORS: The management which has developed the company to its present position of leadership and earnings will continue in charge of its affairs.

We offer this stock "when, as and if issued and received" by us and subject to approval of our counsel. Legal matters to be passed upon by Mr. Raymond Visscher for Company and Messrs. Dykema, Jones & Wheat for bankers. The Company's accounts have been certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst. BLOODHOUNDS TRAIL POSTOFFCIE ROBBERS

Postmaster G. Chadburne Long of Cadet, Mo., also the owner of the general merchandise store there, believes a good brace of bloodhounds are worth more than any number of finger-prints and magnifying glasses in tracking a thief.

As a result, Raymond Willis, Washington County farmer, and two other men, are held in Potosi, charged with stealing $250 from the Cadet postoffice and merchandise from Long's inclusive store.

The robbery occurred last Saturday night. The thief made one entry and stole $50. He returned later, taking about $200 more, and a pile of merchandise. Long notified the postal authorities, but at the same time indorsed his faith in bloodhounds by sending for a pair owned by a detective agency in East St. Louis.

The bloodhounds went to work Sunday afternoon, when the trail was cold, but yelped and whined eagerly over a zig-zag path of 11 miles. They went first to the house of a young woman, where Willis had been a caller Saturday night, and then nosed straight for his house. Postoffice Inspectors said Willis had confessed, implicating two other men. Federal warrants were issued against the three men by Commissioner Atkins here today.

MOTOR ORDERS OF $2,110,000

Army and Navy to Acquire New Airplane Equipment.

By the Associated Press.

PATERSON, N. J., July 22.—It was announced today that the United States Army had placed a $1,500,000 order with the Wright Aeronautical Corporation for "whirlwind" airplane motors to be used in the new army training planes.

The motors will be of the J-5, 225-horsepower type, similar to that used in Col. Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis." It was said that about 300 motors would be built. It also was announced that 48 "cyclone" motors are to be constructed at the Wright plant for the United States Navy at a cost of $610,000. The "cyclone" is a new type motor and has not yet been tested in actual flight. They are planned for the navy's giant Douglas bombing planes.

MISSISSIPPI NEGRO EXECUTED FOR KILLING 2 WHITE WOMEN

He Asks Forgiveness of Husband and Brother of Victims As He Goes to Gallows.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., July 22.—Walter Burley, Negro, who killed two white woman here a month ago to hide the crime of assaulting one of them, died on the gallows today after asking the husband and brother of his victims to forgive him.

"Mr. Rees, won't you forgive me?" he said to O. S. Rees, whose wife and 19-year-old sister were Burley's victims.

"How could I, Walter?" replied Rees who had visited Burley in his cell and who stayed to see the hanging.

"I have made my peace with God and I am going to heaven," Burley said. "I am satisfied to die for the awful crime I have committed."

He spent a few minutes with a preacher and his last request was for time to say a prayer on the gallows. It was granted. He calmly waited while the trap was sprung, but was not pronounced dead for 27 minutes.

Burley went to Rees' home while Rees, a dairyman, was delivering milk early in the morning. The Negro struck Mrs. Rees and killed her as she slept with her two little children. Then he attacked the younger woman and killed her.

SHARKEY MADE MISTAK... DROPPING HAND BUT MAN WON, WRAY

By JOHN E. WRAY,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 22. — New York today is bowing at the shrine of the Fighting Heart and the Knockout Sock, as exemplified in the person of Jack Dempsey, now beating back toward a second reign as world's heavyweight ring champion.

It was not merely that Dempsey stopped the championship drive of Jack Sharkey, last night, as the Yankee Stadium echoed to the thunder of 82,000 cheers, by knocking out his foe in the seventh round. It was the manner in which Dempsey, fighting in the face of youth, strength, ambition and speed, displayed the true heart of the fighting man, doggedness of purpose in the face of seeming defeat, and above all the greatest punch in the history of pugilism, that distinguished him from the common herd of sockers and marked him for a man of all-time greatness.

For a while, following his failure after long absence from the ring, Jack had been under a cloud. It was even doubted he ever deserved the magnificent tributes that had been paid his prowess in past times.

Dempsey's Gameness Proved.

Today there is not the slightest doubt about Dempsey. Almost knocked out in the first round, chopped and jabbed and uppercut, shouldered and roughed and outboxed by a younger, cleverer man, Dempsey waded in blindly, with both eyes bruised and bleeding, with cut lips and crimson splotched body, battling his uphill fight against the tide of blows and the dragging weight of years. He fairly outlasted, outslugged and outgamed his foe. It was an achievement that only a fighter of 18-karat gameness could have accomplished and then only when assisted by the stoutest punch known in the ring.

There will be plenty said to belittle Jack Sharkey, over whose prostrate form Dempsey now steps to take his place against champion Gene Tunney, next September, in their second title meeting. It will be said that the sailor boxed with poor judgment and failed utterly to show the elements of championship class.

But the real thing that sent Sharkey down into the resin, quivering from one of the former champion's most terrible blows (left hooks to the head) was a mistake in judgment.

Up to the seventh round it would have taken some nice hair-splitting to decide whether Dempsey's insistent body punching and his forcing tactics, or Sharkey's constant scoring of powder puff punches deserved the more credit.

Then, shortly after the start of the seventh round, Dempsey, face marked by Sharkey's punches but lowering and intense with eagerness, crowded into Sharkey, continuing the body attack which had featured his campaign. Suddenly he hooked his right to Sharkey's body. It was close to the blue line of Sharkey's belt. Some said it was below this. Sharkey evidently thought it was foul. He turned toward the referee, dropping his right hand, a mistake no trained fighter should make, as he does so at his peril unless the referee halts the fighting.

But despite the danger, down went Sharkey's right glove as he claimed foul. There was no hesitation about Dempsey. No sooner had the right fallen revealing an unguarded right jaw, than up went

SHARKEY MADE MISTAKE DROPPING HAND BUT BEST MAN WON, WRAY SAYS

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 22. — New York today is bowing at the shrine of the Fighting Heart and the Knockout Sock, as exemplified in the person of Jack Dempsey, now leading back toward a second reign as world's heavyweight ring champion.

It was not merely that Dempsey stopped the championship drive of Jack Sharkey, last night, as the Yankee Stadium echoed to the thunder of 82,000 cheers, by knocking out his foe in the seventh round. It was the manner in which Dempsey, fighting in the face of youth, strength, ambition and hope, displayed the true heart of the fighting man, doggedness of purpose in the face of seeming defeat, and above all the greatest punch in the history of pugilism, that distinguished him from the common herd of sockers and marked him for a man of all-time greatness.

For a while, following his failure after long absence from the ring, Jack had been under a cloud. It was even doubted he ever deserved the magnificent tributes that had been paid his prowess in past times.

Dempsey's Gameness Proved.

Today there is not the slightest doubt about Dempsey. Almost knocked out in the first round, chopped and jabbed and uppercut, shouldered and roughed and outboxed by a younger, cleverer man, Dempsey waded in blindly, with both eyes bruised and bleeding, with cut lips and crimson splotched body, battling his uphill fight against the tide of blows and the dragging weight of years. He fairly outfisted, outslugged and outgamed his foe. It was an achievement that only a fighter of 18-karat gameness could have accomplished and then only when assisted by the stoutest punch known in the ring.

There will be plenty said to belittle Jack Sharkey, over whose prostrate form Dempsey now steps to take his place against champion Gene Tunney, next September, in their second title meeting. It will be said that the sailor boxed with poor judgment and failed utterly to show the elements of championship class.

But the real thing that sent Sharkey down into the resin, quivering from one of the former champion's most terrible blows (left hooks to the head) was a mistake in judgment.

Up to the seventh round it would have taken some nice hair-splitting to decide whether Dempsey's insistent body punching and his foreboring tactics, or Sharkey's constant scoring of powder puff punches deserved the more credit.

Then, shortly after the start of the seventh round, Dempsey, face marked by Sharkey's punches but towering and intense with eagerness, crowded into Sharkey, consolidating the body attack which had featured his campaign. Suddenly he looked his right to Sharkey's body. It was close to the blue line of Sharkey's belt. Some said it was below this. Sharkey evidently thought it was foul. He turned toward the referee, dropping his right hand, a sad mistake, no trained fighter should make, as he does so at his peril unless the referee halts the fighting.

But despite the danger, down went Sharkey's right glove as he claimed foul. There was no hesitation about Dempsey. No sooner had the right fallen revealing an unguarded right jaw, than up went Dempsey's mighty left, the best weapon of the kind in all the continents of the world. Whang! Came the impact of the blow.

To the thunder of hysterical thousands Sharkey fell on his face and lay quivering on the canvas. He made vague movements with his legs but he could not co-ordinate enough to get his props under him, and rise to his feet. The referee, Jack O'Sullivan, counted loudly into the ear of Sharkey, roaring out the fateful numbers. Seven! Eight! Nine! Ten!

But Sharkey was dead to the world.

Through for the evening.

Age for once had been served before youth.

Boston Boxer Was Tiring.

But let it not be supposed that Sharkey's mistake would necessarily have meant an ultimate victory if avoided. From the trend

72,283 PERSONS PAID $985,027 TO SEE BIG FIGHT

NEW YORK, July 22.

INTERNAL revenue officials today reported the receipts of the fight were $985,027 and the paid attendance 72,283, the admission tax of 10 per cent being $98,502.70. Dempsey's share is estimated at $270,882 on which he will pay a tax of close to $45,000 and Sharkey's share $221,631, with $35,000 tax.

Dempsey now is assured of a cut in the fifth big money fight when he meets Gene Tunney in another title match.

Blow Which Preceded Knockout Not a Foul, Says Referee O'Sullivan

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.

CHARLES MATHISON, one of the judges of the Sharkey-Dempsey fight declared he would make the followning report to the State Athletic Commission:

"Jack Sharkey was hit below the waist line immediately before the knockout punch and Dempsey should have been disqualified. Dempsey was also guilty of hitting low in several other rounds."

Referee Jack O'Sullivan said:

The blow which preceded the knockout punch, a left to the jaw, was a fairly delivered one. It was a right uppercut that landed right on the waist line, but not below. It is true that Dempsey landed several times below the waistline in previous rounds, but in no case were the punches injurious or deliberate, nor was there any protest made by Sharkey previous to the final round."

Left Hook Turned Trick, Says Dempsey; Sharkey Insists That He Was Hit Low

Former Champion Writes That He Beat Great Young Fighter in Winning Return Bout for Title

By Jack Dempsey.

(Copyright, 1927.)

NEW YORK, July 22.—And now for Gene Tunney. The old "Hollow Shell" didn't get away to a very good start in the first round, but results count. It took a little longer for me to polish off Jack Sharkey than I figured but the old left hook nailed him in the end. He gave me a terrific fight, while it lasted, and proved a far gamer and better fighter than I thought he was.

I am sorry the victory I gained should be clouded somewhat by the charge that I hit Sharkey a low right hand punch at the start of the final round. I aimed the punch fair and I thought it landed fair. When he made a motion of protest to the referee and the referee motioned us to go on fighting that settled it so far as I was concerned. If the punch had been low, the referee would have warned me. He didn't, even though Sharkey demanded it. That would make it seem that I had hit Sharkey fairly and that his protest was not justifiable.

Then, for the first time in the fight, I had a good shot at Sharkey's chin with the old left hook and I let it go. Sharkey went down. Now the "old man" is elected to take a few more socks at Tunney.

Not Worried After First.

The first round was the worst for me. Sharkey nailed me some solid shots on the chin and certainly didn't speed me up any. After the first round, I never was worried about the outcome. I had a battle plan and went through with it. It was to get close to Sharkey and keep hammering his body. I had figured that if I did it that way I'd slow him up enough so he wouldn't be any speedier than I was.

I guess I proved that, and maybe there are some folks who will agree with me that I outboxed Sharkey from the second to the finish.

There were some who told me before the fight that Sharkey wasn't game. They were wrong, dead wrong. Sharkey took an awful body smashing and took a lot of jolts on the chin in the clinches. He took as tough a beating as I've ever given any man and he never showed a sign of quitting. He's a game fighter and a great one and his defeat is only a brief halting of his career.

Victory has made me happier than anything since the Willard battle eight years ago. For in the come-back I faced terrific odds and at the end I met a really great fighter.

Doctor Failed To Find Foul Blow Evidence

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, July 22.—Dr. William Walker of the State Athletic Commission examined Jack Sharkey in his dressing room after the fight at the Yankee Stadium last night.

"There was no evidence of a foul blow being struck," declared Dr. Walker. "I examined Sharkey closely and found no marks that would indicate that Dempsey had hit him low."

By Jack Sharkey.

(Copyright, 1927.)

NEW YORK, July 22.—All I have to say is I'll have my day Jack Dempsey won and let him have all the credit in the world, but I don't think he is entitled to think he is the best man, if last night's work is the best he can do. If ever a man was deliberately fouled, then I was by the ex-champion, and though I hate to say so, I think he struck me low in the seventh to save himself.

I know I had him in bad shape and that his blows didn't mean a thing to me until he had me weakened by a lifting right to the groin. But the pain from this blow was so fierce that I doubled up and as I turned to the referee thinking he would step in and disqualify Dempsey, Jack stepped in and swung a left to my jaw with everything he had left.

It was not his shot to the jaw that kept me down, however, but the pain of that right below the belt line that had me so weakened my legs wouldn't straighten out. It wasn't in this final round alone that Dempsey hit me low, but he kept shooting foul punches at me all through the fight and the surprise to me is that he was not disqualified as early as the third round. I hate to charge such things against a man as game as Dempsey is, but I suppose it was the only way he could save himself.

Did Best to Make Fight.

I guess the world will admit I did my best to make it a fight and give Dempsey every chance in the world to show how much there really was to his deadly blows. Of course, there will be many who'll claim that I fought a foolish fight and that I battled Dempsey [illegible] much in the clinches.

To tell the truth, Buckley [illegible] Kelly, my seconds, kept [illegible] to do more boxing, but Dempsey was so bad after the first [illegible] that I thought it advisable [illegible] Dempsey wear himself out [illegible] clinches. His drives to the [illegible] didn't mean any thing, and I [illegible] him marked up and bleeding [illegible] in the fight.

Still I suppose they will [illegible] I was too reckless and that I [illegible] have stabbed him off with [illegible] frequent use of the left. But [illegible] end of the first round I felt Dempsey was all through and I could [illegible] out and take him as soon as I found a proper opening.

Dempsey, however, kept [illegible] ing in head first and insisted [illegible] ing close and in almost every [illegible] he kept shooting away below the belt. Several of these blows [illegible] me, but I made no appeal as [illegible] as I was not really weakened.

Never Warned by Referee.

What I can not understand is why the referee never even gave Dempsey one warning for his foul work. If he had, I don't think the ex-champion would have persisted.

I still insist that none of Dempsey's blows hurt me, or at least had me in trouble at any time, as soon as the pain of the last foul blow wore off I was just as strong as ever and could have fought on for any number of rounds. I'll be [illegible] it was a long time before Dempsey was very chipper. I'm sure I gave him a punching that will stay with him for many days.

Let Him Have All the Credit, but I Will Have My Day Later On, Asserts Boston Heavyweight.

SHARKEY MADE

DEMPSEY IN CHAMPIONSHIP FORM OF OLD

of the fight it was evident that, after the fifth round, Sharkey would have all he could do to stay the limit and keep away from the relentless and deadly pursuit of the purposeful and stronger Dempsey.

And it was evident to those close to the ring, that Dempsey, finding the weight of Sharkey's punches gradually diminishing as the fight wore on, was wading forward steadily into his foe, disregarding the enemy punches.

The claim of foul was not taken well by friends of Dempsey, who declared they had expected something of the sort, in line with the sailor's previous record. It was pointed out that Sharkey had constantly claimed foul against Harry Wills and that three of his victories, according to the record book, were achieved on foul verdicts.

Nevertheless Sharkey fought a good fight against a stronger foeman, a more experienced veteran and the greatest wallop in the ring today or any other day.

Dempsey Has Old Punch.

Dempsey's left hook against Sharkey goes into the book with several other great punches with which he established history—notably his one-punch knockout of Fred Fulton, his virtual one-punch victory over Jess Willard, which gave him the title, his terrific socks into the person of Luis Firpo, echo of which brought the Wild Bull to the canvas, and his blow to Tunney's Adam's apple, which all but ended the fight at Philadelphia.

Dempsey made it plain again that in all history there has been no fighter who could do so much damage with a single blow—and that he still has that weapon with him.

He will have it when he fights Gene Tunney, and he will have with it the assistance of a finely trained body, plus the experience of a savage hard fight against a fairly clever foe—aids that he lacked last September.

As for Sharkey, for the present he must pass from the picture. He proved a good fighter, a better boxer than Dempsey and a game fellow as well. But when opposed to Dempsey it was matching a light cruiser against a battleship. Dempsey fired too much metal for his rival.

Although he will not say so, none was more pleased with the outcome than George ("Tex") Rickard, promoter, who now sees his best drawing card miraculously restored to full drawing power. It means that his cherished hope of a 2,500,000 gate can be realized now; whereas with Sharkey meeting Tunney for the title the bait would not have been so attractive.

Details of the Fight.

When the men climbed between the ropes, about half past nine, the crowd let off a salvo of applause. Dempsey was the first to enter the ring and he looked even better physically than when he finished his training at Saratoga.

He weighed 194½ pounds officially, with Sharkey scaling 196, rather to the surprise of the ringsiders who thought Dempsey the heavier. The dark skin of the champion gleamed with health. He was very little, if any heavier than when he fought Firpo, four years ago. He seemed almost slender, as he stood in his corner nervously dancing up and down or talking with his friends.

When Sharkey entered the ring he was applauded, but he received nothing like the salvo that greeted the former champion when he climbed between the ropes headed by Jerry Lavadis his trainer and followed by Leo Flynn, the mastermind of all trainers. In Sharkey's corner was Johnny Buckley, of Boston, manager of Sharkey.

Sharkey walked over and shook Dempsey's hand, a slight smile wreathing his lips. Then he paced back to his corner, faced about, and stood staring with those pale blue eyes at Dempsey. Jack turned his back and proceeded to dance up and down in his corner while the details were adjusted.

Odds Swing to Dempsey.

He did not look nervous. Rather determined. He had broadcast to all his friends through the newspapers here, this afternoon: "Bet on me!" They had rushed to the rescue immediately. Such a tremendous outpouring of Dempsey money as followed could not be covered by the Sharkey backers. The sailor's odds steadily went back. From a 2 to 1 favorite at noon time, Sharkey receded to second choice at ringside, with Dempsey the favorite at 11 to 10.

That was the public's response to Dempsey's bid for confidence in him. And it was this weight that Jack the Mawler carried on his shoulders when the bell clanged for action in the first round, with Referee Jack O'Sullivan handling the bout.

Sharkey stepped forward the more briskly of the two and led with a hook to the body which missed. Then, immediately, Dempsey showed that he had laid his cards truthfully on the table when he said he intended to fight Shar-

Odds Swing to Dempsey.

He did not look nervous. Rather determined. He had broadcast to all his friends through the newspapers here, this afternoon: "Bet on me!" They had rushed to the rescue immediately. Such a tremendous outpouring of Dempsey money as followed could not be covered by the Sharkey backers. The sailor's odds steadily went back. Sharkey stepped forward the more briskly of the two and led with a hook to the body which missed. Then, immediately, Dempsey showed that he had laid his cards truthfully on the table when he said he intended to fight Sharkey a body fighting battle. Into the elimination winner Dempsey stepped. He seemed a bit slow, but was eager. He lacked entirely the uncertainty and undefiniteness of purpose that marked his fight with Tunney.

Thump! Dempsey rapped his glove on Sharkey's body, as he moved close in. Bang! Went the left. Rip! Went the right. Zowie! Came a backhanded uppercut against Sharkey's chin, all launched before Sharkey could get away from the infighting.

Sharkey then began to hook with his left. He scored with it lightly, while Dempsey stepped after him. Sharkey's taps presently brought flecks of blood to Dempsey's lips. But Dempsey, glowering, speeded in to get close to his foe. Then began again the game of rip, slam and zowie, all to the body, with an occasional left-handed cuff to the head.

Sharkey Staggers Dempsey.

Sharkey was calm. He shouldered Dempsey, almost butted him. Then, stepping back, he swept a terrific left to the head, then a right to the head and Dempsey's top-piece flew back. He staggered.

Sharkey stepped in close with a body punch. Next he put all he had into a right-hander to the head. Dempsey reeled. Again Sharkey measured him and socked again. Dempsey fell in, blear-eyed and groggy, lips bleeding and bearing all the earmarks of having received a killing blow.

You could have bought the Dempsey bets for 10 cents on the dollar as the gong rang, and the seconds sprang from the corner to seize Dempsey and lead him back to his chair. No uncertainty in the corner this time. No lost ammonia bottle; no confusion as to what should be done. The master-second of all seconds was on the job—Leo Flynn. Jerry Luvadis sank to the floor at Dempsey's knees tentatively rubbing Jack's knees while Flynn waved the smelling salts under Jack's nose.

Luvadis, Dempsey's dog Fido, with him year in and year out—in victory and defeat—there he sat tense, looking up into Dempsey's face expectantly like a terrier at his master.

Then Dempsey opened his eyes, looked at Jerry and grinned. Jerry the Greek jumped up, grinning too, and finished his tasks. He knew there was fight left in Dempsey, as long as the King of Killers could smile.

Sharkey Visions Victory.

The opposite corner was equally intent on Dempsey. Buckley had run half way down the ropes to get a better view of the reaction of Dempsey to treatment. Sharkey continued to stare with his wild-animal-like glare at his opponent. Then he sat tense waiting the gong eager to spring out and finish the game quickly.

The championship chance was out there waiting for him. One more sock like the last would do it. The old-timer was great, once, but he was done now as soon as he had finished with him. Only a burned-out hulk remained. Pity to smash a great fellow like Dempsey—you bet! But they all have to go. Youth will be served, and I'm the youth. Eh, what?

Then came the second round and Sharkey sprang to massacre the dying gladiator, or something like that. Sharkey rushed—but he found Dempsey by no means ready to slice up and serve. Dempsey blocked Sharkey's eager attempts and fought back at the body but without much heart. It seemed as though age had robbed him of strength and then he could not shake off his punishment, as once he was wont to.

Staggers Dempsey Again.

Sharkey met him coming in with left and right to the head. Before Dempsey could recover Sharkey staggered Dempsey, giving him both barrels. The wolves howled, scenting the downfall of the King of Punchers. There was blood on Dempsey's nose and lips and a swelling bruise under his right eye.

"Come on Sharkey," yelled the coyotes. And Sharkey came on. Then something happened to Dempsey. There came a change in his demeanor and fighting. It was as if he cast away all his years and regained his lost youth. He suddenly speeded up his forward motion and went back to the old weaving and bobbing style, trying to get in close. Sharkey wove and bobbed with him, until their heads almost met. But Dempsey finally got inside and went to work with both hands again.

Sock! Went to the left of the body! Crack! Went an uppercut to Sharkey's chin! Wham! Went a right dig to the ribs. Sharkey kept a calm expression and fought quietly to get his body out of the zone of fire. He had to break and step back to do it. Then Dempsey leaped after him and drove him to the ropes, while the crowd swerved back again to its old love and roared cheers for Dempsey as the gong sounded.

"You only said half of it," came back the retort. And they were both right. The one time king was just beginning to fight.

No worry in Dempsey's corner, after the second round. More activity in Sharkey's. They sense there that Dempsey has weathered the first big attack of their man. They still plan to send Sharkey in before Dempsey can completely recover.

Dempsey Continues Body Attack.

But as they come out for the third round Dempsey shows no signs of feebleness. Sharkey still is visibly confident. He coolly circles Dempsey and Jack nimbly steps toward him. But circling is not fast enough. Dempsey is on top of him again, pushing home that remorseless body attack.

Dig! Dig! Dig! Into the mid-section shoot the short jolts. The weight behind them is visible to the close-ups. Sharkey squirms grabs arms and tries to avoid the storm. He steps free and shoots with both hands. He lands. But, strange to say, Dempsey doesn't even stop. Pop! Pop! Go Sharkey's left and right, hooked to the head. But they give the driving Dempsey another chance to plant both digging fists into the short ribs of his foe.

Little holding here. Both men want to fight. No time to waste in safety-first stuff. One of us the best—let's have it out. The best man to win. Whang! Slam! Bang! go the Dempsey blows to the body. Pop! pop! come the lighter blows of Sharkey. Dempsey rushes Sharkey in his own corner and Sharkey's right leg slips on the wet floor and goes clear out of the ring, as the bell rings.

So measuring the multitude of pops by Sharkey against the total of digging by Dempsey, the fight is Sharkey's thus far, with Sharkey unmarked and Dempsey with blooded nose, split lip and bruised eye as he walks to his corner.

Breaks Sharkey's Morale.

But the visible damage was not what counted ultimately. The invisible damage was greater still. It was done to Sharkey's morale, seemingly. For after giving everything he had in the first two rounds, when Dempsey was almost helpless, Sharkey discovered that his best was not good enough. And this is a discovery that makes or breaks the fighter.

It apparently broke Sharkey.

For the next three rounds Dempsey constantly put on more steam and showed increasing power. On went the incessant battering of Sharkey's body.

Weaving and ducking and with growing confidence as he realized that Sharkey had shot his heaviest weapons and failed, Dempsey pressed the attack like a terrier trying to corner a rat. Sharkey fought with outward coolness and confidence. But it was plain that his shots, while hitting home with greater regularity and accuracy, were not saving him from terrific body punishment.

The fight swept into the fourth round, Dempsey's other eye was cut and bleeding. In the fifth round, Dempsey's face was a bloody spectacle, with both eyes bruised and his nose and lips bleeding. Flecks of blood dotted his body. He appeared to be in danger of having both eyes closed and having to resign from blindness. Sharkey plastered the injured optics at every chance.

But with it all, Dempsey was speeding up his pace, hurrying forward, legs poised to dart in either direction, both hands ready to leap in and corner the foe. Sharkey lost the aggressive. Dempsey was forcing him into a slow but sure retreat.

At the end of the fifth round both men were worked to a high fighting pitch, with Dempsey going to his corner face bloody but body strong. Sharkey looked over at him from his chair, as the seconds worked with his foe. But Sharkey was feeling none too strong himself.

Tide Swings to Dempsey.

In the sixth round the tide began to swing toward Dempsey slowly. The steadfast body attack was now being varied by an occasional long swing for the head. Dempsey missed two or three badly, then returned to the old battering, rough house in-mawling.

Sharkey was badly shaken by Dempsey's blows to the body. For the first time in the fight he broke ground and gave before the attack of the ex-champion without hitting back.

The bell rang in a flurry of gloves. Dempsey did not heed the gong soon enough and hit Sharkey a few light taps. Sharkey turned and hit Dempsey back. The crowd hissed him because his offense had been deliberate, Dempsey's impulsive.

Then came the seventh. Dempsey came out like the panther of old, full of life and spring, even if his face was marked up. His power and his fighting spirit were unimpaired. Sharkey led and left himself open for a right wallop to the body.

Blow Close to Waist Line.

Referee O'Sullivan was not in the best position to see the blow. The writer cannot say if it was foul, but it was close to the waist line. Sharkey winced and turned to claim foul, letting his right hand drop. Dempsey, foxy, and on the job always, let fly with his most formidable weapon, a left hook, at the unprotected jaw—

Exit Sharkey!

It was one of the best fights the writer has witnessed, in that the losing fighter had every opportunity to show his best wares, to do his worst damage. FIRST!

And also in that the winner was able to take the opponent's best, weather the storm, and by sheer courage and fighting force dominate his foe.

It was a true fight won by the better man—much the better man, to give the full measure of credit to the victor.

Many Notables, Women Among Them, in Crowd at the Fight.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Many notables and a large percentage of women were in the crowd of 82,000 which witnessed the Dempsey-Sharkey fight. Among the notables were Commander Richard E. Byrd, North Pole and trans-Atlantic flyer; Lieut. George Noville, Bernt Balchen, Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlin, flying heroes; Gene Tunney, world's champion, whose title is the ultimate goal of the fighters.

The weather was kind. The star-studded sky was missing, but the clouds were not scowling. A frown was the most serious charge which could be brought against the heavens, which were high and dark.

Spectators in the faraway bleachers, usually the haven of those who like to yell their views and advice to participants and officials, were at a disadvantage at this fight. They could yell, but it didn't mean anything, for the referees and judges had too much territory between to be impressed.

It was an impressive picture, this great mass of humanity and ringsiders, thrilling though the fight might be, turned again and again to the packed stands, where lighted cigars stood out like miniature electric lights and matches seemed like fireflies as they were struck, apparently about one every minute.

Wrestler Joins Police.

TOKIO, July 22.—Masajiro Ota former champion wrestler, standing 6 feet 4 inches in his socks, and weighing 230 pounds, has just been appointed to the Tokio police force. As a wrestler he was known as "the Thunderbolt." He will be the largest police officer in Japan. A special uniform will have

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS

By the Associated Press.

ROUND ONE.

Dempsey came out in a crouch and fell into a clinch. Dempsey hammered five short rights to the ribs and Sharkey missed a left hook. Dempsey bored in again, drilling hard smashes to the ribs. Jack hooked two lefts to Dempsey's head. They were close again, and Sharkey got in two more to the head. Sharkey stabbed Dempsey with a left to the head. Dempsey bored in again, took two lefts to the head and again drove short punches to Sharkey's body. Sharkey looked tired. A left hook shook Sharkey's head back. Sharkey licked Jack with two right uppercuts. Dempsey, reeling and groggy, wove about the ring under a fusilade. Sharkey smashed him again with rights. Dempsey was groggy as Sharkey missed a long right. The bell caught Sharkey half way through a right swing. Dempsey went to his corner very tired.

ROUND TWO.

Dempsey's seconds worked on him while Sharkey lay back calm and confident. Jack came out slow, and Sharkey missed a left. Sharkey drove Dempsey to the ropes with a right to the jaw. Dempsey fought fiercely at Sharkey's body but laid on heavy in the clinch. Dempsey missed a wild left hook. In close, they swapped jolts to the ribs. Dempsey held as Sharkey clubbed him to the body. Sharkey nailed Dempsey with a left to the head and drove Dempsey to the ropes with short rights to the jaw. The Boston boy was landing at will, solid smashes to the chin that rocked the former champion. Dempsey nailed Sharkey with two hooks to the chin. Dempsey was very tired after the flurry but managed to hook his left hand twice on Sharkey's chin. They were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND THREE.

A small cut appeared under Dempsey's left eye from Sharkey's jab. Dempsey drove a long left to the stomach and then took a left and right uppercut as he swayed to close quarters. Dempsey missed a left to the head but landed two right jolts on Sharkey's chin. Jack Dempsey shuffled in, apparently stronger, crowding Sharkey with a body attack. Dempsey whipped over a right uppercut as he wove in. Sharkey caught Dempsey with a wicked right smash to the chin as the former champion came in. Sharkey buried two lefts in Dempsey's body and Dempsey stepped back. Sharkey slipped and went down in his own corner but was up without a count. The bell ended the session with Sharkey on his knee.

ROUND FOUR.

Sharkey was a bit less confident as he came out and missed a wild right. Jack bobbed out of the way of Sharkey's jab. Dempsey drove Sharkey around the ring with fierce punches to the body. Sharkey breathed hard as Dempsey nailed a left to the chin and a right to the ribs. Sharkey cut three left jabs into Dempsey's face and hooked both hands to the face. Dempsey's right eye was bleeding badly. Dempsey came in again with a short right to the body and lifted Sharkey's head with a right uppercut. Sharkey missed a right uppercut and took two smashing jolts from Dempsey's left hand. Sharkey missed frequently. Dempsey nailed Sharkey with a left hook fully on the jaw, driving the sailor into a defensive crouch in a neutral corner. They were plugging away at the body at the bell.

ROUND FIVE.

Dempsey appeared to be finding himself under the heat of the milling. He shuffled out and skimmed Sharkey's chin with a left. Sharkey stabbed Jack about the head. Sharkey spit blood as Dempsey swung in close for another short armed body attack. Sharkey met him with a right uppercut coming in but Dempsey got in two lefts to the ribs. Sharkey landed a straight right to the head and Dempsey clinched. A cut appeared on Dempsey's left cheek. Dempsey bored right back, throwing rights to the body but taking Sharkey's left four times to the head. Dempsey hooked a solid left to Sharkey's head and the sailor wobbled. Another left drove Sharkey back but the Boston boy came out slugging as the round ended.

ROUND SIX.

Sharkey, apparently much fresher than Dempsey, was playing a waiting game. He let Dempsey rush him again, and Jack missed a long left to Sharkey's head. Sharkey's right smacked solidly on Dempsey's jaw. Dempsey came steadily on, however, ramming away to the body, but Sharkey was all elbows on defense. Sharkey slapped a right to Dempsey's face. Dempsey followed him and they bobbed at each other until Sharkey shot Dempsey's head back with a terrific right uppercut to the jaw. It was the cleanest and hardest punch of the fight so far. Dempsey leaned in, however, pushing Shrakey to the ropes. Dempsey caught the sailor coming out with three smashes to the head and the crowd booed as Sharkey deliberately poked Dempsey in the face after the bell.

ROUND SEVEN.

Billy Kroydon's Golf Hints

For Backspin. To get backspin with a spade mashie, so your chip shots stop dead on the green, simply imagine that your ball has legs. Get under it, and cut 'em off!

Billy Kroydon

The KROYDON Spade Mashie

Designed especially for the short chip or pitch to the green, either from the fairway or out of the rough. The well-lofted blade gets under the ball, and is deep and heavy enough to cut through grass or turf. The close, deep marking of the face bites into the ball and helps impart backspin. Test the "feel" and the balance of this club in your own hands, and note how perfectly it is designed for one of the most important shots in golf.

All in the Day's Work

Service is a word whose honesty has been dulled by recent popularity. Because it sounds well, it has been used lightly as a catchword to mean anything and everything—and nothing at all.

The torch of service has been adopted by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as its symbol and the word Service has been taken as its creed because the whole purpose of this organization is summed up in that one word.

Used by this Company, the word has a very definite meaning, retaining all its original rugged strength. The dictionary defines service as "any work performed for the benefit of another."

To the employes of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service is a word full of genuine meaning because it stands for work actually performed for the benefit of the people of the Middle West.

There is no mention of remuneration in their definition of service—no thought of doing so much work to get so much pay. They know that in this Company the rewards of work are fair.

Employes of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are interested in their jobs—happy to be doing helpful work—proud of their part in the modern busy scheme of things.

Motorists are aware of this attitude. It is one of the reasons they watch for the familiar signs of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) on the highways of the Middle West.

They know that wherever they see one of those signs they will receive the attention of a man who is interested in satisfying their needs to the best of his ability.

Evidences that employes of this Company have an earnest desire to be helpful are vividly presented in appreciative letters from those served. Stories of unusual service are frequently brought to light. Dr. W. C. Wolverton, of the Wolverton Hospital at Linton, North Dakota, recently reported an extraordinary incident.

Because he was a physician and in need of his car at any minute of the twenty-four hours, Mr. E. E. Long, Field Representative and Mr. John Withers, Lubrication Engineer for the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) at Linton, volunteered to fix his car for him in an emergency and worked all night, finishing the job at 5:15 A. M!

But for the Doctor's letter, the home office might never have heard of the incident. In an emergency situation these men came to the rescue. It was "all in the day's work." Not required of them—or expected—but simply a chance to put the creed of service of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) into action.

Wherever you travel—in any of the ten states of the Middle West—you'll find men who work with that spirit—men of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) who are carrying on a fine tradition—finding daily satisfaction in performing work for the benefit of others—real service.

DEMPSEY TO BOX TUNNEY IN WEST, REPORT

Newspaper Says That All Obstacles to Jack Dempsey's Comeback with Gene Tunney for the World's Heavyweight Title in Chicago in September were Cleared Away.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 22.—The Herald and Examiner says that all obstacles to Jack Dempsey's comeback with Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight title in Chicago in September were cleared away in New York last night at a meeting between Promoter Tex Rickard and a committee of three Chicagoans.

The selected site, Soldier Field, is expected to accommodate the biggest crowd and draw the biggest gate in the history of pugilism. More than 130,000 persons witnessed the Army-Navy game in the lake front stadium last fall and it was estimated that with additional seats installed at least 250,000 spectators could be accomodated. Rickard, it was understood, asked a $40 top for ringside seats.

The Illinois boxing code limits all bouts, including championship contests to 10 rounds, and provides for a judge's decision. The Illinois State Athletic Commission, through its chairman, John C. Righeimer, has expressed itself in favor of the fight.

The newspaper says the bout will be promoted by Rickard with the aid of a committee of representative Chicagoans, who will be appointed by Mayor Thompson. The Chicago representatives who met Rickard after the Dempsey-Sharkey fight included Michael Igoe, State Representative and Edward Kelley, president of the South Park Board, which has jurisdiction over Soldier Field.

Risko Gains Decision.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—Johnny Risko of Cleveland, outpointed Lou Scozza, of Buffalo, in a fast 10-round bout at the Bison stadium here last night. Risko, with a whirlwind finish, gained the judges' decision, but the verdict was unpopular with the fans. Risko weighed 184 and Scozza 199½.

Majority View Is that Dempsey's Blow Was Fair

Sharkey and His Manager, However, Continue Their Claim of Foul.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The controversy over whether Jack Dempsey did or did not foul Jack Sharkey before knocking out the Boston sailor last night raged with increasing rather than diminishing fury today.

Even the slow motion pictures of the finish in the seventh round failed to settle the dispute. To Tex Rickard, the promoter, and a majority of observers present, the pictures revealed Dempsey's blows to the body to be close to the border line, but nevertheless not low enough for disqualification. To others and to Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, the pictures were accepted as proof that two low blows were struck to Sharkey's midsection just before the left hook that sent Sharkey to the floor.

Sharkey Claims Foul.

Sharkey himself, before departing by auto early this afternoon with his wife for his home in Boston, supported his manager's statement and declared his groin was sore and swollen from Dempsey's low punches. The Boston boxer accused Dempsey of working an old ring trick—getting him (Sharkey) into a position where the referee was behind him—before crashing rights to the body.

Rickard declared the disputed blow as he saw it "was fair, landing in the pit of the stomach."

Officials, as well as newspapermen, were widely split on the issue. The majority of metropolitan sports writers apparently held the belief that Dempsey's blows were foul, but their views varied according to the positions they had at the ringside.

Referee's Opinion.

One of the judges, Charles F. Mathison, was said by the New York World, to be preparing to file a report declaring that Dempsey fouled Sharkey but the referee, Jack O'Sullivan, was equally positive that he was correct in ruling the former champion's punches fair, even though they were close to the border line.

Here's how O'Sullivan described the disputed situation to the Sun:

"I was hight on top of the boxers preceding the knockout. Dempsey brought up a sweeping right for the body. It was a low punch but it was not a damaging blow. It landed on Sharkey's left thigh and swept on up. I took a step nearer to them and said, 'Watch your punches, Jack.' Then I realized they both were named Jack and added 'I mean you Dempsey.'

"Quick as a flash Dempsey sent his left to the pit of the stomach. Sharkey grunted as though in pain and bent his head forward. Then Dempsey sent another left to the jaw and Sharkey went down. I bent over Sharkey and said: 'You had better get up. I am counting on you.' He made no reply. He did not claim a foul.

"Both Struck Low Blows."

"During the fight Dempsey landed three or four punches that were low but they were not vital. They were light blows. Sharkey also landed a couple of low ones. I cautioned both of them."

In spite of the sharp differences of opinion, no official action is expected to be taken by the State Athletic Commission. Chairman James A. Farley, while declining to express a personal view of the matter, said that Referee O'Sullivan called the decision "as he saw it," and pointed to the fact that the commission has never reversed the verdict of any of its officials.

Gold Top Users Would Fill this Place 28 Times

When you go to the store for a supply of GOLD TOP Hopped Malt Extract, think of yourself as one of a tremendous army of discriminating people who are doing the same thing all the time.

You marvel as you look upon a gathering of 70,000 people assembled in the great stadium of the New York American League team to watch a ball game. Yet the users of GOLD TOP Malt Extract would fill that enormous stadium no less than 28 times! Such is the wonderful popularity of GOLD TOP Hopped Malt Extract.

How is it explained? Quality—as it is revealed in its satisfying flavor—that is the whole secret.

Made of finest barley and extra select Bohemian root Hops—by our own special process. Nothing added—nothing taken away—100 per cent pure. The richest and heaviest malt extract ever produced. Within one year the number of its users has doubled and new thousands are being added every day.

Your grocer or dealer can supply you.

HAVE A HEART, JESS.

Every time the Cards go to Brooklyn the Robins steal a march on them. They are the victims of Petty larceny.

Donie Bush says that at this stage of a close race he'd just as soon be second as first. Whereupon his team double-crossed him and hopped into the lead.

At that it isn't a bad feeling to be rating along in second place under wraps, if any, providing the leader is tiring.

Chicago is planning 131 miles of subway at a cost of $600,000,000. Chicago will have her subway before our 15-year-old bridge problems are settled or the River Des Peres boxing completed. That being the difference between a place where they do things and a place where they talk about it.

It took us 38 years to win a pennant, and after doing it we were sorry and took measures to see that it didn't occur again.

The man on the sandbox says they ought to change the name of Yankee Stadium to Soccer Field. When Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig are not socking the ball you'll find a couple of scrappers there socking each other.

OUR SEVEREST CRITIC.

Dear Elsie:

Clay Hopper hibernating on one of the Cardinal farms in the Three-I League, hit four home runs in one game, tieing the major league record, held by Ed Delehanty. Those are the kind of clodhoppers we have on our farms.

And that is the kind of grammarians we have on the Post-Dispatch.—Hugh Tellem.

So them is the kind of critics we have! However, as our column is not controversial, leaning more to the colloquial, we shall consider the incident closed.

Coincidentally we received in the same mail in which the above came a copy of a bright little publication gotten (yes, we said "gotten") out and edited by a merchant over in Illinois, from which we quote:

I have three good reasons for using poor grammar. In the first place I don't know any better. Second, a good many of the readers wouldn't understand it if I did use it. Third, if I did speak and write correctly I might get a job as manager of the Post-Dispatch at a large salary, and you farmers would lose the best merchant, in Southwestern Illinois.

That's all there is. There is no more.

New York thinks a lot of John McGraw but Baltimore can't see him with Lick telescope. It was this same McGraw who made Baltimore what she is today, a minor league city, by jumping to New York and leaving her flat on her back like a stranded terrapin.

Mac was by way of being something of a jumping Jack in his palmy days. He jumped the National League, then jumped the American League and practically jumped the Cardinals. He was brought here to play baseball, but about the only thing he played was the races.

France Wins European Zone Davis Cup Play

Deenmark Meets Defeat in Net Final at Copenhagen.

By the Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 22.—France won the European zone Davis cup tennis competition by defeating Denmark in the final today. Following victories by Gene Borotra today and Henri Cochet yesterday in the singles, Borotra and Jacques Brugnon annexed the third straight and decisive victory in the doubles. They defeated Peterson and Ulrich of Denmark, 6—4, 6—0, 6—3.

France now will meet the winner of the American zone competition for the right to challenge the United States for the cup. The two remaining singles of the Franco-Danish competition will not be played. The Frenchmen will return to France immediately to engage in other matches before sailing for America.

Stribling Wins Bout.

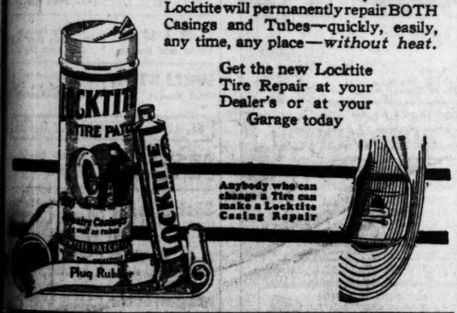

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., decisively defeated Otto Von Porat, heavyweight champion of Norway, in a 10-round bout here last night. Stribling completely bewildered the Norwegian champion, landing almost at will with crashing right crosses to the jaw. The Georgian also excelled at infighting. Stribling weighed 175¾, Von Porat 183¼.

FLOOD BARES RELICS OF AN ANCIENT RACE

Evidences Found of Civilization Not Hitherto Known in Mississippi Valley.

By the Associated Press.

VICKSBURG, Miss., July 22.—The receding flood waters in the crevasse at Mound Landing have uncovered relics of an ancient race. W. Childs, associate engineer of the third district, upon his return from the crevasse, reported that the survey party there had found evidence of the civilization of the mound builders mentioned in the history of Mexico and the Far West, but never before as a phase of Mississippi evolution.

Mound Landing received its name from the Indian mounds in that vicinity. When the waters crashed through the levee they swept away the mounds.

Members of the survey party also have found bones, pottery, beautiful clay vases, some implements of warfare, peace pipes and other objects of art. The waters that unearthed the antiques also paved the way for their destruction and if care is not taken in handling, the clay objects crumble.

LARGE MARINES IN NICARAGUA AID NEW YORK BANKS

UNIONISTS PASS VOTE OF SYMPATHY

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The real purpose of armed intervention in Nicaragua by the United States is not to protect American lives and property, but to give American bankers complete control of Nicaraguan finances, it was declared yesterday by delegates to the Congress of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, in session here. No sooner had the Diaz regime been set up in Nicaragua by marine bayonets, they said, than President Diaz proceeded to conclude an agreement whereby certain New York bankers obtained control of the financial, economic and political life of the country.

Following the addresses, the Federation unanimously adopted a resolution pledging its moral support to the Nicaraguan people in their efforts to "free themselves from economic domination by foreign bankers or foreign governments." The Federation also resolved to use its influence toward preventing the United States from becoming the guarantor of the agreement.

Similar to Case of Haiti.

What is being done in Nicaragua now is the same thing that was done in Haiti in 1917 to insure control of Haitian finances by the National City Bank of New York, and the same thing that was done in Nicaragua in 1912 to insure control of Nicaraguan finances by the Seligman Co., and Brown Brothers, of New York. The Nicaraguan delegate, Saloman de la Selva, told the Congress.

"There is something rotten in this intervention that the American people do not know about," he continued. "They believe the marines are sent there to protect American lives and property, and to maintain American honor. The truth is that what has been dong in Nicaragua has been done to serve New York bankers.

"The people of Nicaragua have no quarrel with the people of the United States. But bread has been taken out of the mouths of the Nicaraguan people to increase the profits of American bankers. The revolution by which Diaz came to power—with the aid of the State Department and the Marines—resulted in an arrangement whereby the Government of Nicaragua hands over $3,500,000, and certain New York banks get control of Nicaragua's finances.

Selva explained that in 1924 the Liberal Solorzano-Sacasa administration bought up all the stock in the Nicaraguan National Bank which had been held by New York bankers, and thereupon demanded restoration of the bank to the Nicaraguan Government. But the bankers refused to surrender the bank he said, and the Diaz revolution followed, with the State Department supporting Diaz, who, in March negotiated the agreement which restored control of the bank to the New York group.

The resolution adopted by the congress states that a movement is now under way to make the United States the official guarantor of this agreement, and protests emphatically against the consummation of the plan.

Denounces U. S. Policy.

Ricardo Martinez, delegate from Venezuela, in a fiery speech denounced the whole policy of the United States Government in Latin American countries. In Santo Domingo, Panama and Guatemala, he said, the history of American intervention had been similar to that in Nicaragua and Haiti. The Monroe Doctrine was a beautiful ideal, but it had been used as a cloak to cover a policy of imperialism and intimidation.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who is presiding at the congress, declared in reply that the Pan-American Federation could not be a clearing house for all the grievances suffered by the Latin American republics. To attempt it, he said, would be to injure the cause the federation is trying to help.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was re-elected president of the Pan-American Federation of Labor and Havana, Cuba, was chosen as the place for the next convention.
